FOUR NEW COUNTY OFFICIALS ASSUME PLACES

WRIGHT, BROOKES, BYE AND KELLY TAKE JOBS AS OLD OFFICERS QUIT

Changes Made in Personnel as Sheriff Gomer E. Lewis, Prosecutor Jesse C. Hanley and Commissioners Patrick McNicol and John F. Kerr Relinquish Posts in Courthouse.

APPOINTEES OF LAW ENFORCEMENT DEPARTMENTS QUALIFY WITH CHIEFS

County Treasurer, Clerk of Courts, Recorder and Surveyor Will Not be Sworn in Until Later in Year—Probate Judge Lodge Riddle Begins Second Term in February.

Four of the newly elected county officers, chosen at the November election, assumed the reins of office today.

George Wright, Lisbon, field deputy for the last four years, succeeded Gomer Lewis as sheriff. His appointees are: Lawrence Kindsvatter, East Liverpool, former patrolman, who will be field deputy; Frank Ballentine, office deputy, and David Eells, turnkey at the county jail. Ballentine will remain as office deputy until July, when he will become clerk of courts, succeeding John T. Burns.

Robert M. Brookes, East Liverpool, assistant prosecuting attorney for four years under J. C. Hanley, became county prosecutor. His assistant, Attorney J. E. Bauknecht, city solicitor of East Palestine, also qualified today.

The board of county commissioners will have two new members, terms of Patrick McNicol, of this city, and John F. Kerr, of Salineville, having expired. They are: J. C. Kelly, former city engineer here, and Frank Bye, of Negley. The third member of the board is Conrad Berg, Leetonia, who will be chairman.

Others Qualify in Fall.

Probate Judge Lodge Riddle of Lisbon will begin his second term as head of the Probate court on Monday, February 9.

County treasurer Jo Pike, of Lisbon, and County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk, of Salineville, will begin their second terms and Recorder-elect Paul Smith, of Lisbon, will assume his duties early in the fall. Mrs. Myrle Reark Stoffel of East Liverpool, will serve until fall as recorder, filling the unexpired term of her late father, John Reark.

1,071 Prisoners in Four Years

During the four years which Sheriff Lewis has been in office at Lisbon, 1,071 prisoners have been received at the county jail. This is said to be a new high record. Mr. Lewis turned over to his sucessor, George Wright, 36 prisoners. When William Dairymple left office four years ago he turned over 13 prisoners to Mr. Lewis.

All of the eight cells at the county jail are occupied. Many times the jail has been taxed to capacity, but never yet has it been found necessary to refuse a prisoner. Prisoners housed in the county jail during the last four years were charged with all degrees of crime from murder down to petty larceny.

Wellsville Loses 5-cent Fare Fight In Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The cities of Hubbard and Wellsville, Ohio, lost in the supreme court of the United States today their suits to maintain effective their ordinances restricting street car fares within certain limits to five cents a passenger.

The interstate commerce commission ordered increases in the fares to a parity with intrastate fares by the Pennsylvania Power and Light company and the Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction company, each of which lines cross from Ohio into Pennsylvania. The commission held there was unjust discrimination in the five-cent fare ordinances to other communities.

Lower courts enjoined enforcement of the commission order and it appealed to the United States supreme court. The latter held the interstate commerce commission had authority under law to regulate interurban railways doing an interstate business. Associate Justice McReynolds dissented.

Earl L. Mast, 36, Wellknown Here, is Dead in Zanesville

Earl L. Mast, 36 years old, for the last 16 years engaged in Y. M. C. A. work, is dead today in the home of his father, Emmanuel Mast, Greenwood avenue, Zanesville, relatives were advised.

Mr. Mast, who was well known here, was a member of the Sigma Pi fraternity and Alzafar Shrine and was a thirty-second degree Mason. He was affiliated with the Methodist Episcopal church of Billings, Mont.

Besides his wife, nee Hazel Rigby, formerly of East Liverpool, he leaves two sons, Rigby and Earl Jr.; his father, mother, two brothers and two sisters, all of Zanesville.

His subject will be "Working for Dear Life." He will show a one-reel wealth picture in connection with his address. Gus Bendheim will act as chairman of the meeting.

Ralph Emmons Goes To Columbus for Legislative Meet

State Representative Ralph Emmons, East Rochester, left Saturday for Columbus, to attend the opening meeting of the Ohio legislature, which convened today.

Emmons proposes to introduce several measures at this session, but he said he would withhold the subject of these bills until they were ready for presentation.

He is known to favor legislation providing for the appointment of one of more traffic officers for main traveled highways in the county and also giving sheriffs authority to purchase motorcycles for such officers.

OHIO ASSEMBLY OFFICERS ARE NAMED AT MEET

Senate and House Leaders Urge Short Session.

BILLS DRAFTED

Caucus Selections are Ratified by Two Branches.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 5.—The 86th general assembly of Ohio opened in regular session today.

Although the legislators are confronted with difficult task of endeavoring to solve a number of important governmental problems and will be subjected to considerable pressure by advocates of numerous proposed enactments, senate and house leaders have voiced their desire for as short a session as possible.

Today's session in both senate and house was marked by organization of the respective legislative branches. If the plans of representative Silver, Preble county, Republican speaker-elect are carried out bills will be introduced in the house late today.

Oaths Administered.

With secretary of state Brown presiding in the house and Lieut. Gov. Bloom in the senate the legislature convened at 10 A. M. House members were sworn in by Chief Justice Marshall of the state supreme court.

U. S. MARINES WILL QUIT NICARAGUA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—A new era of friendly relations between the United States and Latin-American nations was envisioned today when the state and navy departments, acting under instructions from President Coolidge began the necessary negotiations for the withdrawal of American marines from Nicaragua. When the withdrawal is completed the only any Latin-American country will be the small detail maintained in Haiti.

No definite date has been set for the actual withdrawal but it will take place sometime this month as assurances were given Nicaragua a year ago that the marines would leave in January if the elections in October were conducted legally and order was maintained.

Shouts of "Amnesty" Halt Ebert Speech As Reichstag Meets

BERLIN, Jan. 5—Riotous scenes attended the opening of the Rischstag today. During President Ebert's address, Communists interrupted the president with shouts of "Amnesty, free the prisoners."

President Ebert called the house to order, but no sooner was quiet restored when a Communist party rose and started a speech in behalf of the radical prisoners. Ebert peremptorily ordered the speech stopped.

PATROLMAN HELD ON RUM CHARGE

CLEVELAND, Jan. 5.—Patrolman Leo Dilley, wanted in Cleveland to answer a federal charge of violation of the liquor laws, and who fled from Cleveland two days before Christmas, was arrested in Alliance today. Dilley will be brought back to Cleveland for trial during the month.

POSTAL SALARY MEASURE VETO BATTLE OPENS IN WASHINGTON

Administration Faces Legislative Showdown in Congress.

PARTY IS SPLIT

First Test Will Come on Move to "Recommit" Bill.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—For the first time since its landslide victory last November, the administration today faced a legislative showdown in congress over the fiscal policies of President Coolidge.

The clash impended when the Senate began consideration of the Postal salary bill, which President Coolidge vetoed last spring. The administration sought to avoid the showdown by an effort to substitute the new compromise bill for the vetoed measure. The compromise bill would provide the same wage increases for postoffice employes as contained in the vetoed bill, but would raise the $68,000,000 needed revenue by levying increased postal rates.

Outcome in Doubt.

Administration leaders were behind the compromise bill, but the file of the Republican party was badly split. Many administration senators were opposed to the substitution on the ground that such a move would defeat the pay increases. If substituted, they pointed out, the bill would have to be acted upon by the House and with a jammed legislative calendar, its final passage March 4 would be problematical.

The first test will come upon an ad-

Telephone Co. Crew Labors 36 Hours To Repair Cable

After 36 hours of continuous labor, a cable crew of the Ohio Bell Telephone company, at 3 o'clock this morning completed repairs to an underground cable, which was flooded Saturday afternoon, affecting approximately 100 telephones in the business district.

As a result of clogged drains, surface water drained into one of the telephone company's manholes in Diamond alley, east of Market street. The water seeped through one of the big cables, carrying approximately 100 wire connecting lines in the business district east of Market street, putting the phones out of commission.

The cable crew, after the trouble had been located, worked throughout Saturday night, all day Sunday and through part of Sunday night making the repairs. The underground sewer was first pumped dry and the big cable pulled to the surface before the repairs could be made.

Service over the lines was re-established Monday morning.

AMBROSE GRAFTON PRISONER HERE

Captain of Police Mason Conley arrived here Saturday from Indianapolis, Ind., with Ambrose Grafton, former local potter, against whom charges of abandonment and non-support are pending in the probate court at Lisbon.

Grafton, who eluded the police for nearly three years, was arrested in Indianapolis, Wednesday, upon a tip received from Boston, his former home. His wife and three children reside here.

100 Adjusted Compensation Certificates Received Here

Twenty-year Policies are Distributed to World War Veterans Who Were Among First to File Applications.

First of the federal adjusted service certificates for veterans of the World war, in compliance with the adjusted compensation act, passed at the last session of congress, arrived here Saturday night and were distributed today. One hundred were in the lot.

Approximately 600,000 applications have already been approved by the Adjusted Compensation Division of the United States Veterans' bureau and the certificates were forwarded January 1.

The certificates are printed on bonded paper, similar to that used in making currency. The policies, of the 20-year endowment type, are payable January 1, 1945.

Approximately 2,000,000 of the 4,500,000 men, who served in the World war have applied for adjusted compensation. The applications are coming in on an average of 12,000 daily, a noticeable increase over the average of a few months ago when the department started a campaign to urge veterans to file their applications.

Time Limit for Filing.

Applications to share under the provisions of the act may be filed up to January 1, 1928. Many of the applications have been returned because of faulty finger prints or for other corrections. Claims of about 15,000 have been disallowed.

Cash payments to veterans who served four months or less will be made after March 1. All others will receive the compensation certificate, payable at the end of 20 years. The policy, however, has a loan value at any bank, after being in effect for two years or more.

Officials of East Liverpool post No. 4, American Legion, estimate that approximately 600 of the community's 1,000 ex-service men have filed applications. The legion has designated Monday and Saturday evenings when applications will be handled at the post's headquarters, 633 Dresden avenue. Applicants are requested to bring their discharge papers with them to facilitate the work of filling out the application blanks.

DAUM APPELL IS ASSESSED $2,000 ON TWO DRY LAW CHARGES HERE

MAN IS SLAIN IN LIQUOR WAR

Cleveland Grocer Stabbed 14 Times and Shot in Thigh.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 5.—The brutal slaying of Adam Rapenchuk, 37, while waiting on two "customers" in his grocery here today took on the aspects of another casualty in the bootleggers' war as detectives began their investigation. Rapenchuk was stabbed 14 times with an ice pick and shot in the thigh as he stooped over to get apples one of his assailant's ordered.

Detectives in search of their files found that the murdered man had been arrested twice recently by two dry agents working out of offices of justices of peace here.

The murder was immediately linked with that of Louis Rosen and Joseph Eidelman which occurred in November. Rosen, claimed by police to have been a "master bootlegger," and Eidelman, his brother-in-law, here on a visit from Philadelphia, were murdered in Rosen's garage early one morning by three men who were never found. Scores of suspects were brought into detective headquarters for questioning, but no tangible clues developed.

A description of Rapenchuk's slay-

$600,000 Fire Sweeps Pittsburgh Building; Probe Under Way

PITSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 55—Fire Marshal Thomas Pfarr, has started an investigation to determine the origin of the fire which today swept the seven-story building of I. Robins and Company, 627 Penn avenue, causing damage of at least $600,000, forced seven families from their homes and for a time threatened the entire block. Pfarr said the damage might amount to $1,000,000.

Today's was the third fire within recent years and firemen declared it seemed to have started in two places at once.

Raid on Campground Farm Nets 50 Gallons of Liquor, Eight Barrels of Mash and 25-Gallon Still.

What is declared by the police to have been one of the largest and most complete liquor-making plants seized in this section since the advent of state-wide prohibition, was confiscated in a raid on a house situated on what is known as the Billingsley farm on the Camp Ground Road about 10 o'clock Saturday night.

As a result of the raid, Daum Appell, said to be a railroad worker, is in the city jail today in default of a $2,000 fine, assessed against him on charges of manufacturing and possessing intoxicating liquors. Appell, who was arrested in the Diamond about an hour after the raid took place, pleaded guilty when arraigned before Mayor Charles Brown on Saturday night.

Acting on a tip received at police headquarters that a still was being operated at the house, about a mile beyond the city limits, Patrolman McFarland and a squad of special police swooped down upon the place. Appell was not at home at the time, but in the upstairs of the house was found a 25-gallon still in operation. Fifty gal-

FRENCH PLAN NOT SUITABLE BASIS TO PAY FOUR BILLIONS

Ambassador Herrick Sends "Memorandum" From Clementel.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

WASHINGTON, January 5.—France's much-heralded "proposition" for the funding of her $4,000,000,000 war debt to the United States was officially revealed today as only an empty gesture, which for the present does not afford a suitable basis on which serious funding negotiations can be begun.

TAKE 2 FRENCH roomotwhile39

The communication which Ambassador Herrick forwarded to the state department over the week-end was not addressed to the American government nor did it come from the French government, but was a "personal memorandum" from Finance Minister Clementel which contained no definite nor concrete suggestions for payment.

U. S. Asserts Rights.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—The British cabinet took under consideration today America's note which, it is understood, states frankly that the United States has a "legal right" for payment of its war claims through the Dawes reparation plan.

The note was received by the foreign office today and sent immediately to the cabinet. The American note was a reply to the British note of last Wednesday.

Out of the cabinet meeting was expected to come a definite statement of policy, not only on America's war claim, but also on the Franco-American debt and war debts in general.

Italy's Situation Serious.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—Private advices from Italy said that the internal situation there was extremely serious, with both fascists and anti-fascists in the smaller towns aroused to a high pitch.

Conflicts are likely to break out at any moment and the police do not know what course to follow, these advices said. Large numbers of police stood by and watched the fascisti wreck the Nuvo Giornale, a newspaper of Florence, fearing to take a stand against the mob.

It is reported Mussolini plans to create a directory of three—himself and two generals—and impose martial law as a means of bringing order to Italy, but this is believed unlikely, at least at present.

There were evidences in London today that the heavy censorship in Italy is being maintained, if not tightened. News of the trouble there is subject to long delays in transmission.

Mussolini Stakes All on Throw.

ROME, Jan. 5.—Premier Benito Mussolini today stood in the position

Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin Stars In Role of Mother

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—"It's a girl. Both getting along nicely."

This was the word today from the Michael Reese hospital here where Mrs. Frederick McLaughlin, formerly Irene Castle of dancing fame, is starring in a new role.

Her daughter, who it is said will be named for the mother, weighed seven pounds. It is Mrs. McLaughlin's first child although she has been married three times, first to Vernon Castle, dancer and British aviation ace, killed in Texas while instructing American flyers, and then to Captain Robert E. Tremain whom she divorced in Paris. She married McLaughlin Thanksgiving eve, 1923.

NELLIE ROSS, FIRST OF HER SEX EVER TO OCCUPY HIGH OFFICE, BECOMES GOVERNOR OF WYOMING

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Jan. 5. — In a brief, simple ceremony that occupied less than half an hour, Nellie Taylor Ross today became governor of Wyoming—the first member of her sex ever to occupy so high an office by the expressed will of the people.

Only by accident of royal birth or by conquest has such an exalted position ever before been obtained by a woman—although the event will be duplicated later this month when Mrs. Miriam (Ma) Ferguson is installed as governor of Texas.

The inauguration ceremony was entirely without pomp or ostentation, in keeping with the insistent demands of Wyoming's new chief executive, who is still bowed with grief over the death of her husband, the late Governor W. B. Ross whom she succeeds in office.

Gowned in a garment of mourning, Mrs. Ross appeared in the senate chamber at the Wyoming state capitol building and before a quitely subdued gathering of friends and well wishers took the oath of office, administered by Chief Justice Charles N. Potter, of the Wyoming supreme court.

The tragic circumstances—her husband's sudden death in October, which brought about her nomination and election—precluded any merriment or show at the inauguration of Mrs. Ross. No special invitations were extended for the ceremony, but the public generally was welcomed, and the senate chamber was well filled when the "sorrowful lady" was inducted into office.

There was no inaugural reception, although all the State officials were present in the chamber.

There will be no inaugural ball or festivities of a nature that have been usual at the the Wyoming state house in the evening of the day upon which the induction of a Governor into office occurs.

Immediately after leaving the senate chamber after taking the oath of office, Mrs. Ross went to the governor's suite and entered upon her duties as chief executive.

The Wyoming legislature will convene in regular biennial session on January 13, eight days hence. There is a constitutional limitation of forty days in which the legislature can remain in session. The lawmakers, therefore, must work diligently, and Mrs. Ross will have ample official business to occupy her attention from the very inception of her term.

The legislature—in both houses—is Republican by a slight margin, while Mrs. Ross is a Democrat.

Southern School Democrat.

Nellie Taylor Ross is the tenth governor of Wyoming elected by the people and the fourteenth person to serve as chief executive of the state. Her term will exire the first Monday in January, 1927. She will serve for two years, filling out the four-year team for which her husband was elected.

In politics Mrs. Ross is a Democrat of the southern school, the daughter of pronounced Democratic parents. At the general election Nov. 4, 1924, her majority was approximately 8,000. She received the largest vote of any candidate on any ticket, although Wyoming, normally a Republican state, went strongly Republican on all offices but governor. At the general election of 1922 William B. Ross was elected by a plurality of but 723.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross were a devoted couple, and the remarkable distinction that has come to her has in no measure assuaged her grief because of his untimely death. She has repeatedly declared that in the performance of her official duties she will constantly endeavor to carry out the policies of her husband and honor his memory by serving the people conscientiously in all things. During her term of office

Respective pastors and church choirs will participate in the services.

Nellie Ross

she will undoubtedly be confronted by many problems, but is is the belief of those who know her that she possesses the acumen, good judgment and courage to meet and dispose of them in a judicious and satisfactory manner. While she, like her late husband, is a Democrat in politics, she has a multitude of Republican friends and some honest capable Republican advisers.

Mrs. Ross is a refined, educated, comely and stylish woman, a brunette with blue eyes, of medium height and build, graceful in cariage and about 44 years of age. She has three sons, two of them—Ambrose and George—being twins, just past 21 years of age. The other, Bradford, is a boy of 14.

Mrs. Ross received her certificate of election from the state canvassing board on December 13, but could not qualify as Governor, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of her husband until January 5, 1925, the first Monday of that month.

She will receive a salary of $6,000 per annum.

"Moving Day for Bryan."

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Jan. 5.—Governor elect George H. Dern will take his oath of office and begin his four year term as chief executive of Utah at noon today. Governor Dern is the second Democratic governor of Utah in the state's history.

LINCOLN, Neb. 5.—Today was "moving day" for Charles W. Bryan, Democratic candidate for vice-president in the November election. He retires as governor of Nebraska and vacated the executive mansion to make way for Adam McMullen, his Republican successor. Bryan, who attracted national interest by his "trust busing" activities in the marketing of coal by the state of Nebraska, will continue his fuel business in private life.

Daum Appell

lons of corn whisky, part of which police say was tripled istilled; eight barrels of mash, pumps, and other equipment used in the manufacture of the liquor were seized. The still, which was fired by acetylene gas distilled a gallon of liquor an hour, police say.

Question Man In House.

The raiders questioned a man found in the house, but did not arrest him. He was ordered to appear before the mayor this afternoon for further examination. He declared that he had been employed by Appell to remove the wall paper from the downstairs rooms, but police claim he had been left in charge of the still during Appell's absence.

Patrolman James Haley arrested Appell as he was driving through the Diamond about 11 o'clock Saturday night. In his car an empty five-gallon jug and an empty five gallon can were found.

Mayor Brown said that this is Appell's second violation of the liquor laws, he having been arrested and fined before Mayor James Barnes, in Wellsville, about a year ago. The fine assesed against him here, $1,000 on each of the two counts, is the minimum allowed for a second offense under the provisions of the Crabbe act.

The police say that Appell purchased the farm about two months ago, paying $100 cash and the balance at the rate of $30 a month. His automobile, it is claimed, is also mortgaged.

Friends today were endeavoring to raise the money to pay Appell's fine. Unless the fine is paid before Tuesday, he will be committed to the county jail at Lisbon.

French Plan

of a man who has staked all on one throw of the dice.

With a strong show of Fascist force and a continued campaign of suppression and confiscation of the opposition press, he was attempting "to clear the situation in 48 hours" as he promised, urging the identical methods which swept Fascism into power in 1922.

To his friends, to the Fascist press and to independent newspapers, his action was the only alternative of a great leader who had done his best to conciliate his enemies and had met with continued rancor.

To his enemies, the partial mobilization of the Black Shirts, and the ruthless confiscation of opposition newspapers, were a final dramatic gesture of a leader whose popularity was waning.

Large Crowds Hear Evangelist Lockhart At Church of Christ

Fourteen Persons Answer Invitation at Opening of Campaign — "Billy" Lockhart and Mr. and Mrs. Harbinson Assist.

Capacity crowds attended the opening services of the evangelistical campaign at the First Church of Christ, Sunday. The meetings are in charge of Evangelist W. J. Lockhart, his son "Billy," Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Harbinson, all of Des Moines, Iowa, and Rev. B. R. Johnson, pastor of the church.

Fourteen persons answered the invitation at the first day's services. Mrs. Harbinson won favorable comment at Sunday's services by her masterly work at the piano. Mr. Harbinson pleased with two solos, "A Soul Winner for Jesus," and "The Golden Bells."

The young people's work in connection with the revival is being directed by "Billie Lockhart, who is just out of high school. The young man will enter Drake University next fall to prepare himself for the ministry.

Evangelist Lockhart is yet a young man, full of vigor and faith. "I am just an ordinary man, just an old fashioned preacher of an old fashioned gospel," said the speaker in his Sunday evening discourse.

He classed preachers, deacons, elders, class leaders, Sunday school teachers and the ordinary laymen all together and put them in the balances, and weighed then, and when he was through there was no boasting that he did not get his."

"There are five great outstanding sins in every community," said the evangelist. They are now five separate sins, but they are like the five fingers on your right hand; they are five sins in one clutching at the very heart life of the nation. You people in East Liverpool are no worse than the average American community. If I mistake not in my first judgment, you have been caught in the tidal wave of indifference and sin that has swept the nation in the past five years. These five sins are dishonesty infidelty, the desecration of God's Holy Day, bootlegging and booze fighting, and the damning and blighting social sin.

"We need an old-fashioned revival of plain downright honesty in America. The spirit of "getting by with it" whether it is right or wrong must give way in this nation. The shoddy, cheap articles of manufactures that have been put out and sold for high prices; the disposition to demand big wages and then give only a half-hearted day service; the tendency to take the bankrupt law and get out of being responsible for debts that ought to be honorably paid, all this is indicative of the need for more honest dealings.

"The desecration of God's Holy day with picture shows and vaudevilles and wild west shows and carnivals and excursions and picnics and fishing and hunting and the forsaking of God's house and the turning the Lord's day into a holiday is an outstanding tendency that must be curbed or we shall lose our boasted place as a Christian nation. The bootlegger and the booze fighter are nothing short of anarchists as they try to undermine and overthrow the constitutional law of the land. And the drift toward social looseness in recent years has been so flagrant as to threaten the very home life of the nation."

Tonight, Evangelist Lockhart will speak on "My Personal Faith or Why I Believe in the Bible."

Postal Salary

ministration move to "recommit" the vetoed bill with the President's message, to the senate postoffice committee. This would be the initial step in substituting the compromise legislation as the new bill would be acted on immediately and the vetoed measure permitted to die in a committee pigeonhole. Administration leaders, however, did not anticipate success.

If the administration is defeated, the real test then will come directly upon the President's veto and the outcome is in doubt. Under an agreement, a final vote will be reached by 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and there were indications the veto would be debated until that hour.

Democrats Rally Forces.

Democratic leaders rallied their forces to oppose recommitment of the vetoed bill or the substitution of the compromise measure in their desire to force a direct vote on the veto itself.

With support for the move coming from within the administration ranks, it was indicated they would succeed.

If the President's veto is overridden by a two-thirds vote of the Senate, the postal salary bill then will go to the House, in the lower branch, administration leaders admitted, it will be passed over the President's veto without serious opposition.

On the other hand if the President's disapproval is sustained by the Senate, there were indications the salary increases would not be written into law at this session. Administration spokesmen have announced they would abandon the legislation if the veto were upheld.

Ohio Woman, Shot, Forgives Husband Before She Dies

XENIA, O., Jan. 5—A charge of first degree murder will be placed against Forest Kennedy, 36, Cedarville laborer, in the event that he recovers from a self-inflicted wound fired Saturday after he had shot his wife, Chloe, 29, in a fit of jealous rage in their home. Mrs. Kennedy died Sunday.

Kennedy's recovery is doubtful. He is unaware of his wife's death, but sought and received her forgiveness through the medium of his nine-year-old daughter, Margaret, Sunday morning.

Last Week Will B. Quick sued his wife for divorce. It was the first action filed in this county in 1925 and proved Quick was true to his name, likewise Early was Quick.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Industrial stocks were subjected to heavy profit taking in the stock market today and the activities of the first hour represented largely the switching of speculative interest from high priced industrials to the oils and motors and to others which have not participated in the forward movement. In this "switching process" the oils received a large share of the buying public and large blocks of stocks of independent oil companies appeared in the sales lists at fractionally higher prices than at Saturday's close.

The market started off at a furious pace, brokers reporting themselves as literally swamped with orders from all section of the country. The erratic course of prices at the opening of the market showed that not all of these were buying orders. Traders were disposed to take profits on stocks which have been rushing headlong to higher price levels in recent sessions. Radio dropped three points at the opening; U. S. Steel, after advancing to above 130, sold down to 121¼; American Can lost three points at 165, and Westinghouse was down about two points. Rails were inactive but strong.

An advance of 1¼ per cent in the quotation of pound sterling and a rise in the wholesale commodity prices to above the 1925 peak were important pre-opening factors.

Oil stocks were again the leaders of a moderate forward movement in the low priced stocks, with interest centered in Cosden, Marland, Simms, Shell Union, California Pete., Skelly, Pure Oil, Pan-Americans and the listed Standard oils. Government reports showing the decline in the volume of stored oil products in 1924 to be the largest in the last five years were of special interest, in view of the heavy demand for gasoline and comparatively low production in all but the newly discovered fields. Atlantic Refining sold at 1.01¼, its advance to above 100 for the first time since its decline from 1.40 to 78½ last year.

Motor stocks were active and fairly strong with Studebaker, White and General Motors in the lead. A decline of six points in the stock of the New Electric Bond and Share Company on the curb was partly responsible for the decline in General Electric.

POLICE FUND SETS RECORD

Total of $21,249,26 Taken in by Mayor in 1924.

In addition to marking one of the most effective anti-liquor campaigns staged in Wellsville since the advent of Volsteadean legislation, the year 1924 also established record breaking fines and collections in police court here, according to records announced today by Mayor James S. Barnes.

From January 1, 1924, to December 31, 1924, Mayor Barnes collected the sum of $21,249.26, it was announced.

Spread over the 12 months of the period, the total represents an average of a little more than $1,750 for each 30-day period.

However, the collections did not run evenly throughout the year, the high spots being touched during the second and third months of Mayor Barnes' administration, when several thousands were taken in, principally from big fines.

POLAND FEARS WARFARE WITH RUSSIAN REDS

EXPECT RIOTING

Military Governors, Despite Powers, Fail to Check Unrest.

WARSAW — Revolutionary outbreaks similar to the recent unsuccessful Communist uprising in Esthonia are feared in Eastern Poland at any time. Polish frontier guards on the Russian border engage in sporadic fighting with well-equipped flying columns of insurrectionists who come, apparently, from Soviet Russia.

More than 5,000,000 White Russians and Ukranians, who inhabit the district, oppose Polish rule over them, a fact which complicates the problem of patrolling the border. Most of the local population regard the brigands who make incursion into Poli[illegible] tory as national heroes, fi[illegible] the freedom of the countr[illegible] imposed Polished rule.

Appointment of military governors with extraordinary pawers has failed to put down the unrest. The question of martial law for the border districts will be discussed shortly in the Polish Diet.

Soviet propaganda, which is even pronounced since the rebuff administered to the Soviets by the British Conservative Government, has been responsible for keeping the revolutionary spirit alive. The propaganda falls on fertile ground, for the Ukranians and White Russians, who comprise the bulk of the population of the doubtful districts, differ from the Poles in both language and religion, and consider the Poles only temporary occupants of their country.

The possibility of armed conflict between Poland and Soviet Russia to settle the status of the inhabitants of the border districts is generally realized by Polish leaders. Soviet Russia regards herself a high protector of the Slavic national minorities in Poland. A Polish-Soviet war could hardly be localized. It would draw in at least the other states carved out of former Western Russia after the war and might lead to a more general conflagration.

"Poland cannot disarm while her neighbors are in arms from tip to toe," War Minister Sikorski declared in the Diet. "The Soviets, during the last six months, have raised fifteen new infantry divisions in addition to the old sixty-two divisions. The Soviets have an air fleet of 100 squardons, which they are increasing daily. Russian factories in the last few months have constructed fifty airplanes. In addition the Soviets have purchased 1,000 airplanes from abroad."

Mixup In States.

When attacked by pain in the back (lumbago), or limbs, neuritis, or shooting pains anywhere, it indicates usually that the kidneys are not working properly—not eliminating as they should the poisonous uric acid from the blood.

You may be nervous, despondent, sick, feverish, irritable, spots appearing before the eyes, and lacking all ambition. The latest and most effective means of overcoming such trouble is to drink plenty of water between meals and to take a single An-uric (anti-uricacid) tablet before each meal for a while.

An-uric was originated at the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., by Dr. Pierce, Pres., after observation and treatment of thousands of kidney cases. Get An-uric at any drug store or send 10c to Dr. Pierce at above address for a trial package.

Only One Japanese Earns More Than Million Annually

TOKIO.—Japan has only one man whose annual income exceeds $1,000,000, according to income tax statistics just made public.

This man is Baron Hisaya Iwasaki, president of Mitsubishi Goshi Kaishi, probably the largest importing and exporting form in Japan. His annual income is given as 2,190,000 yen, which at par would amount to $1,097,000. He pays an income tax of approximately $275,000 annually.

Next in line is Baron K. Iwasaki, a member of the same family as Baron Hisaya Iwasaki, who has an annual income of $594,000 and pays a tax of $28,000. Third place is held by Baron H. Mitsui, head of the famous Mitsui family, whose annual income is $391,000, with an annual tax of about $87,000.

In all there are twenty men in Japan with annual incomes in excess of $200,000 who pay income tax in excess of $45,000 each annually.

Lodge Emblems Now Weapons

Owing to the frequency of holdups an ingenius inventor has worked out an idea that may be useful. It is to make lodge pins and other coat lapel adornments carry charges of red pepper which will be discharged whenever the wearer meets a "hands up" operator on a dark night. The mechanism connects the spring to the coat sleeve so that whenever the arms go above a certain level the pepper will be discharged. Strap hangers in street cars would have to be careful.

Stop and Look

Prompted by the fact that the victims of two automobile fatalities in Columbiana county in 1924 in which coroner's verdicts were rendered were East Liverpool men, not to mention the scores of accidents, a few of them fatal, in which no investigation was required on the part of the county official, the police repartment here has decided upon a rigid enforcement of traffic regulations.

Warning has been given motorists that they must stop at all street intersections, instead of dashing into traffic lanes, thus imperilling not only pedestrians, but also other motorists who expect fellow car operators to pay some attention to rules and regulations for driving. And, too, autoists who make a practice of parking cars in restricted areas and those who use the streets for all-night garages are to be brought before the court to explain their violations of the city ordinance. The police also have been instructed to arrest drivers who ignore one-way street signs.

And it would not be amiss if a clause were inserted in the traffic code, requiring pedestrians to look before they dart across street intersections. And, too, they should be warned against the dangerous practice of crossing at any point.

Nearly 1,000 persons were killed in Ohio last year by automobiles. With the increasing number of cars in use, the toll during 1925 will be greater unless more precaution is exercised by motorists and pedestrians. A few arrests and meting out of fines and jail sentences should prove effective in checking the appalling toll.

Military Athletics

Officers, it seems, have been mopolizing army athletics. A change for the benefit of enlisted men is planned under the three-year program recently developed by the war department, effective January 1.

Under the new regime only one officer will be allowed to play on any given team, with the exceptions of golf, tennis and polo. Baseball, football and basketball are to be kept open for the rank and file.

Hereafter there will be athletic contests between teams from the various army corps areas, with schedules arranged between them and marines and naval men stationed near.

Dissatisfaction of enlisted men with the present trend of army athletics and a tightening of congressional purse strings are said to have been the two deciding factors in this change of athletic plans.

Many civilians know nothing about army athletics. They realize vaguely that sports are as useful in their way as military drill is in its way, and they assume that the army and navy play in the proper time and place. That complications arise between officers and enlisted men in the realm of sports rarely occurred to any private citizen. Yet here is the quietly announced new regime in sports with its suggestion that democracy is difficult to maintain even in the athletics of a military organization.

Motor Against Locomotive

The difficulty of suburban trolley lines in meeting motor competition is an old story. It is something new to find a railroad having the same trouble. The Boston and Maine has been so hard hit that it proposes to junk 1,000 miles of track out of its 2,500 miles.

It is, naturally, the branch lines that have suffered and are to be lopped off. So much of the passenger traffic on those branches has taken to automobiles and so much of the freight to trucks that the 1,000 miles in question has come to handle only 3 per cent of the system's business.

The railroad will not abandon the small communities served by the discarded mileage. Instead, it will provide trucks and busses for them. To this end it has organized the Boston and Maine Transportation company, as a subsidiary of its steam lines.

How many railroads will do that sooner or later?

The Nobel committee can't find anybody deserving a peace prize this year. Plenty of people deserving war prizes!

If it is true, as devotees say, that the cross-word puzzle dates back 2,000 years before Christ, we know now why Egypt decayed and Babylon fell.

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

UNCLE SAM'S MANY ISLANDS—I

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The American flag flies over more than 7,000 islands out in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. This is a figurative statement, for, of course, a good many of the islands are small, insignificant affairs without houses, people or flag poles. But the fact remains that the United States is responsible for the peace, security and general welfare of 7,083 islands of the Philippines, and also for American Samoa, Guam, the Virgin Islands and Porto Rico.

The fourteen million or more inhabitants of these insular possessions are very much interested in the United States. The children learn at school about George Washington and other American heroes. The people take an interest in the affairs of the United States and in its progress. But they are sometimes surprised and disappointed to discover that Americans know so much less about them than they know about the Americans.

For instance, how many of us are following the present situation in the Virgin Islands, where the Volstead prohibition act has meant a great deal more than a shortage in drinks.

The Virgin Islands are part of the West Indies. They lie in the Atlantic ocean to the east of Cuba and Porto Rico. The United States bought the islands from Denmark for $25,000,000 because of the fact that they easily command the east entrance to the Panama canal. The navy department was put in charge of them.

Most Americans probably thought that we were picking up another bargain like Alaska and that gold mines and profitable industries would immediately be discovered, for our national luck along that line is proverbial.

But the Virgin Islands are not very fertile. They are inhabited by about 25,000 West Indian natives, and about 1,000 white residents. Sugar cane is grown on St. Croix, which is one of the three large islands. But the industry has no advantages which would help it to compete easily with cane from more fertile plantations. The sugar cane industry needs a plentiful water supply, and the Virgin Islands still depend on wells for water. The United States is planning to establish a water supply system with conduits and reservoirs, which will greatly help the sugar industry. One hundred and twenty-five million dollars has been requested for this purpose in the annual budget bill before congress.

ST. THOMAS BAY-RUM

But to return to the present difficulty, St. Thomas, the largest of the Virgin Islands, had one steady and profitable crop, and that was the bay leaves which grow in profusion there. The St. Thomas bay-rum was famous and held its own in any market.

When prohibition put a stop to the manufacture of preparations containing pure alcohol, St. Thomas was hard hit. It has continued to make bay-rum, using such materials as the prohibition law would permit, but the British islands of the West Indies have seized the opportunity to stress the point that their bay-rum is made from pure alcohol, and consequently the Virgin Islands are seriously handicapped in marketing their product.

In addition to the other troubles of the Virgin Islands, a hurricane caused damage amounting to $115,000 beyond all the insurance. The storm swept the bay leaves off the trees and set the bay-rum industry back still further.

St. Thomas has had one other important source of income and strangely enough it too was attacked at its base for a time by the Volstead act.

St. Thomas is the first port of call for ships passing the West Indies on the way to Europe. The American prohibition rules at first would not permit ships carrying liquor to come into an American port, and consequently such ships passed by St. Thomas and stopped off at some other island. The loss in trade was a serious matter, but, later, regulations were amended to allow ships to enter the port so long as their liquor cargoes remained sealed.

Still, the Virgin Islands are having rather a hard time. A great many of the natives are leaving the islands and are going to the Harlem district of New York, and to other parts of the United States.

The natural question to ask is: What is the United States going to do to help the islands? It always seems as if some overlooked resource must be the magic key to prosperity, but economic difficulties cannot always be solved politically. The navy department says that an up-to-date water supply is the most practical help which can be given to the Virgin Islands just now.

Just a step from these islands is Porto Rico, which has a population of 1,300,000. When the United States took over Porto Rico in 1898 it had been under Spanish rule for four centuries. There was no established public school system, only private institutions.

In 1898 80 per cent of the people could not read or write. Only 8 per cent of the children between five and 17 years of age went to school. By 1920 illiteracy was reduced to 55 per cent and more than 45 per cent of the children were attending school.

The people of Porto Rico are so eager to learn that the schools are always overcrowded and most of them are run in double sessions. More than 1,000,000 of the Porto Ricans live in rural districts, and bringing education to the interior mountain country of the island is an expensive and difficult task. Yet about 2,000 rural schools have been completed.

Much of the mountain country is still inaccessible, but the insular government is spending a million dollars a year in building roads, and another million on maintenance of the highway system. The island is proud of its roads, which are among the best under the American flag, and the saying is that the Americans who visit Porto Rico admire most of all the beautiful women and the fine roads.

Some of the visitors are surprised to find that almost three-fourths of the Porto Rican population are white people of Spanish descent. Twenty-eight per cent of the people are of colored stock.

Porto Rico is making progress in agriculture and industry, but it has its problems.

WAGE SCALE IS TOO LOW

The governor of the island says that no one who has carefully observed the labor situation in Porto Rico can be fully satisfied with existing conditions, even though they are certainly improving. The wage scale is far below that in any of the states, and is too small, the governor says, to permit the wage-earner with a family to live in comfort and educate his children.

Unemployment is a constant condition. The sugar workers have less than six months' work during the year, and the coffee workers have a still shorter season. It is rare to find a workman who can say that he has a steady job all the yearr ound. Yet the efforts of agricultural agents are gradually bringing about better conditions. People are being taught to improve their live stock, to rotate the crops, and to raise fruit and truck gardens.

The health of the people of Porto Rico is being safeguarded as completely as limited funds will allow. Tuberculosis has always been, and still is, the greatest menace to the health of Porto Ricans, and at present the death rate from this disease is not decreasing.

The health officials say that Porto Rico's tuberculosis sanitorium, which is doing fine work, is inadequate, but they are planning to enlarge it and to make still greater efforts to combat the disease which is being fought with such encouraging results in the United States.

Porto Rico has its own legislature and its own officials with the exception of the governor, who is appointed by the president of the United States. The island is under the supervision of the war department.

The status of some of the island possessions of the United States is hard to define. The United States has charge of a group of six of the Samoan Islands in the South seas. We have had these islands since 1900, but their exact political status has never been defined by congress.

Government officials do business on the principle that the Samoans are not citizens of the United States, but that they owe allegiance to the flag. The constitution and laws of the United States do not apply to them.

They are typical South Sea islands with all that the name implies in the way of beauty, color, luxuriant plant growth and indolent amiable people.

These tropic islands mean a good deal to the United States because of their strategic position at a crossroads of the Pacific.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By ALICE LANGELIER.

PARIS, Jan. 5.—It was a red letter day in the history of the National Academy of Music and Dance when the cinema came to the Opera house in Paris last night.

The Gala drew together all the Parisian elite of letters, arts, and even the president of the republic himself who, for the first time, assisted officially at the presentation of a film.

"The Miracle of the Wolves" is the first attempt of the "Society of Editons of Filmed Historical Novels" to bring to the screen and spread through the world the interesting history of France. "Film musical" was the way the program read, with Charles Dullin as Louis XI and the well-known Vanni-Marcoux as Charles le Temeraire.

Certain episodes, as that of the battle of Montlhery, or the seige of Beauvais, are pages from an epic. The film "premiere" was more than a pleasure for both ears and eyes, and placed the French cinema in the dignified place it deserves.

"Hot fish" instead of "hot dogs" is what automobile peddlers are selling in the streets of Paris these days. Upon the initiative of Monsieur Morain, chief of police, who is seeking all manner of means to fight against the H. C. L., automobiles selling fried fish at a low price are making the rounds of the city. The crowds about them seem to speak success for the fried fish flivver.

Much ado over an omelette—but why not, inasmuch as it has made one person very famous? It was M. Poulard, who has just died at Mont St. Michel, in Brittany.

He and his wife invented the famous recipe of the omelette which retained their name. Every year numbers of people go to the famous Mont, never leaving before having tasted the celebrated Poulard omelette, stuffed with potatoes and cooked in the best butter, an admirable dish which usually accompanies small crabs and roast beef.

Monsieur and Madame Poulard celebrated their golden wedding January 15, 1923. For many years they have been too old to make omelettes, but their daughters and granddaughters have kept up the tradition and all of them continue to make the famous Poulard omelette at the Mont St. Michel.

Women are beginning to turn toward pharmacy for a career, judging from the entries at the University of Paris. There are 33 more women inscribed for this faculty this year than in the year 1923. The department of letters still shows the largest number, 1,653 students, more than twice the number studying medicine. There are 643 studying law, 540 in science classes and 317 in pharmacy, hitherto almost neglected by women.

Americans who come to Paris in a year or so will have to look around the corner for their old friend, the celebrated Cafe de Paris, a well-known rendezvous on the Place de l'Opera. The Banque de Paris et des Pays-Bas will take possession within a short time of this cite, but luckily enough the cafe will only move a few steps away, just across the corner, in fact, to the building now occupied by Cooks' agency. The rent will be one of the highest in all Paris and the management one of the most costly. In reality, a better site could scarcely be found than that of the angle of the rue de la Paix and the avenue de l'Opera, just on the ragged edge of the boulevards.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Arose betimes and fashioned my stint before breakfast, something I have never done before and so gay I declared the rest of the day a holiday.

So to the Hippodrome where Mark Leuscher showed me a trained fox, but my dog in such a fenzy the animal was shy. Talked also to the elephant trainer who told me strange tales.

Afterward to lunch with William Johnston, the tayle writer, and afterward to a club and a group of us formed a spelling bee and out of nine I stood third from the winner, tripping up on "zygophylaccous"—a silly word anyway.

In the evening with my wife to Rube Goldberg's, where the men fell to cards and the women to mah jong and I lost very little, being very niggardly even in small gambling. So home late and to bed.

Speaking of poker, there is a tradition that my father in his coltish days was quite skilled in the national pastime. I remember once a week a group of men—Dr. Desmond, Uncle John Lincoln, Cousin Sennett Young and a few others would drop in at father's hotel. One by one they would drift off to room 36. That was the drummer's sample room. One day overcome by curiosity I burst into the room. Never before or since have I felt so unwelcome anywhere. They looked at me with annoyance and at each other guiltily. After that the door was always tightly locked.

Times have changed—at least in New York. Mothers and fathers now play poker with their sons and daughters and all smoke cigarettes together.

There is in New York a professional cabaret hostess who generally winds up the night by bringing gay roysterers home for breakfast. She is the idol of her parents—a real old-fashioned mother and father who have no knowledge of the night life of Broadway. The mother cooks the breakfast and the father does the serving. All their interest in life is centered in their butterfly daughter. And she is devoted to them.

The other night I had a family dinner with a vaudeville troupe known as The Cycling Blanks—the same as fictitious. Walter Kingsely, a vaudeville press agent, took me along with him. There was father, mother, two sons and a daughter who for 18 years have been doing a bicycle act in the halls. Most of the time they are on the road, but they keep up a home—a walk up apartment in the Forties. Rarely have I seen such family devotion. It was the sort of home where the mother was queen. She was anticipated in everything she tried to do by one of her children who did it for her. After dinner she sat in a big comfortable chair—one son on each arm and the daughter at her feet. Each year they take a six weeks' vacation and all go to the Maine woods together to hunt and fish.

I don't suppose expert bicycle riders receive much applause in variety. Yet I believe they invariably hold the attention of the audience. Perhaps it has the interest of the auto race—the expectation of a spill. It is the same with performers on the bounding mat. You wonder what will happen if they miss the mat.

I notice, also, in a theatrical weekly that three county fair high divers have deserted their profession. They say the public is not interested any more. That is a pity! Few thrills outdo those few seconds when the diver on the high pedestal slowly topples forward to the small tank of water.

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

SUCCESS IS NOT EASY

A very intelligent young woman was asked—she having accomplished business success:

"What do you consider the qualities that make up success, first in a woman employed to work for others, and in a woman owning her own business, managing her employes and responsible for the success of an enterprise?"

The young woman in question has worked as employed and employer. Now she is resting, with a first-class husband.

Here are her answers that will interest the millions of women who work and the other millions who would like to work and be independent if they knew how to get at it.

WHY WOMEN WIN IN BUSINESS

First, she said, you must know that there is a great difference between working for yourself and working for others.

There's as much difference between an employer and an employe as there is between an entire pie and one piece cut out of it.

The employe must have certain qualities, but need not necessarily have all of the qualities that make up a successful business woman working for herself.

In the woman working for another, for instance, these are the three essentials:

First, she must be pleasant, in the literal meaning of the word pleasant, which is, "one that pleases another."

Second, she must be neat, agreeable to look at. All the better for her if, standing with three other women, the average intelligent customer walks up to her first rather than to the others.

If she pleases, the customer is pleased, and that is the foundation of commercial prosperity.

She must be quick. The only real property that we have, whether we are clerks or owners, is time.

Any woman who wastes her time wastes her money and that of her employer, just as certainly as though she were dropping money on the floor and not picking it up.

Third, she must have politeness, which is something more than pleasantness.

To be pleasant means not to offend.

But to be polite means more. It means to go out of your way, to do what the other person wishes. It means consideration for the feelings of others. It means understanding the emotions, the weaknesses, the desires of others.

Give a pleasant disposition, quickness in action and politeness, and you have a good, competent clerk.

SOME QUICK ANSWERS

But for the woman who is to run a business you need many things more.

She must be quick, without neglecting careful inspection of everything that she does with her quickness.

She must be able to thing while she acts. That is not always easy.

She must combine knowledge of men, with reasonable suspicion of those she does not know, and yet not so much suspicion as to make herself the object of suspicion.

She must fight, of course, against one particular quality in men which makes them feel that it is always right to cheat a woman if they can.

Men have an idea that it is almost a shame to let women have money and keep it—and a good deal of their time is spent when they deal with business women in developing plans for relieving them of their money.

A woman employing others must make it her business to know and understand those that work under her. You'll often find a business man or business woman thoroughly acquainted with the machinery of the business, the elevators, the lighting plant, entirely ignorant of the really important machiney, which is the collection of human beings whose combined inteligence and good or bad qualities accomplish the work.

There is not a business in the world of any size that hasn't standing behind its counters, or sitting at its desks, men and women of great capacity going to waste because of lack of understanding.

You would think little of a diamond merchant who did not know the value of every stone in his place, who did not know the stone with flaws and the pure white stone.

An employer who does not know the value of his working people is like a diamond merchant that can't tell the difference between a pure white, old mine stone and one with a touch of yellow.

The good employe is as valuable as the ruby from the crown of an Indian rajah. Such an employe should be encouraged, developed, supplied with opportunity and brought forward with gratitude and appreciation—as a diamond polisher, when he gets the rough stone, works on it and make it the thing that you see glistening on a woman's breast.

There is the employe with that faint yellow off-color touch that makes you know he'll never be the really fine gem of your collection. But he has his value; give him every chance, develop him as far as he will go. A wise diamond hunter doesn't throw away a stone because there is a bit of yellow in it.

Above all, the woman who employs others, whether they be men or women, must first of all know herself.

If you are bad-tempered, you must know it and try to control, or at least hide it.

If at a certain hour of the day you get tired, your temper leaves you and you give short answers and do not hear—go into your office and rest.

You must not let an imperfect machine be run in your business and interfere with it. If you see that you are becoming a poor machine—close up for repairs awhile and attend to yourself.

So spoke a wise, successful business woman.

There are a million opportunities for women in the United States—more than a million. Women are going to be more and more important in business.

On the [illegible] new Records

Movie Organist's First Records

In Chicago, they say people go to the movies just to hear Jesse Crawford play the organ. We understand why when we listen to four numbers by him this week. "Rose-Marie" is a well-known number and makes a fine piece of organ recording. With it is paired "Dreamer of Dreams."

How faithfully the records now catch the sonority and tone colors of the organ is again displayed on two more of Mr. Crawford's recordings. "Somewhere a Voice Is Calling" and Schubert's "Serenade" are the media for two successful interpretations.

A Pair of Waltzes

Jack Chapman and His Drake Hotel Orchestra spring a surprise in a waltz, "At the End of a Winding Lane." It features deep saxes and strings. "Lazy Waters" by Coon-Sanders Original Night-Hawk Orchestra is a swirling waltz on the other side.

Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing The Review-Tribune Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau can not give advice on legal, medical and financial matters. It does not attempt to settled domestic troubles, nor undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Q. Should the City and State be written on the same line on an envelope? E. F.

A. The Post Office Department prefers them on separate lines. This enables postal employees to classify the mail more rapidly.

Q. Did Rube Vickers break the discus record at the Olympic games? E. McE.

A. The world record for throwing the discus is the following: 8½ circle, 156 feet and 1⅝ inches. J. Duncan, United States, May 27, 1912 made this record. Rube Vickers is a professional and consequently never featured in the Olympics.

Q. Let me know the date of the first big fire in Boston T. B.

A. One of the earliest destructive fires that occurred in Boston was that of March 11, 1702, when 100 buildings were destroyed at about two million dollars. The great fire of November 9-11, destroyed 600 buildings covering 65 acres, valued at seventy-three million dollars.

Q. How is petroleum formed? E. L.

A. The Geological Survey says the organic theory of the origin of petroleum is most generally accepted. Crude petroleum of paraffin base is believed to be formed of vegetable debris and petroleum of asphaltic base is believed to be formed of organic matter containing a large proportion of animal matter. Substantially the same products are obtained from petroleum of either base except asphalt which is obtained from asphaltic petroleum only and paraffin wax which is obtained from paraffinaceous petroleum. Paraffinaceous petroleum contains a larger proportion of kerosene, gasoline and other high gravity products than asphaltic petroleum.

Q. Please give a short sketch of Mrs. Fiske the actress. C. F.

A. Minnie Maddern Fiske was born at New Orelans in 1865. She went on the stage when still a child and at 15 was a star under the name of Minnie Maddern. During this period she played with John McCullough, Laura Keene, etc. In 1890 she married Harrison Grey Fiske and retired for five years. She then returned to the stage in her husband's play, Hester Crewe. In 1901, she opened the Manhatton Theatre and produced a number of plays herself. She did much to popularize Isben in America.

Q. What per cent of milk is water? E. T.

A. There is 87% water in whole milk and in skimmed milk 90.5%.

Q. If a foreigner comes over on a foreign ship as a seaman, can he get a job in a factory here? J. T.

A. The Bureau of Immigration says that a seaman may have 60 days in this country before he is considered a deserter from his ship and after that he is a subject for deportation.

Q. What was the plague which visited Athens? J. P.

A. Authorities do not know definitely just what disease was referred to as the plague in Athens. According to the description by Thucydides, the plague ravaged Athens in the second year of the Peloponnesian War, 430 B. C. A large percentage of the population had taken refuge in the city and subsequently the number of deaths was great. The epidemic does not seem to have been the real oriental plague.

Q. Where is the portrait bust of Mrs. Samuel Pepys about which one has read so often lately? G. E.

A. The portrait bust of Mrs. Pepys is in The City Church of St. Olave, Hart Street, London. Pepys occupied a pew (now demolished) from which he could view the statue.

The average death rate for the registration area of the United States is 11.8 per thousand population. If the death rate in your city is greater than that, ask Akron, Ohio, how she reduced hers to 7.5 per thousand.

GUARDS PLACED AT WATER PLANT

Attempt Made to Blow up Big Reservoir at Parkersburg.

An attempt to dynamite the Parkersburg city reservoir early yesterday morning was discovered with the finding of a 50-pound box of dynamite with fuse and cap attached, the fuse being partially burned. Waterworks officials made the discovery. Police are investigating the attempt, which would have undoubtedly resulted in a disaster.

The box in which the dynamite was contained was consigned to a large local hardware firm which maintains several magazines in suburbs of the city. Officials of the company declared these storehouses had not been entered, but the police are certain the dynamite was taken from the places.

O. H. Devaugan, superintendent of the waterworks, announced last night that armed guards had been placed about the place with orders to shoot to kill anybody seen approaching the important public works. The superintendent declared the explosion of the dynamite would have wrecked the south wall of the reservoir, as the box was close to the rim of the huge tank, which contained 6,000,000 gallons of water. The fuse attached to the box was burned several inches but had burned out. Residents living nearby remembered hearing a party of men passing early this morning.

Parkersburg, about 10 years ago had a water tank disaster when several persons were drowned and killed early in the morning. The tanks located atop of a large hill in the heart of the city burst without warning, causing several million dollars damage. The water works superintendent states the destruction of the system would likely have caused many deaths as the base of the reservoir hill is thickly populated.

ESCAPED CONVICT AGAIN IN CUSTODY

Martin Carr, 18, one of the seven prisoners who escaped from the Marshall county jail, was captured yesterday afternoon at the B. & O. railroad station in Moundsville. His apprehension came when H. H. High, postmaster at the state prison, recognized the youth as he walked along the tracks, evidently watching for a passing train.

High called officers who were nearby and Carr was placed in custody. He offered little or no resistance and showed no surprise when he was approached. When he was questioned by Marshall county officers regarding the other six fugitives, Carr said that he had no information whatever as to their whereabouts, saying that they had scattered when they left the jail.

THREE ASPIRANTS FOR SPEAKERSHIP

Edwin M. Keatley of Kanawha county, Isaac Underwood of Tyler county and H. W. Moulds of Hancock county are the leading candidates for the speakership of the lower branch of the state legislature which meets next week.

Choice of a speaker will be made at the caucus of Republican members which will be held prior to the initial session. Keatley, it is claimed, has the support of many influential party leaders. He was speaker of the house in 1921.

LADIES! LOOK YOUNG, DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous and you appear years younger.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS
BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Only a Friendly Interest.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: About three years ago I met a young man nine years my senior and of a very fine family. He asked me to go several places with him, but because I was only 16 and he was so much older, my father would not allow me to go to theaters with him. I then went driving a number of times, unbeknown to my father, but mother did know, and she knew him better than father did. After a while we drifted apart without ever having words. Since then every time I come in contact with him he is extremely talkative and pleasant. When he meets any member of my family he inquires particularly for me. I have met many other young men since then, but the more I meet the more convinced I am that I really love him. Father says now he thinks he is a fine fellow, but I have never made any advancements when we are talking for fear he would think I was "tagging" him. I have sometimes tried to forget him, but it seems the more I try, the more I really love him, although I try to persuade myself I don't. What is your advice? HOPEFUL.

Frankly you have little ground on which to build your hopes. The man shows a courteous and friendly interest in you for old times sake, but if he still cared for you to any great extent he would seek your company. When you and he are talking, try not to be so reserved that he will think you are unfriendly. Your father might help matters by letting the man see that he is not opposed to him.

Make Yourself Worthy.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Early this fall I fell in love with a girl whom I know many others love. I have never heard her quarrel. She is always singing and has a smile for everybody, even a tramp or an animal. I went with her several months, but drank quite frequently although she asked me in a nice way to stop. At last she started going with an out of town fellow. Then I saw my mistake, but too late. I can't bear to see her with any one else, and especially with that fellow. He is a gentleman by all means, and she always respects a fellow who is mannerly. I am afraid she is keeping steady company with him. Please tell me some way that I can try to get her back. If I were only as good as she! I'm bad. She does not speak to me now. I would give anything to be on friendly terms with her, and so please help me. The old saying, "You never miss the water until the well runs dry."

JIGGS B.

Since you lost the girl because of your drinking, your only hope of winning her back is by overcoming the habit and proving yourself a man worthy of her. After several months or a year of good behavior, approach the girl again, and say that you want her to know that you have overcome your bad habits and that you are ashamed you did not come to your sense before you lost her friendship.

Not Ladylike To Flirt.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I noticed that a certain girl would like to know what a refined young man thinks of a flirt, and embarrassing for the young man she is trying to flirt with. This applies whether it is done in a vulgar manner or in a so-called ladylike manner. A girl that wil flirt is not very much of a lady.

A YOUNG MAN WHO KNOWS.

Thank you very much for expressing your opinion of flirting.

Call of Birthplace Brings Young Girl Back to America

NEW YORK.—The call of America, her birthplace, has brought Miss Teresina Di Primio back to this country alone from Italy, leaving her parents in that country. They had taken her to Italy when she was a baby; but she returned to America as soon as she was old enough.

No immigration official could challenge her right to admission.

Miss Di Primio had her birth certificate. There was no danger that she would become a public charge, for she is over the childrens' age limit of sixteen. So she went on her way to join her cousin, Mrs. Luisa Di Micco, in Syracuse. She explained her return by saying:

"When I grew old enough to realize what it meant to be born in America I determined to claim my birthright even though it meant separation from my parents, who are excluded by your technicalities. There are other thousands of American born children in Italy who will come back to their native land when they are old enough to travel alone."

Noted Shoplifter Requests to Serve Unexpired Sentence

NEW YORK.—Mary Knowles, 26, dressed in an expensive fur coat and a costly hat, arraigned in Special Sessions on a charge of shoplifting, startled the justice by asking to be returned to Bedford Reformatory to serve an unexpired sentence.

The woman had been arraigned five times since 1917 for shoplifting. While at the reformatory she caused so much trouble that she was sent to Matteawan. When paroled she broke her parole within an hour of her release, and was returned.

The detectives said they found a large quantity of expensive wearing apparel in her room.

YOUTHS HELD IN BUDAPEST FOR MURDERS

Bomb-throwing Gang Now Standing Their Trials.

ALL UNDER 24

Young "Intelligensia" Dub Themselves "the Awakening Magyars."

VIENNA—Eight murders, twenty-three attempted murders and many dynamite outrages are attributed to a bomb-throwing gang of young men now standing their trials at Budapest.

Styling themselves the "Awakening Magyars," the gangsters are said to have been led by Josef Marffy, a young bank official of twenty-four. None of the gang is more than twenty-four years old, and most of its members belong to the ranks of the "intelligensia."

The police have taken the most elaborate precautions to protect witnesses for the prosecution against the efforts of the accused to intimidate them.

Among the charges formulated against the gang is that it filled a metal box with dynamite and placed it behind a mirror in the hall of the Elizabeth Theatre Club, where a banquet was to be held. The device was so cleverly manipulated that it exploded just as all the guests assembled, with the result that eight persons were killed and twenty-three seriously injured.

In addition to this outrange, the men are charged with an attempt to bomb the law courts, the building of the Czecho-Slovakian Consulate, the palace of the French Ambassador, and with writing letters, threatening murder to the French Ambassador and to the Hungarian Foreign Minister.

The progress of the trials is causing an enormous sensation throughout the country.

A little water on the stove beats a lot of coal in it.

Piazza Bird Being Restored.

Many years ago one of the rock bluffs facing Alton, Ill., along the Mississippi river, was terrifyingly adorned by a painted likeness of a bird-like dragon. It is believed to have been placed there by Indians and was first reported by Father Marquette in 1673. Over 50 years ago it was blasted off in quarry operations but citizens of Alton are now repainting the bird, as a public enterprise to preserve historic lore of the community. The bird was referred to as the "piazza" bird.

NOMINATING COMMITTEE NAMED BY THE COUNTY FARM BUREAU

Officers Will be Elected at Annual Meeting Scheduled to be Held Thursday, January 15 — Many Townships Represented.

Practically every township in the county is represented on the nominating committee selected by the executive committee of the Columbiana County Farm Bureau to select a slate of officers to be voted upon at the annual meeting of the Farm Bureau scheduled for Jan. 15 next.

The executive committee, composed of the following members, met in Lisbon at the offices of the farm bureau last week: Butler township, Howard Holloway; Centre, Samuel Tritten; Elkrun, Frank Bowman; Fairfield, J. A. Edgerton; Franklin, Edward Muiherin; Knox, M. F. Hetland; Liverpool, Harry Hill; Madison, William Blazier; Middleton, E. L. Zuch; Salem, Charles Zimmerman; Unity, Charles Lemley; St. Clair, E. N. Hickman; Perry, John Williams; Hanover, H. A. Bailey; West, T. E. Whitaker; Wayne, J. Ellsworth Rice; Washington, Daniel N. Smith; Yellow Creek, E. C. Wallace.

John Kerr of Yellow Creek township has been president of the county farm bureau for the past year, and it may follow that he will be re-elected to succeed himself, just as Clark J. Halverstadt of Salem township was re-elected to succeed himself for several terms.

The executive committee also approved the contract between the farm bureau and Phil E. Heim, manager of the Columbiana County Livestock Shipping association for another year. Mr. Heim entered upon his work in this county last February, and has been very successful in his efforts of bringing live stock shippers a large net return for their shipments than they were formerly accustomed to receive.

It is expected that the nominating committee will meet within the next fortnight to select a ticket which will be voted upon at the annual meeting.

Because of the co-operative movement inaugurated during the last year over 13,000 bushels of apples were shipped from this county under the name of "Buckeye Brand," this being the first year that apples from this county were ever shipped under a brand.

This class of shipping was made possible through the organization of the New Waterford Fruit Growers association, of which A. A. Strong of New Waterford is president. The association, after apples have been delivered to the warehouse by the growers are graded and packed according to size, variety and condition.

Because of the success of the co-operative shipping of apples this season, it is believed that not less than 25,000 bushels will be distributed through this channel during 1925.

The Columbiana County Horticulture society has purchased 45 tons of sulphate of ammonia which will be applied to commercial orchards in this county, and in addition, orders were placed for two cars of spray material.

Two orchard tours were conducted by the horticultural society during 1924, and similar tours are contemplated for 1925, it is said. A committee has already been selected, to have charge of the orchard demonstrations next year.

Considerable credit is being given members of the three cattle breeders' associations in this county for their assistance in putting over the recent county-wide tuberculin test. These three associations are the Jersey, Guernsey and Holstein cattle owners, and all members are committed to the policy of owning and dealing in stock that is tuberculin tested and also registered. It is a matter of record that each of these associations have always held testing as their major project.

During the past year the Jersey breeders, through the Columbiana County Jersey Cattle club, have sold registered and tested Jersey cattle to the value of $6,940, this value representing 48 head and sold by 19 different breeders. It is interesting to know that this sale record is the direct result of the expenditure of $280.90 in advertising. There are 185 Jersey breeders in Columbiana county, owning approximately 518 head. The sales organization of the Jersey breeders' association has been classed as one of the most active in the state and especially in this part of northeastern Ohio.

Fourteen poultry houses and 13 brooder houses were built in this county during the last year from plans furnished by the office of the Columbiana County Farm Bureau. It is also declared that during the year 13 poultry demonstrators have completed their year's work in every detail. The visit to these poultry plants by those poultry raisers who went about their work with more or less carelessness has resulted in greater enthusiasm among poultry growers to raise better stock and under improved conditions.

The new poultry calendar that is being issued by the farm bureau is assisting in the better poultry movement.

ROAD BUILDING PLANS FORMED

Tentative Improvement Program Filed With Commissioners.

A tentative road improvement program for this county for 1925 has been worked out and filed with the board of county commissioners at their meeting Monday.

For the East Rochester - North Georgetown road $48,000 of county funds will be required and $40,000 will be needed for the improvement of the Rogers-Clarkson highway.

For the East Palestine-Negley road $50,000 is to be set aside and for the Lisbon-Elkton road $16,000 is to be appropriated.

For the North Georgetown-Salem road $22,000 is required, and there has been set aside $15,000 for the county share for the improvement of the East Liverpool-Wellsville road on Wells avenue, Wellsville.

It has been pointed out that the two mill levy will return $260,000 to the county, and for dirt roads there will be available $35,000. For surface treating approximately $15,000 will be available and assessments will return $10,000 to the county, or a total receipt for road improvement purposes of $320,000.

Of this amount, $100,000 is to be set aside to match state funds, leaving $220,000 for other projects.

The road program as it has been worked out so far will require $191,000 and a balance of $29,000 is left available for other work, according to the schedule that has been prepared.

From the state, and for use on inter county highways, the county expects to receive not less than $38,000 and from federal aid a sum of $45,000 is expected. Then from the regular state road fund the county expects to receive $17,000, or a sum total of $100,000 from these several sources.

State and county projects for the coming year will include the completion of the Wellsville-Salineville road at a cost of $120,000 and a section of I. C. H. No. 502, or the East Liverpool - Youngstown road will require $40,000, or a total of $160,000 for these two projects.

SALEM TOWNSHIP MAN DRAWS FINE

Charged with failure of sending two of his children to school as provided by law, Charles Phillis Sr. of Salem township was fined $20 and costs in a justice of the peace court at Lisbon Saturday night, following his arrest by Constable Clarence Wetzel of Lisbon on an affidavit filed by the county attendance officer, Ira F. Hassler. Children of Phillis are students in the Fairview rural school. Phillis is employed in Salem but resides on a farm in Salem township.

REPORT SHORTAGE OF RABBIT FURS

A shortage of rabbit furs is reported by farmers and hunters in this county, and the reason is assigned to the wet spring season of 1924, when so many rabbit holes were flooded and the young were drowned.

Those who have been dealing in fur skins in this county have declared that the rabbit fur shortage this season is ranging from 50 to 75 percent of normal. Prices for skins are soaring, and sales are being made on a market of from 40 to 50 percent higher than that received the previous season.

He Coughed For Two Years Swore Off

After coughing for two years almost continuously a man of considerable means got thin and tired and worn out, made his will, and was ready to quit the big game of life.

A friend spoke to him about Bronchuline Emulsion and now life to him is very sweet indeed.

That's the kind of a cough that is put out of business with amazing speed when the cougher is wise to Bronchuline Emulsion.

Tough old coughs—persistent coughs—coughs that hang on and rob people of their sleep—those are the kind of coughs Bronchuline likes to tackle.

Many times such coughs linger after the Grip or a heavy cold, and if you have one or know of anyone who has one keep Bronchuline Emulsion in mind.

It isn't just a cheap sweet cough syrup—it's the best cough remedy—and the best is never cheap. Jesse D. Holloway, Carnahan's Drug Store, East Liverpool and Newell, W. Va.

WOMAN SO ILL WASHED DISHES SITTING DOWN

Mrs. Ashcroft's Remarkable Recovery After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Covington, Ky.—"I was so weak and nervous I could hardly do my housework as I could not stand because of the bearing-down pains in my back and abdomen. I sat down most of the time and did what I could do in that way—as washing dishes, etc. One day a book describing Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines was put in my mail-box. I saw how the Vegetable Compound had helped others so I gave it a trial. I had to take about a dozen bottles before I gained my strength but I certainly praise this medicine. Then I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood medicine for poor blood. I was cold all the time. I would be so cold I could hardly sit still and in the palms of my hands there would be drops of sweat. I also used the Sanative Wash and I recommend it also. You may publish this letter and I will gladly answer letters from women and advise my neighbors about these medicines."—Mrs. HARRY ASHCROFT, 632 Beech Avenue, Covington, Kentucky.

The motion will be taken up at the May term of the Belmont county appellate court. ### Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A family supply easily and quickly made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for its healing effect on the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Old-Time Favorites Appear Here With Field Minstrels

Jack Richards Heads Cast of Singers, Dancers and Comedians at Ceramic Theatre Tuesday Evening.

Thirty-seven years of keeping faith with the American public have resulted in a universal popularity for the Al G. Field Minstrels, and a host of friends all over the county. The 38th annual edition will be presented at the Ceramic theatre Tuesday with the same list of favorites that have helped for many years to build up an enviable reputation for this organization, the aim of which is to keep old time minstrelsy in the hearts of the people, and in this they have been more than successful. The Field Minstrels are looked forward to in every city. They enjoy a popularity unequalled by any other similar organization.

Jack Richards, the great Welsh tenor, is again at the head of the cast of singers, dancers and comedians. To hear him sing is to know what real song can mean. He stands at the top, and is nationally known and admired. And there are Billy Church, Price Jenkins, Ola Elwood, Loyd Gilbert, Harry Frillman and Leslie Berry—a host of good voices. Nick Hufford, premier black-face comedian, and his co-partners, Harry Frankel, Jack Kennedy, Harry Shunk and Johnny Healy, are a riot of fun and laughter that threatens to stop the show. Boni Mack, the clever female impersonator, is so real that "she" keeps the audience guessing. Billy and Leo Doran head the clever dancing cast, both nimble and light footed.

Old-time minstrelsy is the backbone of this year's production. The semi-circle, the endmen, and all the characteristics of the old art, have been kept intact in the show. But the settings and the costuming are more elaborate than those of any previous year. Dancers are transformed into gay swaying tulips, sea-faring cabin boys, or vivid harlequins of another country. Singers become the crew of the jolly yacht "America," sailing the high seas. Seats are now on sale.

Boxing Cat Floors Foes.

"Buddie" is the name of a boxing cat owned by Elle J. Kenney, of Penacock, N. H. He is a white feline with tiger stripes and he stands like a prize fighter when attacked by another of his kind or a combative dog. In fighting other cats Buddie invariably knocks them over backwards before "lighting into" them with his claws and teeth. Likewise he enjoys boxing with his human friends and one of his tricks is to extinguish a lighted match with a well directed left punch.

TIMELY VIEWS ON WORLD TOPICS

"Europe Making Sound Gains Toward Firm Footing," Says Otto Kahn. England.

This is the way Otto H. Kahn, American financier, sizes up the general economic and political situation in Europe:

"England, which during and since the war has shown nothing less than economic heroism in her steadfast adherence to sound and tested principles, has thereby established an asset of incalculable value, the returns from which are bound to be large and lasting. The advance in the value of the pound sterling to within a fraction of its par value is an expression of the world's unquestioning confidence in Great Britain's economic ways, methods and character, and of its estimate of what the future has in store for her.

OTTO KAHN

France.

"France, industrious, prosperous, with abundant employment for her people, and with a favorable balance of trade, has enacted the necessary measures of taxation to establish the equilibrium of her budget, and is preparing to address herself to the permanent solution of such other questions within the province of governmental financial policy as may be said to constitute the one remaining signal problem before her.

Italy.

"Italy, which throughout the difficulties of the post-war period has resolutely followed the dictates of a wise and correct fiscal policy and imposed upon herself great sacrifice in pursuance of that policy, has made extraordinary progress under the clear-sighted and far-visioned guidance of Mussolini, and is steadily forging ahead.

Germany.

"Germany, freed from the curse of a fluctuating currency and from the reparations chaos, and the resulting bitter hopelessness, is busking down again to disciplined, efficient and intelligent effort and is finding and applying anew the qualities which enabled her to attain so high a place in commerce and industry prior to the war, a place the recovery of which the enlightened public opinion of the world would not begrudge to a Germany which will loyally fulfill its obligations to the best of its ability and co-operate toward the peaceable progress of the world."

Southeast Europe.

Of Southeastern Europe, Kahn says the "injustice, the political maladjustment and the economic faultiness of the territorial arrangements in Southeastern Europe, as determined by the peace treaties, have been further intensified by the maintenance of undue and threatening military force, by the harsh and unfair treatment of racial minorities, and by a narrow and invidious nationalistic policy on the part — to a greater or lesser degree—of those states who were the beneficiaries of those treaties."

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

BRITISH JUDGE WOULD NOT SIT UNTIL FURNISHED PROPER CHAIR

LONDON.—Judge Crawford, a tall and heavy man, has refused to sit in the Edmonton County Court because of the miserable armchair provided for him by the government.

His old chair broke down from age. In its place the government department known as the "Office of Works" sent down a small chair that the judge declared was fit only for an office boy. The judge refused to occupy this and said that the Office of Works must supply one that would uphold the dignity of one of His Majesty's judges, or he would complain to the Lard Chancellor.

Another chair was sent, but this, also, proved too insignificant. An official of the Office of Works has now been looking over the situation, and hopes in time to supply a chair that will meet both the dignity and the physical requirements of the judge.

40,000 U. S. Soldiers Living Tender Canvas Despite Zero Weather

WASHINGTON — With sub-zero weather just around the corner, 40,000 United States soldiers are living under canvas or under temporary roofs and within flimsy wooden walls with no better shelter in sight.

This was the bleak picture of army life revealed by Secretary of War Weeks in his annual report to the president, requesting immediate initiation of an adequate army housing program.

One army post, characterized as typical of several others, was described as lacking in bath and toilet facilities. "Such a condition is hardly conceivable and is certainly not conducive to sanitation or morals."

Maniac Believed To Have Taken Refuge On Island in Lake

PLATTSBURG, N. Y.—Residents of Cumberland Head believe an escaped lunatic or an eccentric hermit has made his home on an island in Lake Champlain, close to the shore. Each night piercing screeches, like those of a man in pain, ring out through the darkness from the direction of a small island which is regarded as barren.

The noises have continued for several nights, and local adventurers are waiting for the lake to freeze over so that they may investigate. No light or sign of habitation can be discerned from shore, but the startling yells, followed by continuous laughter, are disturbing.

THE DOUBLE HOUSE

By Elizabeth Dejeans

Rossiter looked at her, at her clinging negligee. "Waiting to hear from him, of course."

Karesia held herself to composure. "He said he would telephone. I was afraid one or the other of them would be killed."

Karesia did not dare to ask him why he was exhibiting such bitter jealousy; he might veer to an attitude that would cause her far more embarrassment. She understood perfectly why he had brought Dascome's daughter to her in that condition, but she could not understand why, after all these years, it should matter to him what she did, or whom she favored. She could not fathom his motives; that he loved her still, in his headlong fashion, was less believable than that he had hardened into an ugly-minded, revengeful man. She did not know what to say. She simply looked into the fire.

Rossiter thrust his clenched hands into his pockets. "Mr. Dascome will go to Deeme's house, learn what happened, then call upon me," he said in the same hard, mocking way. "I shall send him to you then, Kara mia—that is, if he doesn't put a bullet into me first—or try to choke the life out of me. After all, she is his daughter, and he thinks I haven't treated her very well—in his place, I'd be inclined to do the same. Well, we'll see," and he turned to the door.

Karesia looked up in swift terror. She had been thinking of Dascome's anxiety, not of the construction he might put on Rossiter's act. She had a sudden vision of Dascome enraged, a lion attacking a panther, Rossiter tearing at Dascome's strong hands! She ran after him and caught his arm. "Rand! Don't quarrel with him, please! Please, don't! He doesn't know you as I do, or he wouldn't thing such a thing—not for a minute."

Rossiter stopped under her clinging hands and looked down into her quivering face. "Which one of us are you agonizing over?" he demanded. "Tell me that first!"

"Over you both."

"It's not the answer I want."

He had shaken her off and had reached the door and Karesia could think of but the one way. It was plain enough now, the thing she had been unable to believe was true. "If you want to kill every atom of my love for you, go ahead. Just remember that I shall never see you or speak to you again," and she walked away from him.

Rossiter sprang after her, caught her, turned her about, and lifted her face to his. "Now—tell me—the truth!" he said, breathing quickly. "You still love me? There is no one else?"

"You are my husband," she answered through tiff lips. "I have never forgotten it."

His face changed completely. He drew her to him and kissed her, eyes and cheeks, lips and throat. He looked down at her, passive in his arms, burning but unresponsive, and, suddenly, he laughed, thickly and curtly. "Love!" he said. "For a minute I thought it was true! It's simply a sense of responsibility—your duty—your conscience and not your heart!"

He loosed her and Karesia stood, head bent, quivering and silent.

Rossiter studied her, his face hardening into determination. "Understand me, Kara! I want from you what I never had, the thing that sees a man through, 'for better or for worse.' There's a deal to undo, but no other man is going to take my chance away from me—I have the first right, and I mean to keep it."

Though shaking from head to feet, Karesia held to her purpose. Her head lifted. "The future will decide that. I'm not the girl who married you five years ago. What you have become, your own conduct will show. I haven't and I never will have anything to give to a taunting, revengeful spirit. If you choose you can quarrel with a man who has done you no harm, you can advertise the fact that you married me five years ago, you can make it difficult for me and disagreeable for yourself—and lose the chance you say you want. Love can't be forced—it's a thing that's given."

The mocking light sprang into his eyes. "And to whom were you preparing to give it Kara mia—when I appeared on the scene?"

Karesia looked down, lips set, cheeks burning.

Rossiter looked at her mass of hair which he had disordered, at the nape of her neck, fresh and sweet as a child's. "God! I'd like to tell you a few things instead of letting you learn them!" he exclaimed with a touch of desperation. "If you weren't the sort you are, I'd do it! I believe your treatment of me is the one exception in your entire life. Perhaps it's remorse that has made you tender to every stray dog that comes your way. Is it?"

"I have been sorry, Rand—many times," Karesia said in a smothered way. "I wrote you that I was sorry!"

Rossiter's entire expression changed. "You wrote to me! I swear I never received it!" He grew white. "I have never had a word from you from that day to this! Kara, when did you write to me?"

She looked at him, grown as white as he. "I wrote when my boat reached Honolulu!"

"To San Francisco? To Randsome Favriyue?" he asked swiftly.

"Yes. To the hotel where we were."

"To Randsome Favrique, of course! And I had gone. I went to New York and enlisted, as Randsome Rossiter. I left no address at the hotel. My Lord! If only I'd had the courage to tell you that I'd been on the stage, all that history of mine. I ought to have told you before we were married. But I was afraid you would distrust me. Before I met you I'd stopped drinking. I wasn't going back to the stage—I was going to take you to Uncle Rossiter's and begin all over again. The day we were married, I decided I'd tell you all about it and then I took a drink to brace me, and—well, you know the rest. . . . Kara, did you write that you would come back to me?"

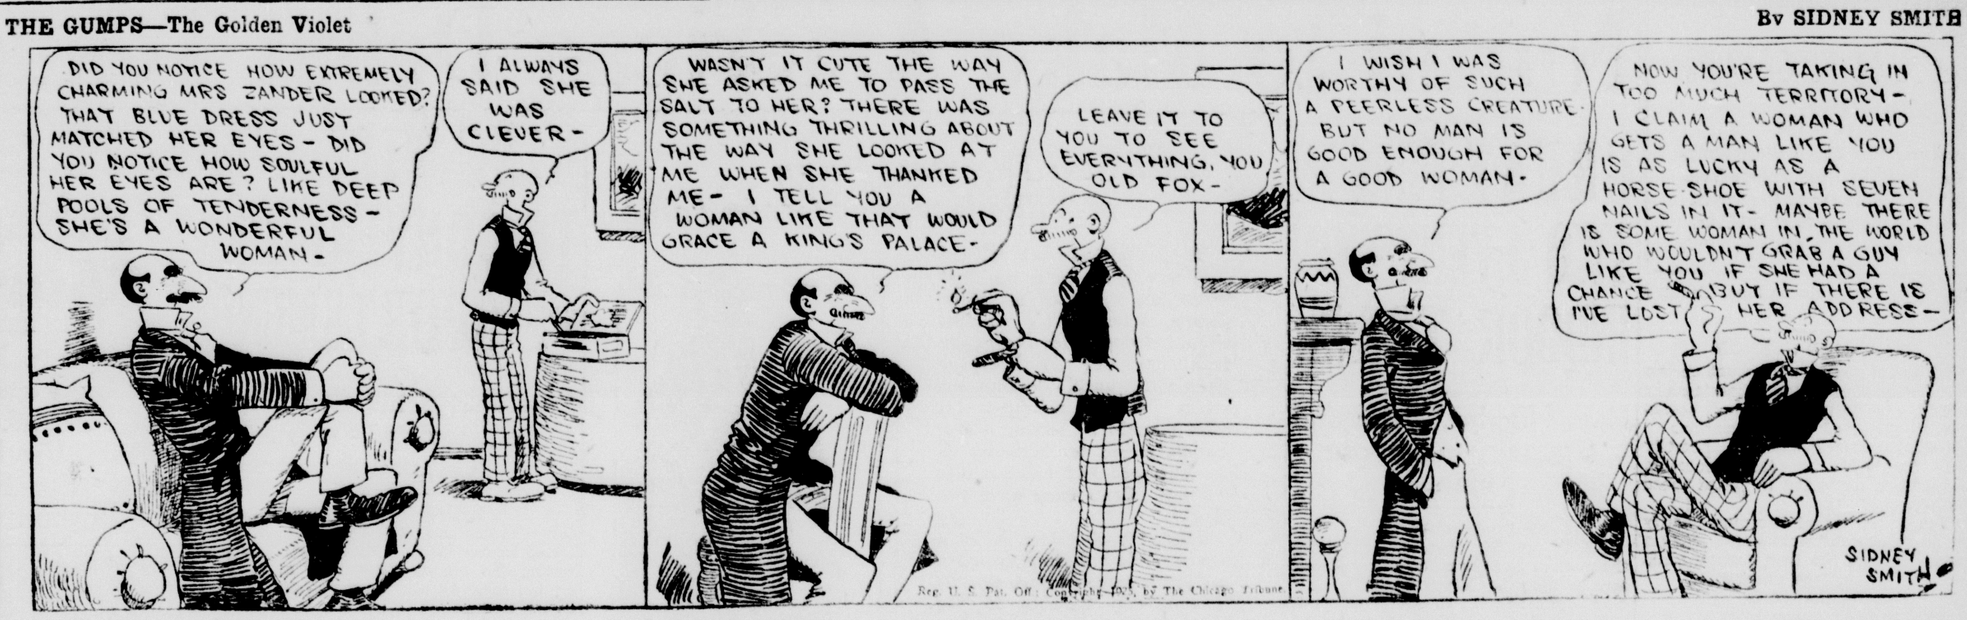

"Yes."

It was hard for her to say it, how hard Rossiter could see plainly enough, and that she dreaded the thing she expected him to say in return.

Nurmi to Make American Debut Tomorrow Night

Runyon Says

Amherst Has Best College Song.
Yale Has the Best College Yell.
Get an Old Timer to Render It.
Harry Wills Can Beat Gibbons.
Kid Norfolk Tells Reasons Why.

Copyright, 1924, International Feature Service, Inc.

BY DAMON RUNYON

THE writer's recent comment on the decadence of college cheering and singing, especially at Harvard, seems to have attracted some attention.

Several correspondents heartily agree, others are disposed to question the writer's authority to judge these matters.

"You say years of listening qualify you as an expert," writes one. "What is your idea of the best college song, and the best college cheer?"

This is easily answered.

The best college song lyric and melody, is Amherst's.

The writer thinks all collegians who have heard it will agree with him. Get some old—or young—Amherst man to sing it for you.

The best college cheer, or yell, properly delivered, is Yale's. It doesn't read impressive, but an old Yalensian will shout it for you with cadence and spirit.

Be sure and get an OLD Yalensian. The young ones don't put quite enough behind the yell.

The name Yale, short and snappy, lends itself to a yell better than the heavy-syllabeled Harvard and Princeton. There is something loggy about these names as emitted by the rooting choruses.

Cornell has a great yell. So has Chicago. Going farther west you find one of the greatest of all the college yells at the University of Colorado, with many strong-lunged young men and women to utter it.

The writer once saw a football game between two professional teams playing in a city where they had no local affiliation. There was no organized cheering. The result was what he imagines grand opera would be without music.

What sport changes in 1925?

You are as good a guesser as the writer.

What title holders of the present will be "ex's" at the close of the year?

Dempsey?

It is possible, but not probable.

The heavyweight champion may make one appearance, that against Tom Gibbons, of St. Paul. No other contender has demonstrated sufficient ability to raise the suggestion of a meeting with Dempsey—and even the suggestion of Gibbons isn't very strong as yet.

Harry Wills may come on again. The "Brown Panther of New Orleans" lost much prestige in his fight with Luis Angel Firpo. However, the pugilistic public quickly forgets—a decisive victory over some heavyweight will renew Will's name in fistic conversation.

If neither seems to have a chance to get the title match within the next few months, Gibbons and Wills may meet.

Both Gibbons and Wills are getting old. Neither made any considerable money out of the boxing game up to the past two years. They know they will have a few additional opportunities of making "big" money.

Naturally, every man wishes to retire with a competence. Gibbons and Wills have been patiently waiting the chance of getting a nice, fat, lump sum, such as a title match would bring. You can't blame them for that.

But next to a match with Dempsey in New York or New Jersey, Wills and Gibbons can get the most money in meeting each other.

The writer is inclined to think Wills would whip Gibbons. He bases this opinion on Will's greater size and strength, also on what was told him by Kid Norfolk, the

GREAT FINN IN TWO EVENTS ON INDOOR TRACK

Ray, Higgins, Hahn and Connolly to Oppose Him.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Not since the days of the Dorando-Johnny Hayes match, aces of happy memory, has New York become so exercised as it has over the impending American debut of Paavo Nurmi, world's greatest runner, at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night. Nurmi will start in a special mile and a five thousand metre run at the Finnish-American A. C. games and his appearance will mark a revival in track and field Athelettics such as followed the 1908 olympics at London where Dorando was carried across the line in the marathon and Hayes, Finnish second, subsequently declared the winner.

That incident made for arch rivalry and the present instance has much in common with it. After being beaten four times by Nurmi at Paris, the American runner who would not give his windpipe for a victory over the Finn, is an American runner without the ambition of a second foot man. Joie Ray, Lloyd Hahn, Walter Higgins and Jimmy Connolly are some of the entries who will essay to take issue with Nurmi over the mile distance.

As far as the writer is concerned, they might as well try to take issue with an antelope. It is said that Nurmi will be handicapped by his lack of familiarity with indoor running, which is probably the case. My idea of an adequate handicap for Nurmi is to call in Houdini and let him do his worst.

The general interest, in fact, is in Nurmi himself and not in the possibility of his defeat. His records have created an aura around him such as no American public can resist and he has added to his attractiveness with a personality that runs strongly to temperament and an immoderate sense of the theatrical. His self-timing during his races is only one of his idiosyncrasies.

Evidence of bad blood between Nurmi and Willie Ritola, Americanized fellow countryman, also has had its popular appeal. Actually, they are as friendly as a pair of ermit crabs but much has been said about the case that does not carry a basis of truth.

It has been declared that their enmity started when Nurmi declined to shake hands with Ritola after the five thousand metre race at Paris. It also has been intimated that they had agreed to set a moderate pace in this event and that Ritola attempted to double cross Paavo by stepping out on him three laps from home. It is to laugh.

Ritola had all he could do to stay on Nurmi's heels through the greater portion of his race. There was no "understanding," no brotherly act about it. Nurmi went out to win and he did. They say that Ritola was less than two yards back at the finish, which is true. But they neglect to state that Nurmi was cake-walking, while he looked back over his shoulder, when the incident in question occurred. He could have stepped five seconds faster while Ritola was all "run out."

As a matter of fact their unfriendliness antedated the incident by several days. It began when Nurmi "propositioned" Ritola on the 10,000 metre race, which he wished to conduct as a two-man, handshaking affair.

Ritola refused to be a party to the proceedings and Nurmi withdrew from the race, which was won by Ritola, some twelve seconds under the world's record. If it was possible to have beaten Nurmi at Paris, Ritola would have done it in this race.

For Yale to Lick.

"Princeton spends $75,000 annually to develop a football team," says a wire item. For Yale to lick.

He's the bird we need at home to carry out the winter's ashes out of the grate.

French Star Threatens Reign of Willie Hoppe on Green Table

Roger Conti, French billiard star, now looms up as the most formidable opponent of Willie Hoppe, veteran 18.2 balkline billiard champ, when Hoppe defends his title in February against the world's leading cue artists. Conti indicated his form recently by setting a new world's record for high run in the European 18.2 balkline title tourney. Conti hung up a run of 477.

Conti, though young, is not a newcomer in billiard circles. He has participated in three world's championship matches in the U. S. while keeping up his Eu- ropean competitions.

Hoppe himself is sincere in his admiration for Conti's play. "If he shows that form in the coming tourney I might just as well give him the title," says William. Conti, however, laughingly remarks that he'd sooner win the crown with his cue than have it presented to him.

Milwaukee Player Tops Association In Batting Record

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—Lester Bell shortstop of the Milwaukee team, was awarded the batting honors of the American association, in the official figures published today. Bell played in 154 games, was officially at bat 630 times, made 230 hits and his batting average was .365.

Five other players topped Bell in the official figures but they had only played a few games and the honors were given to Bell. Bell also tied for scoring the most runs and ranked high in runs batted in.

E. Smith, of Kansas City, was the Association's leading slugger, knocking out 28 homers, 17 tripples and 45 doubles.

Milwaukee finished first in club batting with an average of .299, with Louisville second, two points behind.

Minneapolis pitchers allowed most runs to opponents while Toledo pitchers allowed fewest.

KING WILL GO TO CONVENTION OF SPORTSMEN

Sessions Scheduled for January 14 in Columbus.

J. L. King, of Salem, president of the Columbiana County Fish and Game Protective association, will represent the county sportsmen at the annual meeting of the League of Ohio Sportsmen which will open on Wednesday morning, January 14, in the Fort Hayes hotel in Columbus.

Mr. King is the only delegate from the county sportsmen's organization.

The convention is expected to be the most important gathering in the history of organized sportsmen of Ohio. The session will get under way at 9 o'clock on the morning of January 14, continue until late in the afternoon and then after a short adjournment will assemble for the banquet and speechmaking that will wind up the day.

The convention will elect officers for 1925, formulate the platform for its operation this year, decide on the measures in the interest of the sportsmen it will support in the new general assembly and consider all matters from the floor presented by the delegates.

Most Important Bills.

The two most important bills that will be framed for presentation to the general assembly will be the anglers' license and anti-pollution of streams. Both have been fought for for several years and the sportsmen believe the prospects for favorable consideration by the assembly are better than ever before.

In the afternoon session Rev. R. K. Caulk of Medina, the league's spiritual adviser, will give an address pertinent to the future of the organization, which promises to be one of the big features. Rev. Mr. Caulk is noted for calling a spade by its right name, and in his review of the support accorded the league in the past year will have some truths to relate.

A resolutions committee will be appointed early in the convention and its report, probably in the afternoon, will bring on debates that will end in a constructive program which the league will stand back of in the next twelve months.

Festival of Peace.

The big feature of the banquet will be the address of Gov. Vic Donahey, who has accepted an invitation to attend, or if this is impossible, to send a representative who will express his personal attitude toward the sports men. The differences which existed between the state administration and the league for two years having been ironed out, the chief executive's utterances will cement ever further the the friendly feeling that has emerged from the smoke of battle.

M. P. Cagers Retain Undisputed Lead In Church League Race

Baptists go to Half-way Mark by Victory Over Penn. Ave. M. E. Five; Chester Presbyterians Defeat U. P. Crew and Advance.

First Baptists and Chester Presbyterians were victorious in Sunday school league basketball contests at the "Y" Saturday night.

The Baptists downed the Pennsylvania Avenue five by the score of 32 to 18, while the Chester Presbyterians won over the United Presbyterians in the last few minutes of play by the score of 23 to 22.

The Baptists rose to the .500 mark by their victory and the Presbyterians went into a tie with the Park Boulevard squad for eighth place, according to statistics for the week. The First Methodist Protestant passers, by virtue of a string of four victories, are leading the race with a perfect average.

In the clash between the Presbyterians, the U. P. five led until the last few minutes of play, when, with the score standing 22 to 16 in the United Presbyterians favor, the Chester lads staged a scoring rally, Wallace, Haney and Devitt finding the basket for seven points.

Wallace, Haney and Devitt were the leaders for the Chester squad, Wallace being the high point man for the Hancock countians. Berg, Roberts and Dickey played the best for the United Presbyterians. Dickey led his team in scoring.

The Baptists-Pennsylvania Avenue Methodist Episcopal game was nip and tuck during the first half, the Baptists leading at the end of the period by the score of 12 to 8.

In the third quarter the Baptists increased their lead over their opponents and in the last canto ran away from the East End lads, easily winning their second game of the season.

G. Mackey for the First Baptists was the individual star of the game, scoring 21 of the Baptists' points.

G. Fugate and Kittridge also played well for the Baptists. Staley, McKim and Cook did well for the East End boys.

The First Baptist Juniors won the preliminary game from the Pennsylvania Avenue Methodist Episcopal Juniors by forfeit. Lineups and summaries.

A Great Success for Chrysler

One year has elapsed since the Chrysler Six was first introduced to the American public. In the span of that year, the Chrysler has grown from a mere name to a success the like of which has never been known before.

One year ago, Walter P. Chrysler promised a car that would yield new and revolutionary results. Since then, the Chrysler has more than redeemed its pledge.

In compactness and beauty of design, in quickness of response and flexibility of performance, in economy and facility of operation, in power and in stamina, it has satisfied the long-cherished wants of a critical motoring public.

$50,000,000 and upwards has been paid by Chrysler-wild American motor car buyers for the privilege of enjoying these revolutionary results. 32,000 cars have been built and shipped in an effort to fill the demand.

It is therefore fitting that Monday, January 5th, the Chrysler's first birthday, should be a day of celebration—for the Chrysler organization because of the unparalleled success attained in one year's time—for owners and admirers because of the Chrysler's revolutionary achievements.

NEW CENTRAL LOOP CERTAIN

Akron, Youngstown and Canton are Listed.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 5.—With the newly-organized Central League now a certainty, two new cities were admitted Saturday afternoon, Cumberland, Md., and Akron, O., at the second meeting at the Hotel Henry to round out an eight club league. Ralph Lattimore, former minor leaguer, will be manager and owner of the Akron team. Jimmy McGuire and J. Mellinison represented Cumberland. As yet Cumberland does not have the least idea who will pilot its team, but already overtures are being made for the services of Del Gainer, world's series hero of the Boston Red Sox several years ago and more recently a member of the St. Louis Cardinals. Right now Del resides at Elkins, West Va., and Cumberland officials will lend every effort to acquire him as manager.

Practically all of the clubs had representatives at the meeting. Richard Guy of this city was on hand to tell of the progress at Erie. Joe Shoemaker was here to speak for Youngstown, O., who has been fortunate enough to land Honus Wagner, one-time Pirate star, as its skipper. Just what sort of club Wagner will have at Youngstown is difficult to say at this early date. The securing of Wagner was a ten-strike for the Ohioans, for numerous clubs sought the former Bucco idol as manager when he laid aside his baseball togs back in 1917.

Doc Otto and Ray Archibald were in the city for Wheeling, W. Va., while Walter Mollier spoke for Johnstown. Bill Crawford was seen with his advance data for Altoona. A representative was here for Canton, O., but he refused to divulge his name.

William McCullough, president of the league, presided at the meeting. Various moves and business matters were taken up. The six clubs which were chosen at the opening session reported fine progress, and all spoke as though they were going to be right up in the running with strong teams.

In all probability a schedule will be drafted at the next meeting, which has been set for February 8. In the meantime the owners of the eight clubs will notify President McCullough as to other arrangements and where hitches are apt to come up from time to time.

CANTON, Jan. 5—Followers of baseball here are awaiting the next move of professional promoters who have listed this city in a proposed Class B circuit. Canton has not had baseball in organized ranks since 1913. At a recent meeting in Pittsburgh, Fred Crolius, a Dartmouth college graduate, handled Canton's interests though he is not a resident here.

Runyon Says

Baltimore negro, who has fought both men.

Norfolk is an intelligent boxer, a shrewd student of h's game. He says Gibbons has no defense for a right hand punch to the body, whereas Wills is the greatest right hand body puncher in the business. It is Wills's strongest blow.

"Gibbons has a good left hook to the liver," says Norfolk. "But Gibbons has no defense for a right-hand punch aimed at his own body.

"I hit him there almost as I pleased with a right hand and, compared to Wills, I'm not much of a body puncher. Wills drives his right to the body with murderous force.

"Gibbons is an extremely smart boxer, the smartest I ever met. He forestalled every move I attempted. But against Will's body punching I think Tom would be helpless.

"Now, then," Norfolk continued, "I've heard some talk of matching Tiger Flowers against Gibbons. The same thing that would be Gibbons's undoing against Wills would be Flowers's downfall against Gibbons. Flowers can't protect his body. Gibbons would make short work of the Tiger with that left hook to the liver."

You will observe that Norfolk is something of a student of boxing style in others. He should know about Tiger Flowers. He once knocked out the Georgia Negro with body punches

The writer encountered two old-time lightweights recently—Leach Cross and Willie Fitzgerald.

Cross is still as lean and angular as in the days of his pugilistic prime. Fitzgerald is fat and heavy. He must weigh close to 200 pounds.

Both once made 135 pounds with ease. They fought two no-decision bouts in 1908 inside of thirty days, one September 11, the other October 2.

At their best, Cross and Fitzgerald could have beaten most of the lightweights of today. The division had more fistic class in their time and prime than at present.

The writer is not one who thinks ALL the old fighters were superior to those of the present. In this specific case, however, there is little doubt about the matter.

In five years, from 1906 to 1911, the division had THREE great champions: Gans, the Old Master; Battling Nelson, and Wolgast, the Michigan Wildcat." It was perhaps the most brilliant period in the history of the lightweight class.

Crass, a crafty man in the ring, is now in business out in Los Angeles, prosperous, healthy. Fitzgerald makes his home in the east. Both just missed being champions.

You old-time "ringworms" may find fond memories of other pugilistic days in a brief roll call of some of the men contemporaneous with Cross and Fitzgerald.

They included, besides Nelson, Gans and Wolgast, Willie Lewis and Harry Lewis, Jimmy Potts, Amby McGarry, Jimmy Britt, Martin Canole, Maurice Sayers, Aurelio Herrera, Jimmy Briggs, Young Erne, Young Donahue, Tommy Quill, Unk Russell, Adam Ryan, Dick Hyland, Tommy Murphy, Uacky McFarland, Joe Rivers, Freddy Welsh— some fair men that list.

With but few exceptions, the lightweights of today would have had hard sledding in this company. The division is run down at the heels, no doubt of that.

Walker Adds Weight For Bout Wednesday With Mike McTigue

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, will weigh nearly 155 pounds when he steps into the ring at Newark on Wednesday in an attempt to lift the light heavyweight crown from the Celtic pate of Mike McTigue. This was made known today when it was stated that Walker was making every effort to put on weight to offset McTigue's advantage in avoirdupois which figures to exceed 20 pounds.

The bout is scheduled to go 12 rounds, but as decisions are taboo in New Jersey, the title can not change hands unless Walker wins by a knockout, on a foul, or McTigue suffers an injury that would prevent him from continuing to the limit.

Break Ground Today For Gigantic Long Island Sport Plant

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Ground will be broken today at Long Island City for the new stadium to be erected there, with a reported capacity of 100 000, by Charles L. Henderson, boxing promoter of Brooklyn. The site of the new structure is just north of the Queensboro Plaza, less than 20 minutes ride from the heart of the Broadway theatrical district. The arena will be available for all kinds of sports but boxing will be favored.

Leonard Ill With Grip.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Benny Leonard, world's lightweight boxing champion, today was reported "a little better" following his collapse in the middle of his vaudeville act at a local theatre yesterday.

"Bennie apparently is suffering from the grippe and has a fever temperature of 103," Joseph Leonard, his brother, said.

San Carlo Company Operas Break Theatre Attendance Marks

According to reports which recently reached here from Pittsburgh, Detroit and other cities where the noted San Carlo Grand Opera Company has been playing, show an unusual situation—that grand opera, often considered as entertainment only for musical people, played to far greater business in those cities than did any of the popular musical comedies, including the great comedian, Al. Jolson, with a new show. On the recent engagement in Pittsburgh, the houses were sold out and the San Carlo achieved its greatest business ever done in Pittsburgh, taking in $32,000 in a single week, a record for grand opera even in that city.

Following this tremendously successful engagement, the company went to Detroit and at the lake city they played to larger houses than ever before. The police reserves had to be called to drive away from the theatre nearly 1,000 persons who tried to buy tickets after the houses were sold out. A similar condition occurred in Syracuse and in Rochester, N. Y., and this experience has almost been a common one for the celebrated opera company this season.

Grand opera's popularity never was considered as great as that of the musical comedies or dramatic shows, among the general class of audiences. However, with the San Carlo traveling to every city in the United States during the last 18 years, the interest and love of opera has spread. Now many cities consider the season incomplete without a visit from their favorite San Carlo. This, and the fact that the prices for the opera are always the same, and are of the popular variety, has done much to assure the success of this noted organization of singers.

Separated 42 Years Brother Meets Sister At Gotham Harbor

NEW YORK—Frederick Kemmer, of Cleveland, made certain when his sister, Mrs. Jane H. Tufnail, arrived from England on the Caronia, that she would recognize him after a separation of 42 years, he wore a huge semi-sandwitch sign inscribed: "Frederick Kemmer, Cleveland, Ohio."

Forty-two years ago Kemmer, then a youth, left his home, at Gravesend, England, to emigrate to the United States. He settled in Cleveland and never returned to his birthplace.

Recently his sister decided to visit him. He feared that time had changed the features of both so that recognition might be impossible. Hence the identification card he wore.

FOUR NEW COUNTY OFFICIALS ASSUME PLACES

WRIGHT, BROOKES, BYE AND KELLY TAKE JOBS AS OLD OFFICERS QUIT

Changes Made in Personnel as Sheriff Gomer E. Lewis, Prosecutor Jesse C. Hanley and Commissioners Patrick McNicol and John F. Kerr Relinquish Posts in Courthouse.

APPOINTEES OF LAW ENFORCEMENT DEPARTMENTS QUALIFY WITH CHIEFS

County Treasurer, Clerk of Courts, Recorder and Surveyor Will Not be Sworn in Until Later in Year—Probate Judge Lodge Riddle Begins Second Term in February.

Four of the newly elected county officers, chosen at the November election, assumed the reins of office today.

George Wright, Lisbon, field deputy for the last four years, succeeded Gomer Lewis as sheriff. His appointees are: Lawrence Kindsvatter, East Liverpool, former patrolman, who will be field deputy; Frank Ballentine, office deputy, and David Eells, turnkey at the county jail. Ballentine will remain as office deputy until July, when he will become clerk of courts, succeeding John T. Burns.

Robert M. Brookes, East Liverpool, assistant prosecuting attorney for four years under J. C. Hanley, became county prosecutor. His assistant, Attorney J. E. Bauknecht, city solicitor of East Palestine, also qualified today.

The board of county commissioners will have two new members, terms of Patrick McNicol, of this city, and John F. Kerr, of Salineville, having expired. They are: J. C. Kelly, former city engineer here, and Frank Bye, of Negley. The third member of the board is Conrad Berg, Leetonia, who will be chairman.

Others Qualify in Fall.

Probate Judge Lodge Riddle of Lisbon will begin his second term as head of the Probate court on Monday, February 9.

County treasurer Jo Pike, of Lisbon, and County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk, of Salineville, will begin their second terms and Recorder-elect Paul Smith, of Lisbon, will assume his duties early in the fall. Mrs. Myrle Reark Stoffel of East Liverpool, will serve until fall as recorder, filling the unexpired term of her late father, John Reark.

1,071 Prisoners in Four Years

During the four years which Sheriff Lewis has been in office at Lisbon, 1,071 prisoners have been received at the county jail. This is said to be a new high record. Mr. Lewis turned over to his sucessor, George Wright, 36 prisoners. When William Dairymple left office four years ago he turned over 13 prisoners to Mr. Lewis.

All of the eight cells at the county jail are occupied. Many times the jail has been taxed to capacity, but never yet has it been found necessary to refuse a prisoner. Prisoners housed in the county jail during the last four years were charged with all degrees of crime from murder down to petty larceny.

Wellsville Loses 5-cent Fare Fight In Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The cities of Hubbard and Wellsville, Ohio, lost in the supreme court of the United States today their suits to maintain effective their ordinances restricting street car fares within certain limits to five cents a passenger.

The interstate commerce commission ordered increases in the fares to a parity with intrastate fares by the Pennsylvania Power and Light company and the Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction company, each of which lines cross from Ohio into Pennsylvania. The commission held there was unjust discrimination in the five-cent fare ordinances to other communities.

Lower courts enjoined enforcement of the commission order and it appealed to the United States supreme court. The latter held the interstate commerce commission had authority under law to regulate interurban railways doing an interstate business. Associate Justice McReynolds dissented.

Earl L. Mast, 36, Wellknown Here, is Dead in Zanesville

Earl L. Mast, 36 years old, for the last 16 years engaged in Y. M. C. A. work, is dead today in the home of his father, Emmanuel Mast, Greenwood avenue, Zanesville, relatives were advised.

Mr. Mast, who was well known here, was a member of the Sigma Pi fraternity and Alzafar Shrine and was a thirty-second degree Mason. He was affiliated with the Methodist Episcopal church of Billings, Mont.

Besides his wife, nee Hazel Rigby, formerly of East Liverpool, he leaves two sons, Rigby and Earl Jr.; his father, mother, two brothers and two sisters, all of Zanesville.

Funeral services will be held probably Wednesday in the home of the elder Mast in Zanesville. Burial will be made there.

ISAAC BROWN ROTARY SPEAKER

Isaac Brown, superintendent of the Steubenville district of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, will be the speaker at the noon-day meeting of the Rotary club in the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday.

His subject will be "Working for Dear Life." He will show a one-reel health picture in connection with his address. Gus Bendheim will act as chairman of the meeting.

Ralph Emmons Goes To Columbus for Legislative Meet

State Representative Ralph Emmons, East Rochester, left Saturday for Columbus, to attend the opening meeting of the Ohio legislature, which convened today.

Emmons proposes to introduce several measures at this session, but he said he would withhold the subject of these bills until they were ready for presentation.

He is known to favor legislation providing for the appointment of one of more traffic officers for main traveled highways in the county and also giving sheriffs authority to purchase motorcycles for such officers.

OHIO ASSEMBLY OFFICERS ARE NAMED AT MEET

Senate and House Leaders Urge Short Session.

BILLS DRAFTED

Caucus Selections are Ratified by Two Branches.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 5.—The 86th general assembly of Ohio opened in regular session today.

Although the legislators are confronted with difficult task of endeavoring to solve a number of important governmental problems and will be subjected to considerable pressure by advocates of numerous proposed enactments, senate and house leaders have voiced their desire for as short a session as possible.

Today's session in both senate and house was marked by organization of the respective legislative branches. If the plans of representative Silver, Preble county, Republican speaker-elect are carried out bills will be introduced in the house late today.

Oaths Administered.

With secretary of state Brown presiding in the house and Lieut. Gov. Bloom in the senate the legislature convened at 10 A. M. House members were sworn in by Chief Justice Marshall of the state supreme court.

Shouts of "Amnesty" Halt Ebert Speech As Reichstag Meets

BERLIN, Jan. 5—Riotous scenes attended the opening of the Rischstag today. During President Ebert's address, Communists interrupted the president with shouts of "Amnesty, free the prisoners."

President Ebert called the house to order, but no sooner was quiet restored when a Communist party rose and started a speech in behalf of the radical prisoners. Ebert peremptorily ordered the speech stopped.

U. S. MARINES WILL QUIT NICARAGUA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—A new era of friendly relations between the United States and Latin-American nations was envisioned today when the state and navy departments, acting under instructions from President Coolidge began the necessary negotiations for the withdrawal of American marines from Nicaragua. When the withdrawal is completed the only any Latin-American country will be the small detail maintained in Haiti.

No definite date has been set for the actual withdrawal but it will take place sometime this month as assurances were given Nicaragua a year ago that the marines would leave in January if the elections in October were conducted legally and order was maintained.

PATROLMAN HELD ON RUM CHARGE

CLEVELAND, Jan. 5.—Patrolman Leo Dilley, wanted in Cleveland to answer a federal charge of violation of the liquor laws, and who fled from Cleveland two days before Christmas, was arrested in Alliance today. Dilley will be brought back to Cleveland for trial during the month.

POSTAL SALARY MEASURE VETO BATTLE OPENS IN WASHINGTON

Administration Faces Legislative Showdown in Congress.

PARTY IS SPLIT

First Test Will Come on Move to "Recommit" Bill.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—For the first time since its landslide victory last November, the administration today faced a legislative show-down in congress over the fiscal policies of President Coolidge.

The clash impended when the Senate began consideration of the Postal salary bill, which President Coolidge vetoed last spring. The administration sought to avoid the showdown by an effort to substitute the new compromise bill for the vetoed measure. The compromise bill would provide the same wage increases for postoffice employes as contained in the vetoed bill, but would raise the $68,000,000 needed revenue by levying increased postal rates.

Outcome in Doubt.

Administration leaders were behind the compromise bill, but the file of the Republican party was badly split. Many administration senators were opposed to the substitution on the ground that such a move would defeat the pay increases. If substituted, they pointed out, the bill would have to be acted upon by the House and with a jammed legislative calendar, its final passage March 4 would be problematical.

The first test will come upon an ad-

Telephone Co. Crew Labors 36 Hours To Repair Cable

After 36 hours of continuous labor, a cable crew of the Ohio Bell Telephone company, at 3 o'clock this morning completed repairs to an underground cable, which was flooded Saturday afternoon, affecting approximately 100 telephones in the business district.

As a result of clogged drains, surface water drained into one of the telephone company's manholes in Diamond alley, east of Market street. The water seeped through one of the big cables, carrying approximately 100 wire connecting lines in the business district east of Market street, putting the phones out of commission.

The cable crew, after the trouble had been located, worked throughout Saturday night, all day Sunday and through part of Sunday night making the repairs. The underground sewer was first pumped dry and the big cable pulled to the surface before the repairs could be made.

Service over the lines was re-established Monday morning.

AMBROSE GRAFTON PRISONER HERE

Captain of Police Mason Conley arrived here Saturday from Indianapolis, Ind., with Ambrose Grafton, former local potter, against whom charges of abandonment and non-support are pending in the probate court at Lisbon.

Grafton, who eluded the police for nearly three years, was arrested in Indianapolis, Wednesday, upon a tip received from Boston, his former home. His wife and three children reside here.

100 Adjusted Compensation Certificates Received Here

Twenty-year Policies are Distributed to World War Veterans Who Were Among First to File Applications.

First of the federal adjusted service certificates for veterans of the World war, in compliance with the adjusted compensation act, passed at the last session of congress, arrived here Saturday night and were distributed today. One hundred were in the lot.

Approximately 600,000 applications have already been approved by the Adjusted Compensation Division of the United States Veterans' bureau and the certificates were forwarded January 1.

The certificates are printed on bonded paper, similar to that used in making currency. The policies, of the 20-year endowment type, are payable January 1, 1945.

Approximately 2,000,000 of the 4,500,000 men, who served in the World war have applied for adjusted compensation. The applications are coming in on an average of 12,000 daily, a noticeable increase over the average of a few months ago when the department started a campaign to urge veterans to file their applications.

Time Limit for Filing.

Applications to share under the provisions of the act may be filed up to January 1, 1928. Many of the applications have been returned because of faulty finger prints or for other corrections. Claims of about 15,000 have been disallowed.

Cash payments to veterans who served four months or less will be made after March 1. All others will receive the compensation certificate, payable at the end of 20 years. The policy, however, has a loan value at any bank, after being in effect for two years or more.

Officials of East Liverpool post No. 4, American Legion, estimate that approximately 600 of the community's 1,000 ex-service men have filed applications. The legion has designated Monday and Saturday evenings when applications will be handled at the post's headquarters, 632 Dresden avenue. Applicants are requested to bring their discharge papers with them to facilitate the work of filling out the application blanks.

DAUM APPELL IS ASSESSED $2,000 ON TWO DRY LAW CHARGES HERE

MAN IS SLAIN IN LIQUOR WAR

Cleveland Grocer Stabbed 14 Times and Shot in Thigh.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 5. — The brutal slaying of Adam Rapenchuk, 37, while waiting on two "customers" in his grocery here today took on the aspects of another casualty in the bootleggers' war as detectives began their investigation. Rapenchuk was stabbed 14 times with an ice pick and shot in the thigh as he stooped over to get apples one of his assailant's ordered.

Detectives in search of their files found that the murdered man had been arrested twice recently by two dry agents working out of offices of justices of peace here.

The murder was immediately linked with that of Louis Rosen and Joseph Eidelman which occurred in November. Rosen, claimed by police to have been a "master bootlegger," and Eidelman, his brother-in-law, here on a visit from Philadelphia, were murdered in Rosen's garage early one morning by three men who were never found. Scores of suspects were brought into detective headquarters for questioning, but no tangible clues developed.

$600,000 Fire Sweeps Pittsburgh Building; Probe Under Way

PITSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 55—Fire Marshal Thomas Pfarr, has started an investigation to determine the origin of the fire which today swept the seven-story building of I. Robins and Company, 627 Penn avenue, causing damage of at least $600,000, forced seven families from their homes and for a time threatened the entire block. Pfarr said the damage might amount to $1,900,000.

Today's was the third fire within recent years and firemen declared it seemed to have started in two places at once.

Raid on Campground Farm Nets 50 Gallons of Liquor, Eight Barrels of Mash and 25-Gallon Still.

What is declared by the police to have been one of the largest and most complete liquor-making plants seized in this section since the advent of state-wide prohibition, was confiscated in a raid on a house situated on what is known as the Billingsley farm on the Camp Ground Road about 10 o'clock Saturday night.

As a result of the raid, Daum Appell, said to be a railroad worker, is in the city jail today in default of a $2,000 fine, assessed against him on charges of manufacturing and possessing intoxicating liquors. Appell, who was arrested in the Diamond about an hour after the raid took place, pleaded guilty when arraigned before Mayor Charles Brown on Saturday night.

Acting on a tip received at police headquarters that a still was being operated at the house, about a mile beyond the city limits, Patrolman McFarland and a squad of special police swooped down upon the place. Appell was not at home at the time, but in the upstairs of the house was found a 25-gallon still in operation. Fifty gal-

Berlin Banker, 73, And Wife Commit Suicide With Poison

BERLIN, Jan. 5—Leopold Friedlender, 73- year-old banker, and his wife committed suicide today with poison.

Friedlander's bank was closed recently by the Prosecutor in connection with the sensational Barmat Bank scandal, which involved high Prussian officials.

JUSTICE McKENNA RESIGNS PLACE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Associate Justice Joseph McKenna, of the U. S. supreme court, has submitted his resignation to President Coolidge, it was reported here today.

Justice McKenna has long since passed the retirement age and his resignation has been expected for some time. He is 83 years old.

FRENCH PLAN NOT SUITABLE BASIS TO PAY FOUR BILLIONS

Ambassador Herrick Sends "Memorandum" From Clementel.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

WASHINGTON, January 5.—France's much-heralded "proposition" for the funding of her $4,000,000,000 war debt to the United States was officially revealed today as only an empty gesture, which for the present does not afford a suitable basis on which serious funding negotiations can be begun.

TAKE 2 FRENCH— roomofwhile39

The communication which Ambassador Herrick forwarded to the state department over the week-end was not addressed to the American government nor did it come from the French government, but was a "personal memorandum" from Finance Minister Clementel which contained no definite nor concrete suggestions for payment.

U. S. Asserts Rights.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—The British cabinet took under consideration today America's note which, it is understood, states frankly that the United States has a "legal right" for payment of its war claims through the Dawes reparation plan.

The note was received by the foreign office today and sent immediately to the cabinet. The American note was a reply to the British note of last Wednesday.

Out of the cabinet meeting was expected to come a definite statement of policy, not only on America's war claim, but also on the Franco-American debt and war debts in general.

Italy's Situation Serious.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—Private advices from Italy said that the internal situation there was extremely serious, with both fascists and anti-fascists in the smaller towns aroused to a high pitch.

Conflicts are likely to break out at any moment and the police do not know what course to follow, these advices said. Large numbers of police stood by and watched the fascisti wreck the Nuvo Giornale, a newspaper of Florence, fearing to take a stand against the mob.

It is reported Mussolini plans to create a directory of three—himself and two generals—and impose martial law as a means of bringing order to Italy, but this is believed unlikely, at least at present.

There were evidences in London today that the heavy censorship in Italy is being maintained, if not tightened. News of the trouble there is subject to long delays in transmission.

Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin Stars In Role of Mother

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—"It's a girl. Both getting along nicely."

This was the word today from the Michael Reese hospital here where Mrs. Frederick McLaughlin, formerly Irene Castle of dancing fame, is starring in a new role.

Her daughter, who it is said will be named for the mother, weighed seven pounds. It is Mrs. McLaughlin's first child although she has been married three times, first to Vernon Castle, dancer and British aviation ace, killed in Texas while instructing American flyers, and then to Captain Robert E. Tremain whom she divorced in Paris. She married McLaughlin Thanksgiving eve, 1923.

NELLIE ROSS, FIRST OF HER SEX EVER TO OCCUPY HIGH OFFICE, BECOMES GOVERNOR OF WYOMING

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Jan. 5. — In a brief, simple ceremony that occupied less than half an hour, Nellie Taylor Ross today became governor of Wyoming—the first member of her sex ever to occupy so high an office by the expressed will of the people.

Only by accident of royal birth or by conquest has such an exalted position ever before been obtained by a woman—although the event will be duplicated later this month when Mrs. Miriam (Ma) Ferguson is installed as governor of Texas.

The inauguration ceremony was entirely without pomp or ostentation, in keeping with the insistent demands of Wyoming's new chief executive, who is still bowed with grief over the death of her husband, the late Governor W. B. Ross whom she succeeds in office.

Gowned in a garment of mourning, Mrs. Ross appeared in the senate chamber at the Wyoming state capitol building and before a quitely subdued gathering of friends and well wishers took the oath of office, administered by Chief Justice Charles N. Potter, of the Wyoming supreme court.

The tragic circumstances—her husband's sudden death in October, which brought about her nomination and election—precluded any merriment or show at the inauguration of Mrs. Ross. No special invitations were extended for the ceremony, but the public generally was welcomed, and the senate chamber was well filled when the "sorrowful lady" was inducted into office.

There was no inaugural reception, although all the State officials were present in the chamber.

There will be no inaugural ball or festivities of a nature that have been usual at the the Wyoming state house in the evening of the day upon which the induction of a Governor into office occurs.

Immediately after leaving the senate chamber after taking the oath of office, Mrs. Ross went to the governor's suite and entered upon her duties as chief executive.

The Wyoming legislature will convene in regular biennial session on January 13, eight days hence. There is a constitutional limitation of forty days in which the legislature can remain in session. The lawmakers, therefore, must work diligently, and Mrs. Ross will have ample official business to occupy her attention from the very inception of her term.

The legislature—in both houses—is Republican by a slight margin, while Mrs. Ross is a Democrat.

Southern School Democrat.

Nellie Taylor Ross is the tenth governor of Wyoming elected by the people and the fourteenth person to serve as chief executive of the state. Her term will exire the first Monday in January, 1927. She will serve for two years, filling out the four-year team for which her husband was elected.

In politics Mrs. Ross is a Democrat of the southern school, the daughter of pronounced Democratic parents. At the general election Nov. 4, 1924, her majority was approximately 8,000. She received the largest vote of any candidate on any ticket, although Wyoming, normally a Republican state, went strongly Republican on all offices but governor. At the general election of 1922 William B. Ross was elected by a plurality of but 723.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross were a devoted couple, and the remarkable distinction that has come to her has in no measure assuaged her grief because of his untimely death. She has repeatedly declared that in the performance of her official duties she will constantly endeavor to carry out the policies of her husband and honor his memory by serving the people conscientiously in all things. His appointees are: Lawrence Kindsvatter, East Liverpool, former patrolman, who will be field deputy; Frank Ballentine, office deputy, and David Eells, turnkey at the county jail. Ballentine will remain as office deputy until July, when he will become clerk of courts, succeeding John T. Burns.

Robert M. Brookes, East Liverpool, assistant prosecuting attorney for four years under J. C. Hanley, became county prosecutor. His assistant, Attorney J. E. Bauknecht, city solicitor of East Palestine, also qualified today.

The board of county commissioners will have two new members, terms of Patrick McNicol, of this city, and John F. Kerr, of Salineville, having expired. They are: J. C. Kelly, former city engineer here, and Frank Bye, of Negley. The third member of the board is Conrad Berg, Leetonia, who will be chairman.

Mrs. Myrle Reark Stoffel of East Liverpool, will serve until fall as recorder, filling the unexpired term of her late father, John Reark.

1,071 Prisoners in Four Years

During the four years which Sheriff Lewis has been in office at Lisbon, 1,071 prisoners have been received at the county jail. This is said to be a new high record. Mr. Lewis turned over to his sucessor, George Wright, 36 prisoners. When William Dairymple left office four years ago he turned over 13 prisoners to Mr. Lewis.

All of the eight cells at the county jail are occupied. Many times the jail has been taxed to capacity, but never yet has it been found necessary to refuse a prisoner. Prisoners housed in the county jail during the last four years were charged with all degrees of crime from murder down to petty larceny.

Wellsville Loses 5-cent Fare Fight In Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—The cities of Hubbard and Wellsville, Ohio, lost in the supreme court of the United States today their suits to maintain effective their ordinances restricting street car fares within certain limits to five cents a passenger.

The interstate commerce commission ordered increases in the fares to a parity with intrastate fares by the Pennsylvania Power and Light company and the Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction company, each of which lines cross from Ohio into Pennsylvania. The commission held there was unjust discrimination in the five-cent fare ordinances to other communities.

Lower courts enjoined enforcement of the commission order and it appealed to the United States supreme court. The latter held the interstate commerce commission had authority under law to regulate interurban railways doing an interstate business. Associate Justice McReynolds dissented.

U. S. MARINES WILL QUIT NICARAGUA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—A new era of friendly relations between the United States and Latin-American nations was envisioned today when the state and navy departments, acting under instructions from President Coolidge began the necessary negotiations for the withdrawal of American marines from Nicaragua. When the withdrawal is completed the only any Latin-American country will be the small detail maintained in Haiti.

No definite date has been set for the actual withdrawal but it will take place sometime this month as assurances were given Nicaragua a year ago that the marines would leave in January if the elections in October were conducted legally and order was maintained.

Ralph Emmons Goes To Columbus for Legislative Meet

State Representative Ralph Emmons, East Rochester, left Saturday for Columbus, to attend the opening meeting of the Ohio legislature, which convened today.

Emmons proposes to introduce several measures at this session, but he said he would withhold the subject of these bills until they were ready for presentation.

POSTAL SALARY MEASURE VETO BATTLE OPENS IN WASHINGTON

Administration Faces Legislative Showdown in Congress.

PARTY IS SPLIT

First Test Will Come on Move to "Recommit" Bill.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—For the first time since its landslide victory last November, the administration today faced a legislative showdown in congress over the fiscal policies of President Coolidge.

The clash impended when the Senate began consideration of the Postal salary bill, which President Coolidge vetoed last spring. The administration sought to avoid the showdown by an effort to substitute the new compromise bill for the vetoed measure. The compromise bill would provide the same wage increases for postoffice employes as contained in the vetoed bill, but would raise the $68,000,000 needed revenue by levying increased postal rates.

Outcome in Doubt.

Administration leaders were behind the compromise bill, but the file of the Republican party was badly split. Many administration senators were opposed to the substitution on the ground that such a move would defeat the pay increases. If substituted, they pointed out, the bill would have to be acted upon by the House and with a jammed legislative calendar, its final passage March 4 would be problematical.

The first test will come upon an ad-

Telephone Co. Crew Labors 36 Hours To Repair Cable

After 36 hours of continuous labor, a cable crew of the Ohio Bell Telephone company, at 3 o'clock this morning completed repairs to an underground cable, which was flooded Saturday afternoon, affecting approximately 100 telephones in the business district.

As a result of clogged drains, surface water drained into one of the telephone company's manholes in Diamond alley, east of Market street. The water seeped through one of the big cables, carrying approximately 100 wire connecting lines in the business district east of Market street, putting the phones out of commission.

The cable crew, after the trouble had been located, worked throughout Saturday night, all day Sunday and through part of Sunday night making the repairs. The underground sewer was first pumped dry and the big cable pulled to the surface before the repairs could be made.

Service over the lines was re-established Monday morning.

100 Adjusted Compensation Certificates Received Here

Twenty-year Policies are Distributed to World War Veterans Who Were Among First to File Applications.

First of the federal adjusted service certificates for veterans of the World war, in compliance with the adjusted compensation act, passed at the last session of congress, arrived here Saturday night and were distributed today. One hundred were in the lot.

Approximately 600,000 applications have already been approved by the Adjusted Compensation Division of the United States Veterans' bureau and the certificates were forwarded January 1.

The certificates are printed on bonded paper, similar to that used in making currency. The policies, of the 20-year endowment type, are payable January 1, 1945.

Approximately 2,000,000 of the 4,500,000 men, who served in the World war have applied for adjusted compensation. The applications are coming in on an average of 12,000 daily, a noticeable increase over the average of a few months ago when the department started a campaign to urge veterans to file their applications.

Time Limit for Filing.

Applications to share under the provisions of the act may be filed up to January 1, 1928. Many of the applications have been returned because of faulty finger prints or for other corrections. Claims of about 15,000 have been disallowed.

Cash payments to veterans who served four months or less will be made after March 1. All others will receive the compensation certificate, payable at the end of 20 years. The policy, however, has a loan value at any bank, after being in effect for two years or more.

Officials of East Liverpool post No. 4, American Legion, estimate that approximately 600 of the community's 1,000 ex-service men have filed applications. The legion has designated Monday and Saturday evenings when applications will be handled at the post's headquarters, 632 Dresden avenue. Applicants are requested to bring their discharge papers with them to facilitate the work of filling out the application blanks.

MAN IS SLAIN IN LIQUOR WAR

Cleveland Grocer Stabbed 14 Times and Shot in Thigh.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 5.—The brutal slaying of Adam Rapenchuk, 37, while waiting on two "customers" in his grocery here today took on the aspects of another casualty in the bootleggers' war as detectives began their investigation. Rapenchuk was stabbed 14 times with an ice pick and shot in the thigh as he stooped over to get apples one of his assailant's ordered.

Detectives in search of their files found that the murdered man had been arrested twice recently by two dry agents working out of offices of justices of peace here.

The murder was immediately linked with that of Louis Rosen and Joseph Eidelman which occurred in November. Rosen, claimed by police to have been a "master bootlegger," and Eidelman, his brother-in-law, here on a visit from Philadelphia, were murdered in Rosen's garage early one morning by three men who were never found. Scores of suspects were brought into detective headquarters for questioning, but no tangible clues developed.

PITSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 5.—Fire Marshal Thomas Pfarr, has started an investigation to determine the origin of the fire which today swept the seven-story building of I. Robins and Company, 627 Penn avenue, causing damage of at least $600,000, forced seven families from their homes and for a time threatened the entire block. Pfarr said the damage might amount to $1,000,000.

Today's was the third fire within recent years and firemen declared it seemed to have started in two places at once.

Raid on Campground Farm Nets 50 Gallons of Liquor, Eight Barrels of Mash and 25-Gallon Still.

What is declared by the police to have been one of the largest and most complete liquor-making plants seized in this section since the advent of state-wide prohibition, was confiscated in a raid on a house situated on what is known as the Billingsley farm on the Camp Ground Road about 10 o'clock Saturday night.

As a result of the raid, Daum Appell, said to be a railroad worker, is in the city jail today in default of a $2,000 fine, assessed against him on charges of manufacturing and possessing intoxicating liquors. Appell, who was arrested in the Diamond about an hour after the raid took place, pleaded guilty when arraigned before Mayor Charles Brown on Saturday night.

Acting on a tip received at police headquarters that a still was being operated at the house, about a mile beyond the city limits, Patrolman McFarland and a squad of special police swooped down upon the place. Appell was not at home at the time, but in the upstairs of the house was found a 25-gallon still in operation. Fifty gal-

Britain Advised of U. S. Attitude—Italy Faces Crisis.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

WASHINGTON, January 5.—France's much-heralded "proposition" for the funding of her $4,000,000,000 war debt to the United States was officially revealed today as only an empty gesture, which for the present does not afford a suitable basis on which serious funding negotiations can be begun.

TAKE 2 FRENCH roomotwhile39

The communication which Ambassador Herrick forwarded to the state department over the week-end was not addressed to the American government nor did it come from the French government, but was a "personal memorandum" from Finance Minister Clementel which contained no definite nor concrete suggestions for payment.

U. S. Asserts Rights.

LONDON, Jan. 5—The British cabinet took under consideration today America's note which, it is understood, states frankly that the United States has a "legal right" for payment of its war claims through the Dawes reparation plan.

The note was received by the foreign office today and sent immediately to the cabinet. The American note was a reply to the British note of last Wednesday.

Out of the cabinet meeting was expected to come a definite statement of policy, not only on America's war claim, but also on the Franco-American debt and war debts in general.

Italy's Situation Serious.

LONDON, Jan. 5—Private advices from Italy said that the internal situation there was extremely serious, with both fascists and anti-fascists in the smaller towns aroused to a high pitch.

Conflicts are likely to break out at any moment and the police do not know what course to follow, these advices said. Large numbers of police stood by and watched the fascisti wreck the Nuvo Giornale, a newspaper of Florence, fearing to take a stand against the mob.

It is reported Mussolini plans to create a directory of three—himself and two generals—and impose martial law as a means of bringing order to Italy, but this is believed unlikely, at least at present.

There were evidences in London today that the heavy censorship in Italy is being maintained, if not tightened. News of the trouble there is subject to long delays in transmission.

Her daughter, who it is said will be named for the mother, weighed seven pounds. It is Mrs. McLaughlin's first child although she has been married three times, first to Vernon Castle, dancer and British aviation ace, killed in Texas while instructing American flyers, and then to Captain Robert G. Tremain whom she divorced in Paris. She married McLaughlin Thanksgiving eve, 1923.

she will undoubtedly be confronted by many problems, but is is the belief of those who know her that she possesses the acumen, good judgment and courage to meet and dispose of them in a judicious and satisfactory manner. While she, like her late husband, is a Democrat in politics, she has a multitude of Republican friends and some honest capable Republican advisers.

Mrs. Ross is a refined, educated, comely and stylish woman, a brunette with blue eyes, of medium height and build, graceful in cariage and about 44 years of age. She has three sons, two of them—Ambrose and George—being twins, just past 21 years of age. The other, Bradford, is a boy of 14.

Mrs. Ross received her certificate of election from the state canvassing board on December 13, but could not qualify as Governor, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of her husband until January 5, 1925, the first Monday of that month.

She will receive a salary of $6,000 per annum.

"Movinn Day for Bryan."

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Jan. 5.—Governor elect George H. Dern will take his oath of office and begin his four year term as chief executive of Utah at noon today. Governor Dern is the second Democratic governor of Utah in the state's history.

LINCOLN, Neb. 5.—Today was "moving day" for Charles W. Bryan, Democratic candidate for vice-president in the November election. He retires as governor of Nebraska and vacated the executive mansion to make way for Adam McMullen, his Republican successor. Bryan, who attracted national interest by his "trust busing" activities in the marketing of coal by the state of Nebraska, will continue his fuel business in private life.

lons of corn whisky, part of which police say was tripled istilled; eight barrels of mash, pumps, and other equipment used in the manufacture of the liquor were seized. The still, which was fired by acetylene gas distilled a gallon of liquor an hour, police say.

Question Man In House.

The raiders questioned a man found in the house, but did not arrest him. He was ordered to appear before the mayor this afternoon for further examination. He declared that he had been employed by Appell to remove the wall paper from the downstairs rooms, but police claim he had been left in charge of the still during Appell's absence.

Patrolman James Haley arrested Appell as he was driving through the Diamond about 11 o'clock Saturday night. In his car an empty five-gallon jug and an empty five gallon can were found.

Mayor Brown said that this is Appell's second violation of the liquor laws, he having been arrested and fined before Mayor James Barnes, in Wellsville, about a year ago. The fine assesed against him here, $1,000 on each of the two counts, is the minimum allowed for a second offense under the provisions of the Crabbe act.

The police say that Appell purchased the farm about two months ago, paying $100 cash and the balance at the rate of $30 a month. His automobile, it is claimed, is also mortgaged.

Friends today were endeavoring to raise the money to pay Appell's fine. Unless the fine is paid before Tuesday, he will be committed to the county jail at Lisbon.

French Plan

of a man who has staked all on one throw of the dice.

With a strong show of Fascist force and a continued campaign of suppression and confiscation of the opposition press, he was attempting "to clear the situation in 48 hours" as he promised, urging the identical methods which swept Fascism into power in 1922.

To his friends, to the Fascist press and to independent newspapers, his action was the only alternative of a great leader who had done his best to conciliate his enemies and had met with continued rancor.

To his enemies, the partial mobilization of the Black Shirts, and the ruthless confiscation of opposition newspapers, were a final dramatic gesture of a leader whose popularity was waning.

Large Crowds Hear Evangelist Lockhart At Church of Christ

Fourteen Persons Answer Invitation at Opening of Campaign — "Billy" Lockhart and Mr. and Mrs. Harbinson Assist.

Capacity crowds attended the opening services of the evangelistical campaign at the First Church of Christ, Sunday. The meetings are in charge of Evangelist W. J. Lockhart, his son "Billy," Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Harbinson, all of Des Moines, Iowa, and Rev. B. R. Johnson, pastor of the church.

Fourteen persons answered the invitation at the first day's services. Mrs. Harbinson won favorable comment at Sunday's services by her masterly work at the piano. Mr. Harbinson pleased with two solos, "A Soul Winner for Jesus," and "The Golden Bells."

The young people's work in connection with the revival is being directed by "Billie Lockhart, who is just out of high school. The young man will enter Drake University next fall to prepare himself for the ministry.

Evangelist Lockhart is yet a young man, full of vigor and faith. "I am just an ordinary man, just an old fashioned preacher of an old fashioned gospel," said the speaker in his Sunday evening discourse.

He classed preachers, deacons, elders, class leaders, Sunday school teachers and the ordinary laymen all together and put them in the balances, and weighed then, and when he was through there was no boasting that he did not get his."

"There are five great outstanding sins in every community," said the evangelist. They are now five separate sins, but they are like the five fingers on your right hand; they are five sins in one clutching at the very heart life of the nation. You people in East Liverpool are no worse than the average American community. If I mistake not in my first judgment, you have been caught in the tidal wave of indifference and sin that has swept the nation in the past five years. These five sins are dishonesty, infidelty, the desecration of God's Holy Day, bootlegging and booze fighting, and the damning and blighting social sin.

"We need an old-fashioned revival of plain downright honesty in America. The spirit of "getting by with it" whether it is right or wrong must give way in this nation. The shoddy, cheap articles of manufactures that have been put out and sold for high prices; the disposition to demand big wages and then give only a half-hearted day service; the tendency to take the bankrupt law and get out of being responsible for debts that ought to be honorably paid, all this is indicative of the need for more honest dealings.

"The desecration of God's Holy day with picture shows and vaudevilles and wild west shows and carnivals and excursions and picnics and fishing and hunting and the forsaking of God's house and the turning the Lord's day into a holiday is an outstanding tendency that must be curbed or we shall lose our boasted place as a Christian nation. The bootlegger and the booze fighter are nothing short of anarchists as they try to undermine and overthrow the constitutional law of the land. And the drift toward social looseness in recent years has been so flagrant as to threaten the very home life of the nation."

Tonight, Evangelist Lockhart will speak on "My Personal Faith or Why I Believe in the Bible."

ministration move to "recommit" the vetoed bill with the President's message, to the senate postoffice committee. This would be the initial step in substituting the compromise legislation as the new bill would be acted on immediately and the vetoed measure permitted to die in a committee pigeonhole. Administration leaders, however, did not anticipate success.

If the administration is defeated, the real test then will come directly upon the President's veto and the outcome is in doubt. Under an agreement, a final vote will be reached by 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and there were indications the veto would be debated until that hour.

Democrats Rally Forces.

Democratic leaders rallied their forces to oppose recommitment of the vetoed bill or the substitution of the compromise measure in their desire to force a direct vote on the veto itself.

With support for the move coming from within the administration ranks, it was indicated they would succeed.

If the President's veto is overridden by a two-thirds vote of the Senate, the postal salary bill then will go to the House, in the lower branch, administration leaders admitted, it will be passed over the President's veto without serious opposition.

On the other hand if the President's disapproval is sustained by the Senate, there were indications the salary increases would not be written into law at this session. Administration spokesmen have announced they would abandon the legislation if the veto were upheld.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Industrial stocks were subjected to heavy profit taking in the stock market today and the activities of the first hour represented largely the switching of speculative interest from high priced industrials to the oils and motors and to others which have not participated in the forward movement. In this "switching process" the oils received a large share of the buying public and large blocks of stocks of independent oil companies appeared in the sales lists at fractionally higher prices than at Saturday's close.

The market started off at a furious pace, brokers reporting themselves as literally swamped with orders from all section of the country. The erratic course of prices at the opening of the market showed that not all of these were buying orders. Traders were disposed to take profits on stocks which have been rushing headlong to higher price levels in recent sessions. Radio dropped three points at the opening; U. S. Steel, after advancing to above 130, sold down to 121¼; American Can lost three points at 165, and Westinghouse was down about two points. Rails were inactive but strong.

An advance of 1¼ per cent in the quotation of pound sterling and a rise in the wholesale commodity prices to above the 1925 peak were important pre-opening factors.

Oil stocks were again the leaders of a moderate forward movement in the low priced stocks, with interest centered in Cosden, Marland, Simms, Shell Union, California Pete., Skelly, Pure Oil, Pan-Americans and the Rated Standard oils. Government reports showing the decline in the volume of stored oil products in 1924 to be the largest in the last five years were of special interest, in view of the heavy demand for gasoline and comparatively low production in all but the newly discovered fields. Atlantic Refining sold at 1.01¼, its advance to above 100 for the first time since its decline from 140 to 78½ last year.

Motor stocks were active and fairly strong with Studebaker, White and General Motors in the lead. A decline of six points in the stock of the New Electric Bond and Share Company on the curb was partly responsible for the decline in General Electric.

Nellie Ross

she will undoubtedly be confronted by many problems, but is is the belief of those who know her that she possesses the acumen, good judgment and courage to meet and dispose of them in a judicious and satisfactory manner. While she, like her late husband, is a Democrat in politics, she has a multitude of Republican friends and some honest capable Republican advisers.

Mrs. Ross is a refined, educated, comely and stylish woman, a brunette with blue eyes, of medium height and build, graceful in cariage and about 44 years of age. She has three sons, two of them—Ambrose and George—being twins, just past 21 years of age. The other, Bradford, is a boy of 14.

Mrs. Ross received her certificate of election from the state canvassing board on December 13, but could not qualify as Governor, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of her husband until January 5, 1925, the first Monday of that month.

She will receive a salary of $6,000 per annum.

"Moving Day for Bryan."

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Jan. 5—Governor elect George H. Dern will take his oath of office and begin his four year term as chief executive of Utah at noon today. Governor Dern is the second Democratic governor of Utah in the state's history.

LINCOLN, Neb. 5.—Today was "moving day" for Charles W. Bryan, Democratic candidate for vice-president in the November election. He retires as governor of Nebraska and vacated the executive mansion to make way for Adam McMullen, his Republican successor. Bryan, who attracted national interest by his "trust busing" activities in the marketing of coal by the state of Nebraska, will continue his fuel business in private life.

lons of corn whisky, part of which police say was tripled istilled; eight barrels of mash, pumps, and other equipment used in the manufacture of the liquor were seized. The still, which was fired by acetylene gas distilled a gallon of liquor an hour, police say.

Question Man In House.

The raiders questioned a man found in the house, but did not arrest him. He was ordered to appear before the mayor this afternoon for further examination. He declared that he had been employed by Appell to remove the wall paper from the downstairs rooms, but police claim he had been left in charge of the still during Appell's absence.

Patrolman James Haley arrested Appell as he was driving through the Diamond about 11 o'clock Saturday night. In his car an empty five-gallon jug and an empty five gallon can were found.

Mayor Brown said that this is Appell's second violation of the liquor laws, he having been arrested and fined before Mayor James Barnes, in Wellsville, about a year ago. The fine assesed against him here, $1,000 on each of the two counts, is the minimum allowed for a second offense under the provisions of the Crabbe act.

The police say that Appell purchased the farm about two months ago, paying $100 cash and the balance at the rate of $30 a month. His automobile, it is claimed, is also mortgaged.

Friends today were endeavoring to raise the money to pay Annell's fine. Unless the fine is paid before Tuesday, he will be committed to the county jail at Lisbon.

French Plan

of a man who has staked all on one throw of the dice.

With a strong show of Fascist force and a continued campaign of suppression and confiscation of the opposition press, he was attempting "to clear the situation in 48 hours" as he promised, urging the identical methods which swept Fascism into power in 1922.

To his friends, to the Fascist press and to independent newspapers, his action was the only alternative of a great leader who had done his best to conciliate his enemies and had met with continued rancor.

To his enemies, the partial mobilization of the Black Shirts, and the ruthless confiscation of opposition newspapers, were a final dramatic gesture of a leader whose popularity was waning.

Large Crowds Hear Evangelist Lockhart At Church of Christ

Fourteen Persons Answer Invitation at Opening of Campaign — "Billy" Lockhart and Mr. and Mrs. Harbinson Assist.

Capacity crowds attended the opening services of the evangelistical campaign at the First Church of Christ, Sunday. The meetings are in charge of Evangelist W. J. Lockhart, his son "Billy," Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Harbinson, all of Des Moines, Iowa, and Rev. B. R. Johnson, pastor of the church.

Fourteen persons answered the invitation at the first day's services. Mrs. Harbinson won favorable comment at Sunday's services by her masterly work at the piano. Mr. Harbinson pleased with two solos, "A Soul Winner for Jesus," and "The Golden Bells."

The young people's work in connection with the revival is being directed by "Billie Lockhart, who is just out of high school. The young man will enter Drake University next fall to prepare himself for the ministry.

Evangelist Lockhart is yet a young man, full of vigor and faith. "I am just an ordinary man, just an old fashioned preacher of an old fashioned gospel," said the speaker in his Sunday evening discourse.

He classed preachers, deacons, elders, class leaders, Sunday school teachers and the ordinary laymen all together and put them in the balances, and weighed then, and when he was through there was no boasting that he did not get his."

"There are five great outstanding sins in every community," said the evangelist. They are now five separate sins, but they are like the five fingers on your right hand; they are five sins in one clutching at the very heart life of the nation. You people in East Liverpool are no worse than the average American community. If I mistake not in my first judgement, you have been caught in the tidal wave of indifference and sin that has swept the nation in the past five years. These five sins are dishonesty infidelty, the desecration of God's Holy Day, bootlegging and booze fighting, and the damning and blighting social sin.

"We need an old-fashioned revival of plain downright honesty in America. The spirit of "getting by with it" whether it is right or wrong must give way in this nation. The shoddy, cheap articles of manufactures that have been put out and sold for high prices; the disposition to demand big wages and then give only a half-hearted day service; the tendency to take the bankrupt law and get out of being responsible for debts that ought to be honorably paid, all this is indicative of the need for more honest dealings.

"The desecration of God's Holy day with picture shows and vaudevilles and wild west shows and carnivals and excursions and picnics and fishing and hunting and the forsaking of God's house and the turning the Lord's day into a holiday is an outstanding tendency that must be curbed or we shall lose our boasted place as a Christian nation. The bootlegger and the booze fighter are nothing short of anarchists as they try to undermine and overthrow the constitutional law of the land. And the drift toward social looseness in recent years has been so flagrant as to threaten the very home life of the nation."

Tonight, Evangelist Lockhart will speak on "My Personal Faith or Why I Believe in the Bible."

ministration move to "recommit" the vetoed bill with the President's message, to the senate postoffice committee. This would be the initial step in substituting the compromise legislation as the new bill would be acted on immediately and the vetoed measure permitted to die in a committee pigeonhole. Administration leaders, however, did not anticipate success.

If the administration is defeated, the real test then will come directly upon the President's veto and the outcome is in doubt. Under an agreement, a final vote will be reached by 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and there were indications the veto would be debated until that hour.

Democrats Rally Forces.

Democratic leaders rallied their forces to oppose recommitment of the vetoed bill or the substitution of the compromise measure in their desire to force a direct vote on the veto itself.

With support for the move coming from within the administration ranks, it was indicated they would succeed.

If the President's veto is overridden by a two-thirds vote of the Senate, the postal salary bill then will go to the House, in the lower branch, administration leaders admitted, it will be passed over the President's veto without serious opposition.

On the other hand if the President's disapproval is sustained by the Senate, there were indications the salary increases would not be written into law at this session. Administration spokesmen have announced they would abandon the legislation if the veto were upheld.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Industrial stocks were subjected to heavy profit taking in the stock market today and the activities of the first hour represented largely the switching of speculative interest from high priced industrials to the oils and motors and to others which have not participated in the forward movement. In this "switching process" the oils received a large share of the buying public and large blocks of stocks of independent oil companies appeared in the sales lists at fractionally higher prices than at Saturday's close.

The market started off at a furious pace, brokers reporting themselves as literally swamped with orders from all section of the country. The erratic course of prices at the opening of the market showed that not all of these were buying orders. Traders were disposed to take profits on stocks which have been rushing headlong to higher price levels in recent sessions. Radio dropped three points at the opening; U. S. Steel, after advancing to above 133, sold down to 121¼; American Can lost three points at 165, and Westinghouse was down about two points. Rails were inactive but strong.

An advance of 1¼ per cent in the quotation of pound sterling and a rise in the wholesale commodity prices to above the 1925 peak were important pre-opening factors.

Oil stocks were again the leaders of a moderate forward movement in the low priced stocks, with interest centered in Cosden, Marland, Simms, Shell Union, California Pete., Skelly, Pure Oil, Pan-Americans and the listed Standard oils. Government reports showing the decline in the volume of stored oil products in 1924 to be the largest in the last five years were of special interest, in view of the heavy demand for gasoline and comparatively low production in all but the newly discovered fields. Atlantic Refining sold at 1.01¼, its advance to above 100 for the first time since its decline from 1.40 to 78½ last year.

Motor stocks were active and fairly strong with Studebaker, White and General Motors in the lead. A decline of six points in the stock of the New Electric Bond and Share Company on the curb was partly responsible for the decline in General Electric.

POLICE FUND SETS RECORD

Total of $21,249,26 Taken in by Mayor in 1924.

In addition to marking one of the most effective anti-liquor campaigns staged in Wellsville since the advent of Volsteadean legislation, the year 1924 also established record breaking fines and collections in police court here, according to records announced today by Mayor James S. Barnes.

From January 1, 1924, to December 31, 1924, Mayor Barnes collected the sum of $21,249.26, it was announced.

Spread over the 12 months of the period, the total represents an average of a little more than $1,750 for each 30-day period.

However, the collections did not run evenly throughout the year, the high spots being touched during the second and third months of Mayor Barnes' administration, when several thousands were taken in, principally from big fines.

POLAND FEARS WARFARE WITH RUSSIAN REDS

EXPECT RIOTING

Military Governors, Despite Powers, Fail to Check Unrest.

WARSAW — Revolutionary outbreaks similar to the recent unsuccessful Communist uprising in Esthonia are feared in Eastern Poland at any time. Polish frontier guards on the Russian border engage in sporadic fighting with well-equipped flying columns of insurrectionists who come, apparently, from Soviet Russia.

More than 5,000,000 White Russians and Ukranians, who inhabit the district, oppose Polish rule over them, a fact which complicates the problem of patrolling the border. Most of the local population regard the brigands who make incursion into Poland as national heroes, fighting for the freedom of the country from imposed Polished rule.

Appointment of military governors with extraordinary pawers has failed to put down the unrest. The question of martial law for the border districts will be discussed shortly in the Polish Diet.

Soviet propaganda, which is even pronounced since the rebuff administered to the Soviets by the British Conservative Government, has been responsible for keeping the revolutionary spirit alive. The propaganda falls on fertile ground, for the Ukranians and White Russians, who comprise the bulk of the population of the doubtful districts, differ from the Poles in both language and religion, and consider the Poles only temporary occupants of their country.

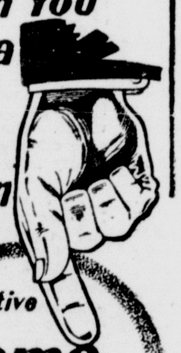

The possibility of armed conflict between Poland and Soviet Russia to settle the status of the inhabitants of the border districts is generally realized by Polish leaders. Soviet Russia regards herself a high protector of the Slavic national minorities in Poland. A Polish-Soviet war could hardly be localized. It would draw in at least the other states carved out of former Western Russia after the war and might lead to a more general conflagration.

"Poland cannot disarm while her neighbors are in arms from tip to toe," War Minister Sikorski declared in the Diet. "The Soviets, during the last six months, have raised fifteen new infantry divisions in addition to the old sixty-two divisions. The Soviets have an air fleet of 100 squardons, which they are increasing daily. Russian factories in the last few months have constructed fifty airplanes. In addition the Soviets have purchased 1,000 airplanes from abroad."

Only One Japanese Earns More Than Million Annually

TOKIO.—Japan has only one man whose annual income exceeds $1,000,000, according to income tax statistics just made public.

This man is Baron Hisaya Iwasaki, president of Mitsubishi Goshi Kaishi, probably the largest importing and exporting form in Japan. His annual income is given as 2,190,000 yen, which at par would amount to $1,097,000. He pays an income tax of approximately $275,000 annually.

Next in line is Baron K. Iwasaki, a member of the same family as Baron Hisaya Iwasaki, who has an annual income of $394,000 and pays a tax of $28,000. Third place is held by Baron H. Mitsui, head of the famous Mitsui family, whose annual income is $391,000, with an annual tax of about $87,000.

In all there are twenty men in Japan with annual incomes in excess of $200,000 who pay income tax in excess of $45,000 each annually.

Lodge Emblems Now Weapons

Owing to the frequency of holdups an ingenius inventor has worked out an idea that may be useful. It is to make lodge pins and other coat lapel adornments carry charges of red pepper which will be discharged whenever the wearer meets a "hands up" operator on a dark night. The mechanism connects the spring to the coat sleeve so that whenever the arms go above a certain level the pepper will be discharged. Strap hangers in street cars would have to be careful.

POLICE FUND SETS RECORD

Total of $21,249,26 Taken in by Mayor in 1924.

In addition to marking one of the most effective anti-liquor campaigns staged in Wellsville since the advent of Volsteadean legislation, the year 1924 also established record breaking fines and collections in police court here, according to records announced today by Mayor James S. Barnes.

From January 1, 1924, to December 31, 1924, Mayor Barnes collected the sum of $21,249.26, it was announced.

Spread over the 12 months of the period, the total represents an average of a little more than $1,750 for each 30-day period.

However, the collections did not run evenly throughout the year, the high spots being touched during the second and third months of Mayor Barnes' administration, when several thousands were taken in, principally from big fines.

Robert Logan, who was arrested on a charge of driving an automobile while he was intoxicated, was fined $100 and costs. Logan was unable to produce the money and went to jail.

POLAND FEARS WARFARE WITH RUSSIAN REDS

EXPECT RIOTING

Military Governors, Despite Powers, Fail to Check Unrest.

WARSAW — Revolutionary outbreaks similar to the recent unsuccessful Communist uprising in Esthonia are feared in Eastern Poland at any time. Polish frontier guards on the Russian border engage in sporadic fighting with well-equipped flying columns of insurrectionists who come, apparently, from Soviet Russia.

More than 5,000,000 White Russians and Ukranians, who inhabit the district, oppose Polish rule over them, a fact which complicates the problem of patrolling the border. Most of the local population regard the brigands who make incursion into Poli[illegible] tory as national heroes fig[illegible] the freedom of the countr[illegible] imposed Polished rule.

Appointment of military governors with extraordinary pawers has failed to put down the unrest. The question of martial law for the border districts will be discussed shortly in the Polish Diet.

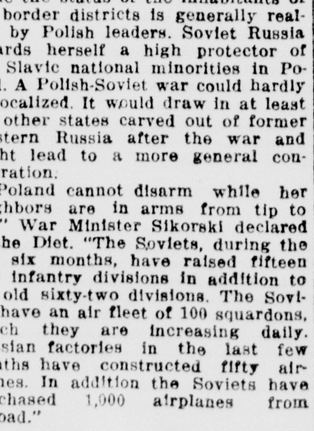

Soviet propaganda, which is even pronounced since the rebuff administered to the Soviets by the British Conservative Government, has been responsible for keeping the revolutionary spirit alive. The propaganda falls on fertile ground, for the Ukranians and White Russians, who comprise the bulk of the population of the doubtful districts, differ from the Poles in both language and religion, and consider the Poles only temporary occupants of their country.

The possibility of armed conflict between Poland and Soviet Russia to settle the status of the inhabitants of the border districts is generally realized by Polish leaders. Soviet Russia regards herself a high protector of the Slavic national minorities in Poland. A Polish-Soviet war could hardly be localized. It would draw in at least the other states carved out of former Western Russia after the war and might lead to a more general conflagration.

"Poland cannot disarm while her neighbors are in arms from tip to toe," War Minister Sikorski declared in the Diet. "The Soviets, during the last six months, have raised fifteen new infantry divisions in addition to the old sixty-two divisions. The Soviets have an air fleet of 100 squardons, which they are increasing daily. Russian factories in the last few months have constructed fifty airplanes. In addition the Soviets have purchased 1,000 airplanes from abroad."

When attacked by pain in the back (lumbago), or limbs, neuritis, or shooting pains anywhere, it indicates usually that the kidneys are not working properly—not eliminating as they should the poisonous uric acid from the blood.

You may be nervous, despondent, sick, feverish, irritable, spots appearing before the eyes, and lacking all ambition. The latest and most effective means of overcoming such trouble is to drink plenty of water between meals and to take a single An-uric (anti-uricacid) tablet before each meal for a while.

An-uric was originated at the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., by Dr. Pierce, Pres., after observation and treatment of thousands of kidney cases. Get An-uric at any drug store or send 10c to Dr. Pierce at above address for a trial package.

Only One Japanese Earns More Than Million Annually

TOKIO.—Japan has only one man whose annual income exceeds $1,000,000, according to income tax statistics just made public.

This man is Baron Hisaya Iwasaki, president of Mitsubishi Goshi Kaishi, probably the largest importing and exporting form in Japan. His annual income is given as 2,190,000 yen, which at par would amount to $1,097,000. He pays an income tax of approximately $275,000 annually.

Next in line is Baron K. Iwasaki, a member of the same family as Baron Hisaya Iwasaki, who has an annual income of $394,000 and pays a tax of $28,000. Third place is held by Baron H. Mitsui, head of the famous Mitsui family, whose annual income is $391,000, with an annual tax of about $87,000.

In all there are twenty men in Japan with annual incomes in excess of $200,000 who pay income tax in excess of $45,000 each annually.

HARRISBURG, Pa. — Fifteen boys and three girls, ranging in age from 8 to 13 years, were arrested on charges of robbing a grocery store after, police said, they had indulged in a drinking party. At the party, the officers declared, one of the girls became intoxicated.

Articles taken consisted mainly of near-beer, cheese and other eatables. Also, as a result of the party, police arrested one man, Roy Hinkle, on a charge of receiving stolen goods. Hinkle is charged by the police with having purchased some beer and other eatables from them.

Lodge Emblems Now Weapons

Owing to the frequency of holdups an ingenius inventor has worked out an idea that may be useful. It is to make lodge pins and other coat lapel adornments carry charges of red pepper which will be discharged whenever the wearer meets a "hands up" operator on a dark night. The mechanism connects the spring to the coat sleeve so that whenever the arms go above a certain level the pepper will be discharged. Strap hangers in street cars would have to be careful.

Stop and Look

Prompted by the fact that the victims of two automobile fatalities in Columbiana county in 1924 in which coroner's verdicts were rendered were East Liverpool men, not to mention the scores of accidents, a few of them fatal, in which no investigation was required on the part of the county official, the police repartment here has decided upon a rigid enforcement of traffic regulations.

Warning has been given motorists that they must stop at all street intersections, instead of dashing into traffic lanes, thus imperilling not only pedestrians, but also other motorists who expect fellow car operators to pay some attention to rules and regulations for driving. And, too, autoists who make a practice of parking cars in restricted areas and those who use the streets for all-night garages are to be brought before the court to explain their violations of the city ordinance. The police also have been instructed to arrest drivers who ignore one-way street signs.

And it would not be amiss if a clause were inserted in the traffic code, requiring pedestrians to look before they dart across street intersections. And, too, they should be warned against the dangerous practice of crossing at any point.

Nearly 1,000 persons were killed in Ohio last year by automobiles. With the increasing number of cars in use, the toll during 1925 will be greater unless more precaution is exercised by motorists and pedestrians. A few arrests and meting out of fines and jail sentences should prove effective in checking the appalling toll.

Military Athletics

Officers, it seems, have been mopolizing army athletics. A change for the benefit of enlisted men is planned under the three-year program recently developed by the war department, effective January 1.

Under the new regime only one officer will be allowed to play on any given team, with the exceptions of golf, tennis and polo. Baseball, football and basketball are to be kept open for the rank and file.

Hereafter there will be athletic contests between teams from the various army corps areas, with schedules arranged between them and marines and naval men stationed near.

Dissatisfaction of enlisted men with the present trend of army athletics and a tightening of congressional purse strings are said to have been the two deciding factors in this change of athletic plans.

Many civilians know nothing about army athletics. They realize vaguely that sports are as useful in their way as military drill is in its way, and they assume that the army and navy play in the proper time and place. That complications arise between officers and enlisted men in the realm of sports rarely occurred to any private citizen. Yet here is the quietly announced new regime in sports with its suggestion that democracy is difficult to maintain even in the athletics of a military organization.

Motor Against Locomotive

The difficulty of suburban trolley lines in meeting motor competition is an old story. It is something new to find a railroad having the same trouble. The Boston and Maine has been so hard hit that it proposes to junk 1,000 miles of track out of its 2,500 miles.

It is, naturally, the branch lines that have suffered and are to be lopped off. So much of the passenger traffic on those branches has taken to automobiles and so much of the freight to trucks that the 1,000 miles in question has come to handle only 3 per cent of the system's business.

The railroad will not abandon the small communities served by the discarded mileage. Instead, it will provide trucks and busses for them. To this end it has organized the Boston and Maine Transportation company, as a subsidiary of its steam lines.

How many railroads will do that sooner or later?

The Nobel committee can't find anybody deserving a peace prize this year. Plenty of people deserving war prizes!

If it is true, as devotees say, that the cross-word puzzle dates back 2,000 years before Christ, we know now why Egypt decayed and Babylon fell.

Haskin Letter

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

UNCLE SAM'S MANY ISLANDS—I

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The American flag flies over more than 7,000 islands out in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. This is a figurative statement, for, of course, a good many of the islands are small, insignificant affairs without houses, people or flag poles. But the fact remains that the United States is responsible for the peace, security and general welfare of 7,083 islands of the Philippines, and also for American Samoa, Guam, the Virgin Islands and Porto Rico.

The fourteen million or more inhabitants of these insular possessions are very much interested in the United States. The children learn at school about George Washington and other American heroes. The people take an interest in the affairs of the United States and in its progress. But they are sometimes surprised and disappointed to discover that Americans know so much less about them than they know about the Americans.

For instance, how many of us are following the present situation in the Virgin Islands, where the Volstead prohibition act has meant a great deal more than a shortage in drinks.

The Virgin Islands are part of the West Indies. They lie in the Atlantic ocean to the east of Cuba and Porto Rico. The United States bought the islands from Denmark for $25,000,000 because of the fact that they easily command the east entrance to the Panama canal. The navy department was put in charge of them.

Most Americans probably thought that we were picking up another bargain like Alaska and that gold mines and profitable industries would immediately be discovered, for our national luck along that line is proverbial.

But the Virgin Islands are not very fertile. They are inhabited by about 25,000 West Indian natives, and about 1,000 white residents. Sugar cane is grown on St. Croix, which is one of the three large islands. But the industry has no advantages which would help it to compete easily with cane from more fertile plantations. The sugar cane industry needs a plentiful water supply, and the Virgin Islands still depend on wells for water. The United States is planning to establish a water supply system with conduits and reservoirs, which will greatly help the sugar industry. One hundred and twenty-five million dollars has been requested for this purpose in the annual budget bill before congress.

ST. THOMAS BAY-RUM

But to return to the present difficulty, St. Thomas, the largest of the Virgin Islands, had one steady and profitable crop, and that was the bay leaves which grow in profusion there. The St. Thomas bay-rum was famous and held its own in any market.

When prohibition put a stop to the manufacture of preparations containing pure alcohol, St. Thomas was hard hit. It has continued to make bay-rum, using such materials as the prohibition law would permit, but the British islands of the West Indies have seived the opportunity to stress the point that their bay-rum is made from pure alcohol, and consequently the Virgin Islands are seriously handicapped in marketing their product.

In addition to the other troubles of the Virgin Islands, a hurricane caused damage amounting $115,000 beyond all the insurance. The wind swept the bay leaves off the trees and set the bay-rum industry back still further.

St. Thomas has had one other important source of income and strangely enough it too was attacked at its base for a time by the Volstead act.

St. Thomas is the first port of call for ships passing the West Indies on the way to Europe. The American prohibition rules at first would not permit ships carrying liquor to come into an American port, and consequently such ships passed by St. Thomas and stopped off at some other island. The loss in trade was a serious matter, but, later, regulations were amended to allow ships to enter the port so long as their liquor cargoes remained sealed.

Still, the Virgin Islands are having rather a hard time. A great many of the natives are leaving the islands and are going to the Harlem district of New York, and to other parts of the United States.

The natural question to ask is: What is the United States going to do to help the islands? It always seems as if some overlooked resource must be the magic key to prosperity, but economic difficulties cannot always be solved politically. The navy department says that an up-to-date water supply is the most practical help which can be given to the Virgin Islands just now.

Just a step from these islands is Porto Rico, which has a population of 1,300,000. When the United States took over Porto Rico in 1898 it had been under Spanish rule for four centuries. There was no established public school system, only private institutions.

In 1898 80 per cent of the people could not read or write. Only 8 per cent of the children between five and 17 years of age went to school. By 1920 illiteracy was reduced to 55 per cent and more than 45 per cent of the children were attending school.

The people of Porto Rico are so eager to learn that the schools are always overcrowded and most of them are run in double sessions. More than 1,000,000 of the Porto Ricans live in rural districts, and bringing education to the interior mountain country of the island is an expensive and difficult task. Yet about 2,000 rural schools have been completed.

Much of the mountain country is still inaccessible, but the insular government is spending a million dollars a year in building roads, and another million on maintenance of the highway system. The island is proud of its roads, which are among the best under the American flag, and the saying is that the Americans who visit Porto Rico admire most of all the beautiful women and the fine roads.

Some of the visitors are surprised to find that almost three-fourths of the Porto Rican population are white people of Spanish descent. Twenty-eight per cent of the people are of colored stock.

Porto Rico is making progress in agriculture and industry, but it has its problems.

WAGE SCALE IS TOO LOW

The governor of the island says that no one who has carefully observed the labor situation in Porto Rico can be fully satisfied with existing conditions, even though they are certainly improving. The wage scale is far below that in any of the states, and is too small, the governor says, to permit the wage-earner with a family to live in comfort and educate his children.

Unemployment is a constant condition. The sugar workers have less than six months' work during the year, and the coffee workers have a still shorter season. It is rare to find a workman who can say that he has a steady job all the yearr ound. Yet the efforts of agricultural agents are gradually bringing about better conditions. People are being taught to improve their live stock, to rotate the crops, and to raise fruit and truck gardens.

The health of the people of Porto Rico is being safeguarded as completely as limited funds will allow. Tuberculosis has always been, and still is, the greatest menace to the health of Porto Ricans, and at present the death rate from this disease is not decreasing.

The health officials say that Porto Rico's tuberculosis sanitorium, which is doing fine work, is inadequate, but they are planning to enlarge it and to make still greater efforts to combat the disease which is being fought with such encouraging results in the United States.

Porto Rico has its own legislature and its own officials with the exception of the governor, who is appointed by the president of the United States. The island is under the supervision of the war department.

The status of some of the island possessions of the United States is hard to define. The United States has charge of a group of six of the Samoan Islands in the South seas. We have had these islands since 1900, but their exact political status has never been defined by congress.

Government officials do business on the principle that the Samoans are not citizens of the United States, but that they owe allegiance to the flag. The constitution and laws of the United States do not apply to them.

They are typical South Sea islands with all that the name implies in the way of beauty, color, luxuriant plant growth and indolent amiable people.

These tropic islands mean a good deal to the United States because of their strategic position at a crossroads of the Pacific.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By ALICE LANGELIER.

PARIS, Jan. 5.—It was a red letter day in the history of the National Academy of Music and Dance when the cinema came to the Opera house in Paris last night.

The Congress Gala drew together all the Parisian elite of letters, arts, and even the president of the republic himself who, for the first time, assisted officially at the presentation of a film.

"The Miracle of the Wolves" is the first attempt of the "Society of Editons of Filmed Historical Novels" to bring to the screen and spread through the world the interesting history of France. "Film musical" was the way the program read, with Charles Dullin as Louis XI and the well-known Vanni-Marcoux as Charles le Temeraire.

Certain episodes, as that of the battle of Montlhery, or the seige of Beauvais, are pages from an epic. The film "premiere" was more than a pleasure for both ears and eyes, and placed the French cinema in the dignified place it deserves.

"Hot fish" instead of "hot dogs" is what automobile peddles are selling in the streets of Paris these days. Upon the initiative of Monsieur Morain, chief of police, who is seeking all manner of means to fight against the H. C. L., automobiles selling fried fish at a low price are making the rounds of the city. The crowds about them seem to speak success for the fried fish flivver.

Much ado over an omelette—but why not, inasmuch as it has made one person very famous? It was M. Poulard, who has just died at Mont St. Michel, in Brittany.

He and his wife invented the famous recipe of the omelette which retained their name. Every year numbers of people go to the famous Mont, never leaving before having tasted the celebrated Poulard omelette, stuffed with potatoes and cooked in the best butter, an admirable dish which usually accompanies small crabs and roast beef.

Monsieur and Madame Poulard celebrated their golden wedding January 15, 1923. For many years they have been too old to make omelettes, but their daughters and granddaughters have kept up the tradition and all of them continue to make the famous Poulard omelette at the Mont St. Michel.

Women are beginning to turn toward pharmacy for a career, judging from the entries at the University of Paris. There are 33 more women inscribed for this faculty this year than in the year 1923. The department of letters still shows the largest number, 1,653 students, more than twice the number studying medicine. There are 643 studying law, 540 in science classes and 317 in pharmacy, hitherto almost neglected by women.

Americans who come to Paris in a year or so will have to look around the corner for their old friend, the celebrated Cafe de Paris, a well-known rendezvous on the Place de l'Opera. The Banque de Paris et des Pays-Bas will take possession within a short time of this cite, but luckily enough the cafe will only move a few steps away, just across the corner, in fact, to the building now occupied by Cooks' agency. The rent will be one of the highest in all Paris and the management one of the most costly. In reality, a better site could scarcely be found than that of the angle of the rue de la Paix and the avenue de l'Opera, just on the ragged edge of the boulevards.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Arose betimes and fashioned my stint before breakfast, something I have never done before and so gay I declared the rest of the day a holiday.

So to the Hippodrome where Mark Leuscher showed me a trained fox, but my dog in such a fenzy the animal was shy. Talked also to the elephant trainer who told me strange tales.

Afterward to lunch with William Johnston, the tayle writer, and afterward to a club and a group of us formed a spelling bee and out of nine I stood third from the winner, tripping up on "zygophylaccous"—a silly word anyway.

In the evening with my wife to Rube Goldberg's, where the men fell to cards and the women to mah jong and I lost very little, being very niggardly even in small gambling. So home late and to bed.

Speaking of poker, there is a tradition that my father in his coltish days was quite skilled in the national pastime. I remember once a week a group of men—Dr. Desmond, Uncle John Lincoln, Cousin Sennett Young and a few others would drop in at father's hotel. One by one they would drift off to room 36. That was the drummer's sample room. One day overcome by curiosity I burst into the room. Never before or since have I felt so unwelcome anywhere. They looked at me with annoyance and at each other guiltily. After that the door was always tightly locked.

Times have changed—at least in New York. Mothers and fathers now play poker with their sons and daughters and all smoke cigarettes together.

There is in New York a professional cabaret hostess who generally winds up the night by bringing gay roysterers home for breakfast. She is the idol of her parents—a real old-fashioned mother and father who have no knowledge of the night life of Broadway. The mother cooks the breakfast and the father does the serving. All their interest in life is centered in their butterfly daughter. And she is devoted to them.

The other night I had a family dinner with a vaudeville troupe known as The Cycling Blanks—the same as fictitious. Walter Kingsely, a vaudeville press agent, took me along with him. There was father, mother, two sons and a daughter who for 18 years have been doing a bicycle act in the halls. Most of the time they are on the road, but they keep up a home—a walk up apartment in the Forties. Rarely have I seen such family devotion. It was the sort of home where the mother was queen. She was anticipated in everything she tried to do by one of her children who did it for her. After dinner she sat in a big comfortable chair—one son on each arm and the daughter at her feet. Each year they take a six weeks' vacation and all go to the Maine woods together to hunt and fish.

I don't suppose expert bicycle riders receive much applause in variety. Yet I believe they invariably hold the attention of the audience. Perhaps it has the interest of the auto race—the expectation of a spill. It is the same with performers on the bounding mat. You wonder what will happen if they miss the mat.

I notice, also, in a theatrical weekly that three county fair high divers have deserted their profession. They say the public is not interested any more. That is a pity! Few thrills outdo those few seconds when the diver on the high pedestal slowly topples forward to the small tank of water.

SUCCESS IS NOT EASY

A very intelligent young woman was asked—she having accomplished business success:

"What do you consider the qualities that make up success, first in a woman employed to work for others, and in a woman owning her own business, managing her employes and responsible for the success of an enterprise?"

The young woman in question has worked as employed and employer. Now she is resting, with a first-class husband.

Here are her answers that will interest the millions of women who work and the other millions who would like to work and be independent if they knew how to get at it.

WHY WOMEN WIN IN BUSINESS

First, she said, you must know that there is a great difference between working for yourself and working for others.

There's as much difference between an employer and an employe as there is between an entire pie and one piece cut out of it.

The employe must have certain qualities, but need not necessarily have all of the qualities that make up a successful business woman working for herself.

In the woman working for another, for instance, these are the three essentials:

First, she must be pleasant, in the literal meaning of the word pleasant, which is, "one that pleases another."

Second, she must be neat, agreeable to look at. All the better for her if, standing with three other women, the average intelligent customer walks up to her first rather than to the others.

If she pleases, the customer is pleased, and that is the foundation of commercial prosperity.

She must be quick. The only real property that we have, whether we are clerks or owners, is time.

Any woman who wastes her time wastes her money and that of her employer, just as certainly as though she were dropping money on the floor and not picking it up.

Third, she must have politeness, which is something more than pleasantness.

To be pleasant means not to offend.

But to be polite means more. It means to go out of your way, to do what the other person wishes. It means consideration for the feelings of others. It means understanding the emotions, the weaknesses, the desires of others.

Give a pleasant disposition, quickness in action and politeness, and you have a good, competent clerk.

SOME QUICK ANSWERS

But for the woman who is to run a business you need many things more.

She must be quick, without neglecting careful inspection of everything that she does with her quickness.

She must be able to thing while she acts. That is not always easy.

She must combine knowledge of men, with reasonable suspicion of those she does not know, and yet not so much suspicion as to make herself the object of suspicion.

She must fight, of course, against one particular quality in men which makes them feel that it is always right to cheat a woman if they can.

Men have an idea that it is almost a shame to let women have money and keep it—and a good deal of their time is spent when they deal with business women in developing plans for relieving them of their money.

A woman employing others must make it her business to know and understand those that work under her. You'll often find a business man or business woman thoroughly acquainted with the machinery of the business, the elevators, the lighting plant, entirely ignorant of the really important machiney, which is the collection of human beings whose combined intelligence and good or bad qualities accomplish the work.

There is not a business in the world of any size that hasn't standing behind its counters, or sitting at its desks, men and women of great capacity going to waste because of lack of understanding.

You would think little of a diamond merchant who did not know the value of every stone in his place, who did not know the stone with flaws and the pure white stone.

An employer who does not know the value of his working people is like a diamond merchant that can't tell the difference between a pure white, old mine stone and one with a touch of yellow.

The good employe is as valuable as the ruby from the crown of an Indian rajah. Such an employe should be encouraged, developed, supplied with opportunity and brought forward with gratitude and appreciation—as a diamond polisher, when he gets the rough stone, works on it and make it the thing that you see glistening on a woman's breast.

There is the employe with that faint yellow off-color touch that makes you know he'll never be the really fine gem of your collection. But he has his value; give him every chance, develop him as far as he will go. A wise diamond hunter doesn't throw away a stone because there is a bit of yellow in it.

Above all, the woman who employs others, whether they be men or women, must first of all know herself.

If you are bad-tempered, you must know it and try to control, or at least hide it.

If at a certain hour of the day you get tired, your temper leaves you and you give short answers and do not hear—go into your office and rest.

You must not let an imperfect machine be run in your business and interfere with it. If you see that you are becoming a poor machine—close up for repairs awhile and attend to yourself.

So spoke a wise, successful business woman.

There are a million opportunities for women in the United States—more than a million. Women are going to be more and more important in business.

Stop and Look

Prompted by the fact that the victims of two automobile fatalities in Columbiana county in 1924 in which coroner's verdicts were rendered were East Liverpool men, not to mention the scores of accidents, a few of them fatal, in which no investigation was required on the part of the county official, the police repartment here has decided upon a rigid enforcement of traffic regulations.

Warning has been given motorists that they must stop at all street intersections, instead of dashing into traffic lanes, thus imperilling not only pedestrians, but also other motorists who expect fellow car operators to pay some attention to rules and regulations for driving. And, too, autoists who make a practice of parking cars in restricted areas and those who use the streets for all-night garages are to be brought before the court to explain their violations of the city ordinance. The police also have been instructed to arrest drivers who ignore one-way street signs.

And it would not be amiss if a clause were inserted in the traffic code, requiring pedestrians to look before they dart across street intersections. And, too, they should be warned against the dangerous practice of crossing at any point.

Nearly 1,000 persons were killed in Ohio last year by automobiles. With the increasing number of cars in use, the toll during 1925 will be greater unless more precaution is exercised by motorists and pedestrians. A few arrests and meting out of fines and jail sentences should prove effective in checking the appalling toll.

Military Athletics

Officers, it seems, have been mopolizing army athletics. A change for the benefit of enlisted men is planned under the three-year program recently developed by the war department, effective January 1.

Under the new regime only one officer will be allowed to play on any given team, with the exceptions of golf, tennis and polo. Baseball, football and basketball are to be kept open for the rank and file.

Hereafter there will be athletic contests between teams from the various army corps areas, with schedules arranged between them and marines and naval men stationed near.

Dissatisfaction of enlisted men with the present trend of army athletics and a tightening of congressional purse strings are said to have been the two deciding factors in this change of athletic plans.

Many civilians know nothing about army athletics. They realize vaguely that sports are as useful in their way as military drill is in its way, and they assume that the army and navy play in the proper time and place. That complications arise between officers and enlisted men in the realm of sports rarely occurred to any private citizen. Yet here is the quietly announced new regime in sports with its suggestion that democracy is difficult to maintain even in the athletics of a military organization.

Motor Against Locomotive

The difficulty of suburban trolley lines in meeting motor competition is an old story. It is something new to find a railroad having the same trouble. The Boston and Maine has been so hard hit that it proposes to junk 1,000 miles of track out of its 2,500 miles.

It is, naturally, the branch lines that have suffered and are to be lopped off. So much of the passenger traffic on those branches has taken to automobiles and so much of the freight to trucks that the 1,000 miles in question has come to handle only 3 per cent of the system's business.

The railroad will not abandon the small communities served by the discarded mileage. Instead, it will provide trucks and busses for them. To this end it has organized the Boston and Maine Transportation company, as a subsidiary of its steam lines.

How many railroads will do that sooner or later?

The Nobel committee can't find anybody deserving a peace prize this year. Plenty of people deserving war prizes!

If it is true, as devotees say, that the cross-word puzzle dates back 2,000 years before Christ, we know now why Egypt decayed and Babylon fell.

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

UNCLE SAM'S MANY ISLANDS—I

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The American flag flies over more than 7,000 islands out in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. This is a figurative statement, for, of course, a good many of the islands are small, insignificant affairs without houses, people or flag poles. But the fact remains that the United States is responsible for the peace, security and general welfare of 7,083 islands of the Philippines, and also for American Samoa, Guam, the Virgin Islands and Porto Rico.

The fourteen million or more inhabitants of these insular possessions are very much interested in the United States. The children learn at school about George Washington and other American heroes. The people take an interest in the affairs of the United States and in its progress. But they are sometimes surprised and disappointed to discover that Americans know so much less about them than they know about the Americans.

For instance, how many of us are following the present situation in the Virgin Islands, where the Volstead prohibition act has meant a great deal more than a shortage in drinks.

The Virgin Islands are part of the West Indies. They lie in the Atlantic ocean to the east of Cuba and Porto Rico. The United States bought the islands from Denmark for $25,000,000 because of the fact that they easily command the east entrance to the Panama canal. The navy department was put in charge of them.

Most Americans probably thought that we were picking up another bargain like Alaska and that gold mines and profitable industries would immediately be discovered, for our national luck along that line is proverbial.

But the Virgin Islands are not very fertile. They are inhabited by about 25,000 West Indian natives, and about 1,000 white residents. Sugar cane is grown on St. Croix, which is one of the three large islands. But the industry has no advantages which would help it to compete easily with cane from more fertile plantations. The sugar cane industry needs a plentiful water supply, and the Virgin Islands still depend on wells for water. The United States is planning to establish a water supply system with conduits and reservoirs, which will greatly help the sugar industry. One hundred and twenty-five million dollars has been requested for this purpose in the annual budget bill before congress.

ST. THOMAS BAY-RUM

But to return to the present difficulty, St. Thomas, the largest of the Virgin Islands, had one steady and profitable crop, and that was the bay leaves which grow in profusion there. The St. Thomas bay-rum was famous and held its own in any market.

When prohibition put a stop to the manufacture of preparations containing pure alcohol, St. Thomas was hard hit. It has continued to make bay-rum, using such materials as the prohibition law would permit, but the British islands of the West Indies have seived the opportunity to stress the point that their bay-rum is made from pure alcohol, and consequently the Virgin Islands are seriously handicapped in marketing their product.

In addition to the other troubles of the Virgin Islands, a hurricane caused damage amounting to $115,000 beyond all the insurance. The storm swept the bay leaves off the trees and set the bay-rum industry back still further.

St. Thomas has had one other important source of income and strangely enough it too was attacked at its base for a time by the Volstead act.

St. Thomas is the first port of call for ships passing the West Indies on the way to Europe. The American prohibition rules at first would not permit ships carrying liquor to come into an American port, and consequently such ships passed by St. Thomas and stopped off at some other island. The loss in trade was a serious matter, but, later, regulations were amended to allow ships to enter the port so long as their liquor cargoes remained sealed.

Still, the Virgin Islands are having rather a hard time. A great many of the natives are leaving the islands and are going to the Harlem district of New York, and to other parts of the United States.

The natural question to ask is: What is the United States going to do to help the islands? It always seems as if some overlooked resource must be the magic key to prosperity, but economic difficulties cannot always be solved politically. The navy department says that an up-to-date water supply is the most practical help which can be given to the Virgin Islands just now.

Just a step from these islands is Porto Rico, which has a population of 1,300,000. When the United States took over Porto Rico in 1898 it had been under Spanish rule for four centuries. There was no established public school system, only private institutions.

In 1898 80 per cent of the people could not read or write. Only 8 per cent of the children between five and 17 years of age went to school. By 1920 illiteracy was reduced to 55 per cent and more than 45 per cent of the children were attending school.

The people of Porto Rico are so eager to learn that the schools are always overcrowded and most of them are run in double sessions. More than 1,000,000 of the Porto Ricans live in rural districts, and bringing education to the interior mountain country of the island is an expensive and difficult task. Yet about 2,000 rural schools have been completed.

Much of the mountain country is still inaccessible, but the insular government is spending a million dollars a year in building roads, and another million on maintenance of the highway system. The island is proud of its roads, which are among the best under the American flag, and the saying is that the Americans who visit Porto Rico admire most of all the beautiful women and the fine roads.

Some of the visitors are surprised to find that almost three-fourths of the Porto Rican population are white people of Spanish descent. Twenty-eight per cent of the people are of colored stock.

Porto Rico is making progress in agriculture and industry, but it has its problems.

WAGE SCALE IS TOO LOW

The governor of the island says that no one who has carefully observed the labor situation in Porto Rico can be fully satisfied with existing conditions, even though they are certainly improving. The wage scale is far below that in any of the states, and is too small, the governor says, to permit the wage-earner with a family to live in comfort and educate his children.

Unemployment is a constant condition. The sugar workers have less than six months' work during the year, and the coffee workers have a still shorter season. It is rare to find a workman who can say that he has a steady job all the yearr ound. Yet the efforts of agricultural agents are gradually bringing about better conditions. People are being taught to improve their live stock, to rotate the crops, and to raise fruit and truck gardens.

The health of the people of Porto Rico is being safeguarded as completely as limited funds will allow. Tuberculosis has always been, and still is, the greatest menace to the health of Porto Ricans, and at present the death rate from this disease is not decreasing.

The health officials say that Porto Rico's tuberculosis sanitorium, which is doing fine work, is inadequate, but they are planning to enlarge it and to make still greater efforts to combat the disease which is being fought with such encouraging results in the United States.

Porto Rico has its own legislature and its own officials with the exception of the governor, who is appointed by the president of the United States. The island is under the supervision of the war department.

The status of some of the island possessions of the United States is hard to define. The United States has charge of a group of six of the Samoan Islands in the South seas. We have had these islands since 1900, but their exact political status has never been defined by congress.

Government officials do business on the principle that the Samoans are not citizens of the United States, but that they owe allegiance to the flag. The constitution and laws of the United States do not apply to them.

They are typical South Sea islands with all that the name implies in the way of beauty, color, luxuriant plant growth and indolent amiable people.

These tropic islands mean a good deal to the United States because of their strategic position at a crossroads of the Pacific.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By ALICE LANGELIER.

PARIS, Jan. 5.—It was a red letter day in the history of the National Academy of Music and Dance when the cinema came to the Opera house in Paris recently.

The Congress Gala drew together all the Parisian elite of letters, arts, and even the president of the republic himself who, for the first time, assisted officially at the presentation of a film.

"The Miracle of the Wolves" is the first attempt of the "Society of Editons of Filmed Historical Novels" to bring to the screen and spread through the world the interesting history of France. "Film musical" was the way the program read, with Charles Dullin as Louis XI and the well-known Vanni-Marcoux as Charles le Temeraire.

Certain episodes, as that of the battle of Montlhery, or the seige of Beauvais, are pages from an epic. The film "premiere" was more than a pleasure for both ears and eyes, and placed the French cinema in the dignified place it deserves.

"Hot fish" instead of "hot dogs" is what automobile peddlers are selling in the streets of Paris these days. Upon the initiative of Monsieur Morain, chief of police, who is seeking all manner of means to fight against the H. C. L., automobiles selling fried fish at a low price are making the rounds of the city. The crowds about them seem to speak success for the fried fish flivver.

Much ado over an omelette—but why not, inasmuch as it has made one person very famous? It was M. Poulard, who has just died at Mont St. Michel, in Brittany.

He and his wife invented the famous recipe of the omelette which retained their name. Every year numbers of people go to the famous Mont, never leaving before having tasted the celebrated Poulard omelette, stuffed with potatoes and cooked in the best butter, an admirable dish which usually accompanies small crabs and roast beef.

Monsieur and Madame Poulard celebrated their golden wedding January 15, 1923. For many years they have been too old to make omelettes, but their daughters and granddaughters have kept up the tradition and all of them continue to make the famous Poulard omelette at the Mont St. Michel.

Women are beginning to turn toward pharmacy for a career, judging from the entries at the University of Paris. There are 33 more women inscribed for this faculty this year than in the year 1923. The department of letters still shows the largest number, 1,653 students, more than twice the number studying medicine. There are 643 studying law, 540 in science classes and 317 in pharmacy, hitherto almost neglected by women.

Americans who come to Paris in a year or so will have to look around the corner for their old friend, the celebrated Cafe de Paris, a well-known rendezvous on the Place de l'Opera. The Banque de Paris et des Pays-Bas will take possession within a short time of this cite, but luckily enough the cafe will only move a few steps away, just across the corner, in fact, to the building now occupied by Cooks' agency. The rent will be one of the highest in all Paris and the management one of the most costly. In reality, a better site could scarcely be found than that of the angle of the rue de la Paix and the avenue de l'Opera, just on the ragged edge of the boulevards.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Arose betimes and fashioned my stint before breakfast, something I have never done before and so gay I declared the rest of the day a holiday.

So to the Hippodrome where Mark Leuscher showed me a trained fox, but my dog in such a frenzy the animal was shy. Talked also to the elephant trainer who told me strange tales.

Afterward to lunch with William Johnston, the tayle writer, and afterward to a club and a group of us formed a spelling bee and out of nine I stood third from the winner, tripping up on "zygophylaceous"—a silly word anyway.

In the evening with my wife to Rube Goldberg's, where the men fell to cards and the women to mah jong and I lost very little, being very niggardly even in small gambling. So home late and to bed.

Speaking of poker, there is a tradition that my father in his coltish days was quite skilled in the national pastime. I remember once a week a group of men—Dr. Desmond, Uncle John Lincoln, Cousin Sennett Young and a few others would drop in at father's hotel. One by one they would drift off to room 36. That was the drummer's sample room. One day overcome by curiosity I burst into the room. Never before or since have I felt so unwelcome anywhere. They looked at me with annoyance and at each other guiltily. After that the door was always tightly locked.

Times have changed—at least in New York. Mothers and fathers now play poker with their sons and daughters and all smoke cigarettes together.

She must combine knowledge of men, with reasonable suspicion of those she does not know, and yet not so much suspicion as to make herself the object of suspicion.

She must fight, of course, against one particular quality in men which makes them feel that it is always right to cheat a woman if they can.

Men have an idea that it is almost a shame to let women have money and keep it—and a good deal of their time is spent when they deal with business women in developing plans for relieving them of their money.

A woman employing others must make it her business to know and understand those that work under her. You'll often find a business man or business woman thoroughly acquainted with the machinery of the business, the elevators, the lighting plant, entirely ignorant of the really important machiney, which is the collection of human beings whose combined intelligence and good or bad qualities accomplish the work.

There is not a business in the world of any size that hasn't standing behind its counters, or sitting at its desks, men and women of great capacity going to waste because of lack of understanding.

You would think little of a diamond merchant who did not know the value of every stone in his place, who did not know the stone with flaws and the pure white stone.

An employer who does not know the value of his working people is like a diamond merchant that can't tell the difference between a pure white, old mine stone and one with a touch of yellow.

The good employe is as valuable as the ruby from the crown of an Indian rajah. Such an employe should be encouraged, developed, supplied with opportunity and brought forward with gratitude and appreciation—as a diamond polisher, when he gets the rough stone, works on it and make it the thing that you see glistening on a woman's breast.

There is the employe with that faint yellow off-color touch that makes you knew he'll never be the really fine gem of your collection. But he has his value; give him every chance, develop him as far as he will go. A wise diamond hunter doesn't throw away a stone because there is a bit of yellow in it.

Above all, the woman who employs others, whether they be men or women, must first of all know herself.

If you are bad-tempered, you must know it and try to control, or at least hide it.

If at a certain hour of the day you get tired, your temper leaves you and you give short answers and do not hear—go into your office and rest.

You must not let an imperfect machine be run in your business and interfere with it. If you see that you are becoming a poor machine—close up for repairs awhile and attend to yourself.

So spoke a wise, successful business woman.

There are a million opportunities for women in the United States—more than a million. Women are going to be more and more important in business.

On the Records' new Records

Movie Organist's First Records

In Chicago, they say people go to the movies just to hear Jesse Crawford play the organ. We understand why when we listen to four numbers by him this week. "Rose-Marie" is a well-known number and makes a fine piece of organ recording. With it is paired "Dreamer of Dreams."

How faithfully the records now catch the sonority and tone colors of the organ is again displayed on two more of Mr. Crawford's recordings. "Somewhere a Voice Is Calling" and Schubert's "Serenade" are the media for two successful interpretations.

A Pair of Waltzes

CHILDRENS CROSS WORD PUZZLE

The words start in the numbered squares and run either across or down. Only one letter is placed in each white square. If the proper words are found each combination of letters in the white squares will form words. The key to the puzzle—first word—is given in the drawing. Below are keys to the other words.

(Running Across.)

Word 1. What the boy in the picture is about to do.

Word 4. The missing word in this sentence: "The bird built its nest in the ——— of this church.

(Running Down.)

Word 1. What a hunter is supposed to do when he sees a bear.

Word 2. A weapon used by the Indians.

Word 3. To go into.

On the Records

Movie Organist's First Records

In Chicago, they say people go to the movies just to hear Jesse Crawford play the organ. We understand why when we listen to four numbers by him this week. "Rose-Marie" is a well-known number and makes a fine piece of organ recording. With it is paired "Dreamer of Dreams."

How faithfully the records now catch the sonority and tone colors of the organ is again displayed on two more of Mr. Crawford's recordings. "Somewhere a Voice Is Calling" and Schubert's "Serenade" are the media for two successful interpretations.

A Pair of Waltzes

Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing The Review-Tribune Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau can not give advice on legal, medical and financial matters. It does not attempt to settled domestic troubles, nor undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Q. Should the City and State be written on the same line on an envelope? E. F.

A. The Post Office Department prefers them on separate lines. This enables postal employees to classify the mail more rapidly.

Q. Did Rube Vickers break the discus record at the Olympic games? E. McE.

A. The world record for throwing the discus is the following: 8½ circle, 156 feet and 1⅝ inches. J. Duncan, United States, May 27, 1912 made this record. Rube Vickers is a professional and consequently never featured in the Olympics.

Q. Let me know the date of the first big fire in Boston T. B.

A. One of the earliest destructive fires that occurred in Boston was that of March 11, 1702, when 100 buildings were destroyed at about two million dollars. The great fire of November 9-11, destroyed 600 buildings covering 65 acres, valued at seventy-three million dollars.

Q. How is petroleum formed? E. L.

A. The Geological Survey says the organic theory of the origin of petroleum is most generally accepted. Crude petroleum of paraffin base is believed to be formed of vegetable debris and petroleum of asphaltic base is believed to be formed of organic matter containing a large proportion of animal matter. Substantially the same products are obtained from petroleum of either base except asphalt which is obtained from asphaltic petroleum only and paraffin wax which is obtained from paraffinaceous petroleum. Paraffinaceous petroleum contains a larger proportion of kerosene, gasoline and other high gravity products than asphaltic petroleum.

Q. Please give a short sketch of Mrs. Fiske the actress. C. F.

A. Minnie Maddern Fiske was born at New Orelans in 1865. She went on the stage when still a child and at 15 was a star under the name of Minnie Maddern. During this period she played with John McCullough, Laura Keene, etc. In 1890 she married Harrison Grey Fiske and retired for five years. Q. What per cent of milk is water? E. T.

A. There is 87% water in whole milk and in skimmed milk 90.5%.

Q. If a foreigner comes over on a foreign ship as a seaman, can he get a job in a factory here? J. T.

A. The Bureau of Immigration says that a seaman may have 60 days in this country before he is considered a deserter from his ship and after that he is a subject for deportation.

Q. What was the plague which visited Athens? J. P.

A. Authorities do not know definitely just what disease was referred to as the plague in Athens. According to the description by Thucydides, the plague ravaged Athens in the second year of the Peloponnesian War, 430 B. C. A large percentage of the population had taken refuge in the city and subsequently the number of deaths was great. The epidemic does not seem to have been the real oriental plague.

Q. Where is the portrait bust of Mrs. Samuel Pepys about which one has read so often lately.? G. E.

A. The portrait bust of Mrs. Pepys is in The City Church of St. Olave, Hart Street, London. Pepys occupied a pew (now demolished) from which he could view the statue.

The average death rate for the registration area of the United States is 11.8 per thousand population. If the death rate in your city is greater than that, ask Akron, Ohio, how she reduced hers to 7.5 per thousand.

GUARDS PLACED AT WATER PLANT

Attempt Made to Blow up Big Reservoir at Parkersburg.

An attempt to dynamite the Parkersburg city reservoir early yesterday morning was discovered with the finding of a 50-pound box of dynamite with fuse and cap attached, the fuse being partially burned. Waterworks officials made the discovery. Police are investigating the attempt which would have undoubtedly resulted in a disaster.

The box in which the dynamite was contained was consigned to a large local hardware firm which handles several magazines in suburbs of the city. Officials of the company declared these storehouses had not been entered, but the police are certain the dynamite was taken from the places.

O. H. Devaughan, superintendent of the waterworks, announced last night that armed guards had been placed about the place with orders to shoot to kill anybody seen approaching the important public works. The superintendent declared the explosion of the dynamite would have wrecked the south wall of the reservoir, as the box was close to the rim of the huge tank, which contained 6,000,000 gallons of water. The fuse attached to the box was burned several inches but had burned out. Residents living nearby remembered hearing a party of men passing early this morning.

Parkersburg, about 10 years ago had a water tank disaster when several persons were drowned and killed early in the morning. The tanks located atop of a large hill in the heart of the city burst without warning, causing several million dollars damage. The water works superintendent states the destruction of the system would likely have caused many deaths as the base of the reservoir hill is thickly populated.

ESCAPED CONVICT AGAIN IN CUSTODY

Martin Carr, 18, one of the seven prisoners who escaped from the Marshall county jail, was captured yesterday afternoon at the B. & O. railroad station in Moundsville. His apprehension came when H. H. High, postmaster at the state prison, recognized the youth as he walked along the tracks, evidently watching for a passing train.

High called officers who were nearby and Carr was placed in custody. He offered little or no resistance and showed no surprise when he was approached. When he was questioned by e marshall county officers regarding the other six fugitives, Carr said that he had no information whatever as to their whereabouts, saying that they had scattered when they left the jail.

LADIES! LOOK YOUNG, DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous and you appear years younger.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS
BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Only a Friendly Interest.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: About three years ago I met a young man nine years my senior and of a very fine family. He asked me to go several places with him, but because I was only 16 and he was so much older, my father would not allow me to go to theaters with him. I then went driving a number of times, unbeknown to my father, but mother did know, and she knew him better than father did. After a while we drifted apart without ever having words. Since then every time I come in contact with him he is extremely talkative and pleasant. When he meets any member of my family he inquires particularly for me. I have met many other young men since then, but the more I meet the more convinced I am that I really love him. Father says now he thinks he is a fine fellow, but I have never made any advancements when we are talking for fear he would think I was "tagging" him. I have sometimes tried to forget him, but it seems the more I try, the more I really love him, although I try to persuade myself I don't. What is your advice? HOPEFUL.

Frankly you have little ground on which to build your hopes. The man shows a courteous and friendly interest in you for old times sake, but if he still cared for you to any great extent he would seek your company. When you and he are talking, try not to be so reserved that he will think you are unfriendly. Your father might help matters by letting the man see that he is not opposed to him.

Make Yourself Worthy.

Dear Mrs. Thompson Early this fall I fell in love with a girl whom I know many others love. I have never heard her quarrel. She is always singing and has a smile for everybody, even a tramp or an animal. I went with her several months, but drank quite frequently although she asked me in a nice way to stop. At last she started going with an out of town fellow. Then I saw my mistake, but too late. I can't bear to see her with any one else, and especially with that fellow. He is a gentleman by all mans, and she always respects a fellow who is mannerly. I am afraid she is keeping steady company with him. Please tell me some way that I can try to get her back. If I were only as good as she! I'm bad. She does not speak to me now. I would give anything to be on friendly terms with her, and so please help me. The old saying, "You never miss the water until the well runs dry."

JIGGS B.

Since you lost the girl because of your drinking, your only hope of winning her back is by overcoming the habit and proving yourself a man worthy of her. After several months or a year of good behavior, approach the girl again, and say that you want her to know that you have overcome your bad habits and that you are ashamed you did not come to your sense before you lost her friendship.

Not Ladylike To Flirt.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I noticed that a certain girl would like to know what a refined young man thinks of a flirt, and embarrassing for the young man she is trying to flirt with. This applies whether it is done in a vulgar manner or in a so-called ladylike manner. A girl that wil flirt is not very much of a lady.

A YOUNG MAN WHO KNOWS.

Thank you very much for expressing your opinion of flirting.

Call of Birthplace Brings Young Girl Back to America

NEW YORK.—The call of America, her birthplace, has brought Miss Teresina Di Primio back to this country alone from Italy, leaving her parents in that country. They had taken her to Italy when she was a baby; but she returned to America as soon as she was old enough.

No immigration official could challenge her right to admission.

Miss Di Primio had her birth certificate. There was no danger that she would become a public charge, for she is over the childrens' age limit of sixteen. So she went on her way to join her cousin, Mrs. Luisa Di-Micco, in Syracuse. She explained her return by saying:

"When I grew old enough to realize what it meant to be born in America I determined to claim my birthright even though it meant separation from my parents, who are excluded by your technicalities. There are other thousands of American born children in Italy who will come back to their native land when they are old enough to travel alone."

Noted Shoplifter Requests to Serve Unexpired Sentence

NEW YORK.—Mary Knowles, 26, dressed in an expensive fur coat and a costly hat, arraigned in Special Sessions on a charge of shoplifting, startled the justice by asking to be returned to Bedford Reformatory to serve an unexpired sentence.

The woman had been arraigned five times since 1917 for shoplifting. While at the reformatory she caused so much trouble that she was sent to Matteawan. When paroled she broke her parole within an hour of her release, and was returned.

The detectives said they found a large quantity of expensive wearing apparel in her room.

Bomb-throwing Gang Now Standing Their Trials.

ALL UNDER 24

Young "Intelligensia" Dub Themselves "the Awakening Magyars."

VIENNA—Eight murders, twenty-three attempted murders and many dynamite outrages are attributed to a bomb-throwing gang of young men now standing their trials at Budapest.

Styling themselves the "Awakening Magyars," the gangsters are said to have been led by Josef Marffly, a young bank official of twenty-four. None of the gang is more than twenty-four years old, and most of its members belong to the ranks of the "intelligensia."

The police have taken the most elaborate precautions to protect witnesses for the prosecution against the efforts of the accused to intimidate them.

Among the charges formulated against the gang is that it filled a metal box with dynamite and placed it behind a mirror in the hall of the Elizabeth Theatre Club, where a banquet was to be held. The device was so cleverly manipulated that it exploded just as all the guests assembled, with the result that eight persons were killed and twenty-three seriously injured.

In addition to this outrange, the men are charged with an attempt to bomb the law courts, the building of the Czecho-Slovakian Consulate, the palace of the French Ambassador, and with writing letters, threatening murder to the French Ambassador and to the Hungarian Foreign Minister.

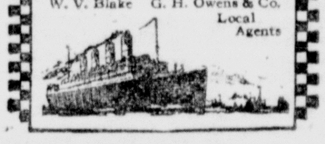

The progress of the trials is causing an enormous sensation throughout the country.

A little water on the stove beats a lot of coal in it.

Plazza Bird Being Restored.

Many years ago one of the rock bluffs facing Alton, Ill., along the Mississippi river, was terrifyingly adorned by a painted likeness of a bird-like dragon. It is believed to have been placed there by Indians and was first reported by Father Marquette in 1673. Over 50 years ago it was blasted off in quarry operations but citizens of Alton are now repainting the bird, as a public enterprise to preserve historic lore of the community. The bird was referred to as the "plazza" bird.

"When I grew old enough to realize what it meant to be born in America I determined to claim my birthright even though it meant separation from my parents, who are excluded by your technicalities. There are other thousands of American born children in Italy who will come back to their native land when they are old enough to travel alone."

Noted Shoplifter Requests to Serve Unexpired Sentence

NEW YORK.—Mary Knowles, 26, dressed in an expensive fur coat and a costly hat, arraigned in Special Sessions on a charge of shoplifting, startled the justice by asking to be returned to Bedford Reformatory to serve an unexpired sentence.

The woman had been arraigned five times since 1917 for shoplifting. While at the reformatory she caused so much trouble that she was sent to Matteawan. When paroled she broke her parole within an hour of her release, and was returned.

The detectives said they found a large quantity of expensive wearing apparel in her room.

Bomb-throwing Gang Now Standing Their Trials.

ALL UNDER 24

Young "Intelligensia" Dub Themselves "the Awakening Magyars."

VIENNA—Eight murders, twenty-three attempted murders and many dynamite outrages are attributed to a bomb-throwing gang of young men now standing their trials at Budapest.

Styling themselves the "Awakening Magyars," the gangsters are said to have been led by Josef Marffy, a young bank official of twenty-four. None of the gang is more than twenty-four years old, and most of its members belong to the ranks of the "intelligensia."

The police have taken the most elaborate precautions to protect witnesses for the prosecution against the efforts of the accused to intimidate them.

Among the charges formulated against the gang is that it filled a metal box with dynamite and placed it behind a mirror in the hall of the Elizabeth Theatre Club, where a banquet was to be held. The device was so cleverly manipulated that it exploded just as all the guests assembled, with the result that eight persons were killed and twenty-three seriously injured.

In addition to this outrange, the men are charged with an attempt to bomb the law courts, the building of the Czecho-Slovakian Consulate, the palace of the French Ambassador, and with writing letters, threatening murder to the French Ambassador and to the Hungarian Foreign Minister.

The progress of the trials is causing an enormous sensation throughout the country.

Piazza Bird Being Restored.

Many years ago one of the rock bluffs facing Alton, Ill., along the Mississippi river, was terrifyingly adorned by a painted likeness of a bird-like dragon. It is believed to have been placed there by Indians and was first reported by Father Marquette in 1673. Over 50 years ago it was blasted off in quarry operations but citizens of Alton are now repainting the bird, as a public enterprise to preserve historic lore of the community. The bird was referred to as the "piazza" bird.

NOMINATING COMMITTEE NAMED BY THE COUNTY FARM BUREAU

Officers Will be Elected at Annual Meeting Scheduled to be Held Thursday, January 15 — Many Townships Represented.

Practically every township in the county is represented on the nominating committee selected by the executive committee of the Columbiana County Farm Bureau to select a slate of officers to be voted upon at the annual meeting of the Farm Bureau scheduled for Jan. 15 next.

The executive committee, composed of the following members, met in Lisbon at the offices of the farm bureau last week: Butler township, Howard Holloway; Centre, Samuel Tritten; Elkrun, Frank Bowman; Fairfield, J. A. Edgerton; Franklin, Edward Muiherin; Knox, M. F. Heftand; Liverpool, Harry Hill; Madison, William Blazier; Middleton, E. L. Zuch; Salem, Salem, Charles Zimmerman; Unity, Charles Lemley; St. Clair, E. N. Hickman; Perry, John Williams; Hanover, H. A. Bailey; West, T. E. Whitaker; Wayne, J. Ellsworth Rice; Washington, Daniel N. Smith; Yellow Creek, E. C. Wallace.

John Kerr of Yellow Creek township has been president of the county farm bureau for the past year, and it may follow that he will be re-elected to succeed himself, just as Clark J. Halverstadt of Salem township was re-elected to succeed himself for several terms.

The executive committee also approved the contract between the farm bureau and Phil E. Heim, manager of the Columbiana County Livestock Shipping association for another year. Mr. Heim entered upon his work in this county last February, and has been very successful in his efforts of bringing live stock shippers a large net return for their shipments than they were formerly accustomed to receive.

It is expected that the nominating committee will meet within the next fortnight to select a ticket which will be voted upon at the annual meeting.

Because of the co-operative movement inaugurated during the last year over 13,000 bushels of apples were shipped from this county under the name of "Buckeye Brand," this being the first year that apples from this county were ever shipped under a brand.

This class of shipping was made possible through the organization of the New Waterford Fruit Growers association, of which A. A. Strong of New Waterford is president. The association, after apples have been delivered to the warehouse by the growers are graded and packed according to size, variety and condition.

Because of the success of the co-operative shipping of apples this season, it is believed that not less than 25,000 bushels will be distributed through this channel during 1925.

The Columbiana County Horticulture society has purchased 45 tons of sulphate of ammonia which will be applied to commercial orchards in this county, and in addition, orders were placed for two cars of spray material.

Two orchard tours were conducted by the horticultural society during 1924, and similar tours are contemplated for 1925, it is said. A committee has already been selected, to have charge of the orchard demonstrations next year.

Considerable credit is being given members of the three cattle breeders' associations in this county for their assistance in putting over the recent county-wide tuberculin test. These three associations are the Jersey, Guernsey and Holstein cattle owners, and all members are committed to the policy of owning and dealing in stock that is tuberculin tested and also registered. It is a matter of record that each of these associations have always held testing as their major project.

During the past year the Jersey breeders, through the Columbiana County Jersey Cattle club, have sold registered and tested Jersey cattle to the value of $6,940, this value representing 48 head and sold by 19 different breeders. It is interesting to know that this sale record is the direct result of the expenditure of $280.90 in advertising. There are 185 Jersey breeders in Columbiana county, owning approximately 518 head. The sales organization of the Jersey breeders' association has been classed as one of the most active in the state and especially in this part of northeastern Ohio.

Fourteen poultry houses and 13 brooder houses were built in this county during the last year from plans furnished by the office of the Columbiana County Farm Bureau. It is also declared that during the year 13 poultry demonstrators have completed their year's work in every detail. The visit to these poultry plants by those poultry raisers who went about their work with more or less carelessness has resulted in greater enthusiasm among poultry growers to raise better stock and under improved conditions.

The new poultry calendar that is being issued by the farm bureau is assisting in the better poultry movement.

ROAD BUILDING PLANS FORMED

Tentative Improvement Program Filed With Commissioners.

A tentative road improvement program for this county for 1925 has been worked out and filed with the board of county commissioners at their meeting Monday.

For the East Rochester - North Georgetown road $48,000 of county funds will be required and $40,000 will be needed for the improvement of the Rogers-Clarkson highway.

For the East Palestine-Negley road $50,000 is to be set aside and for the Lisbon-Elkton road $16,000 is to be appropriated.

For the North Georgetown-Salem road $22,000 is required, and there has been set aside $15,000 for the county share for the improvement of the East Liverpool-Wellsville road on Wells avenue, Wellsville.

It has been pointed out that the two mill levy will return $260,000 to the county, and for dirt roads there will be available $35,000. For surface treating approximately $15,000 will be available and assessments will return $10,000 to the county, or a total receipt for road improvement purposes of $320,000.

Of this amount, $100,000 is to be set aside to match state funds, leaving $220,000 for other projects.

The road program as it has been worked out so far will require $191,000 and a balance of $29,000 is left available for other work, according to the schedule that has been prepared.

From the state, and for use on inter county highways, the county expects to receive not less than $38,000 and from federal aid a sum of $45,000 is expected. Then from the regular state road fund the county expects to receive $17,000, or a sum total of $100,000 from these several sources.

State and county projects for the coming year will include the completion of the Wellsville-Salineville road at a cost of $120,000 and a section of I. C. H. No. 502, or the East Liverpool - Youngstown road will require $40,000, or a total of $160,000 for these two projects.

SALEM TOWNSHIP MAN DRAWS FINE

Charged with failure of sending two of his children to school as provided by law, Charles Phillis Sr. of Salem township was fined $20 and costs in a justice of the peace court at Lisbon Saturday night, following his arrest by Constable Clarence Wetzel of Lisbon on an affidavit filed by the county attendance officer, Ira F. Hassler. Children of Phillis are students in the Fairview rural school. Phillis is employed in Salem but resides on a farm in Salem township.

REPORT SHORTAGE OF RABBIT FURS

A shortage of rabbit furs is reported by farmers and hunters in this county, and the reason is assigned to the wet spring season of 1924, when so many rabbit holes were flooded and the young were drowned.

Those who have been dealing in fur skins in this county have declared that the rabbit fur shortage this season is ranging from 50 to 75 percent of normal. Prices for skins are soaring, and sales are being made on a market of from 40 to 50 percent higher than that received the previous season.

He Coughed For Two Years Swore Off

After coughing for two years almost continuously a man of considerable means got thin and tired and worn out, made his will, and was ready to quit the big game of life.

A friend spoke to him about Bronchuline Emulsion and now life to him is very sweet indeed.

That's the kind of a cough that is put out of business with amazing speed when the cougher is wise to Bronchuline Emulsion.

Tough old coughs—persistent coughs—coughs that hang on and rob people of their sleep—those are the kind of coughs Bronchuline likes to tackle.

Many times such coughs linger after the Grip or a heavy cold, and if you have one or know of anyone who has one keep Bronchuline Emulsion in mind.

It isn't just a cheap sweet cough syrup—it's the best cough remedy—and the best is never cheap. Jesse D. Holloway, Carnahan's Drug Store, East Liverpool and Newell, W. Va.

NOMINATING COMMITTEE NAMED BY THE COUNTY FARM BUREAU

Officers Will be Elected at Annual Meeting Scheduled to be Held Thursday, January 15 — Many Townships Represented.

Practically every township in the unty is represented on the nomiting committee selected by the exutive committee of the Columbiana ounty Farm Bureau to select a slate officers to be voted upon at the nual meeting of the Farm Bureau heduled for Jan. 15 next.

The executive committee, composed the following members, m in isbon at the offices of the farm bu au last week: Butler township, oward Holloway; Centre, Samuel itten; Elkrun, Frank Bowman; airfield, J. A. Edgerton; Franklin, dward Muiherin; Knox, M. F. Hef nd; Liverpool, Harry Hill; Madison, illiam Blazier; Middleton, E. L. nch; Salem, Salem, Charles Zimerman; Unity, Charles Lemley; St. lair, E. N. Hickman; Perry, John Williams; Hanover, H. A. Bailey; Vest, T. E. Whitaker; Wayne, J. llsworth Rice; Washington, Daniel . Smith; Yellow Creek, E. C. Wallace.

John Kerr of Yellow Creek township has been president of the county rm bureau for the past year, and may follow that he will be re-elect d to succeed himself, just as Clark . Halverstadt of Salem township was re-elected to succeed himself for several terms.

The executive committee also approved the contract between the farm bureau and Phil E. Heim, manager of the Columbiana County Livestock shipping association for another year. Mr. Heim entered upon his work in this county last February, and has been very successful in his efforts of bringing live stock shippers a large net return for their shipments than they were formerly accustomed to receive.

It is expected that the nominating committee will meet within the next fortnight to select a ticket which will be voted upon at the annual meeting.

Because of the co-operative movement inaugurated during the last year over 13,000 bushels of apples were shipped from this county under the name of "Buckeye Brand," this being the first year that apples from this county were ever shipped under a brand.

This class of shipping was made possible through the organization of the New Waterford Fruit Growers association, of which A. A. Strong of New Waterford is president. The association, after apples have been delivered to the warehouse by the growers are graded and packed according to size, variety and condition.

Because of the success of the cooperative shipping of apples this season, it is believed that not less than 25,000 bushels will be distributed through this channel during 1925.

The Columbiana County Horticulture society has purchased 45 tons of sulphate of ammonia which will be applied to commercial orchards in this county, and in addition, orders were placed for two cars of spray material.

Two orchard tours were conducted by the horticultural society during 1924, and similar tours are contemplated for 1925, it is said. A committee has already been selected, to have charge of the orchard demonstrations next year.

Considerable credit is being given members of the three cattle breeders' associations in this county for their assistance in putting over the recent county-wide tuberculin test. These three associations are the Jersey, Guernsey and Holstein cattle owners, and all members are committed to the policy of owning and dealing in stock that is tuberculin tested and also registered. It is a matter of record that each of these associations have always held testing as their major project.

During the past year the Jersey breeders, through the Columbiana County Jersey Cattle club, have sold registered and tested Jersey cattle to the value of $6,940, this value representing 48 head and sold by 19 different breeders. It is interesting to know that this sale record is the direct result of the expenditure of $280.90 in advertising. There are 185 Jersey breeders in Columbiana county, owning approximately 518 head. The sales organization of the Jersey breeders' association has been classed as one of the most active in the state and especially in this part of northeastern Ohio.

Fourteen poultry houses and 13 brooder houses were built in this county during the last year from plans furnished by the office of the Columbiana County Farm Bureau. It is also declared that during the year 13 poultry demonstrators have completed their year's work in every detail. The visit to these poultry plants by those poultry raisers who went about their work with more or less carelessness has resulted in greater enthusiasm among poultry growers to raise better stock and under improved conditions.

ROAD BUILDING PLANS FORMED

Tentative Improvement Program Filed With Commissioners.

A tentative road improvement program for this county for 1925 has been worked out and filed with the board of county commissioners at their meeting Monday.

For the East Rochester - North Georgetown road $48,000 of county funds will be required and $40,000 will be needed for the improvement of the Rogers-Clarkson highway.

For the East Palestine-Negley road $50,000 is to be set aside and for the Lisbon-Elkton road $16,000 is to be appropriated.

For the North Georgetown-Salem road $22,000 is required, and there has been set aside $15,000 for the county share for the improvement of the East Liverpool-Wellsville road on Wells avenue, Wellsville.

It has been pointed out that the two mill levy will return $260,000 to the county, and for dirt roads there will be available $35,000. For surface treating approximately $15,000 will be available and assessments will return $10,000 to the county, or a total receipt for road improvement purposes of $320,000.

Of this amount, $100,000 is to be set aside to match state funds, leaving $220,000 for other projects.

The road program as it has been worked out so far will require $191,000 and a balance of $29,000 is left available for other work, according to the schedule that has been prepared.

From the state, and for use on inter county highways, the county expects to receive not less than $38,000 and from federal aid a sum of $45,000 is expected. Then from the regular state road fund the county expects to receive $17,000, or a sum total of $100,000 from these several sources.

State and county projects for the coming year will include the completion of the Wellsville-Salineville road at a cost of $120,000 and a section of L. C. H. No. 502, or the East Liverpool - Youngstown road will require $40,000, or a total of $160,000 for these two projects.

REPORT SHORTAGE OF RABBIT FURS

A shortage of rabbit furs is reported by farmers and hunters in this county, and the reason is assigned to the wet spring season of 1924, when so many rabbit holes were flooded and the young were drowned.

He Coughed For Two Years Swore Off

After coughing for two years almost continuously a man of considerable means got thin and tired and worn out, made his will, and was ready to quit the big game of life.

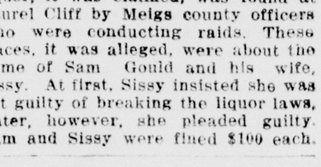

A friend spoke to him about Bronchuline Emulsion and now life to him is very sweet indeed.

That's the kind of a cough that is put out of business with amazing speed when the cougher is wise to Bronchuline Emulsion.

Tough old coughs—persistent coughs—coughs that hang on and rob people of their sleep—those are the kind of coughs Bronchuline likes to tackle.

Many times such coughs linger after the Grip or a heavy cold, and if you have one or know of anyone who has one keep Bronchuline Emulsion in mind.

It isn't just a cheap sweet cough syrup—it's the best cough remedy—and the best is never cheap. Jesse D. Holloway, Carnahan's Drug Store, East Liverpool and Newell, W. Va.

Don't let that itching keep you awake

ECZEMA, ringworm, and other itching rashes seldom heal themselves, but Resinol Ointment does heal them and makes refreshing sleep possible for skin sufferers.

One who has used this comforting, healing ointment writes—"Resinol Ointment is so soothing it stopped my itching at once and I got the first night's sleep I had had in weeks. Now my skin is well."

Resinol Soap is a valuable aid to Resinol Ointment, and its daily use for the toilet and bath is sufficient to keep most complexions clear, fresh and glowing. At all druggists.

WOMAN SO ILL WASHED DISHES SITTING DOWN

Mrs. Ashcroft's Remarkable Recovery After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Covington, Ky.—"I was so weak and nervous I could hardly do my housework as I could not stand because of the bearing-down pains in my back and abdomen. I sat down most of the time and did what I could do in that way—as washing dishes, etc. One day a book describing Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines was put in my mail-box. I saw how the Vegetable Compound had helped others so I gave it a trial. I had to take about a dozen bottles before I gained my strength but I certainly praise this medicine. Then I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood medicine for poor blood. I was cold all the time. I would be so cold I could hardly sit still and in the palms of my hands there would be drops of sweat. I also used the Sanative Wash and I recommend it also. You may publish this letter and I will gladly answer letters from women and advise my neighbors about these medicines."—Mrs. HARRY ASHCROFT, 632 Beech Avenue, Covington, Kentucky.

Road Impassable.

The stretch is about a quarter of a mile long and was thought to have been left in passable condition when the contractors suspended work late in the fall. Nothing has been done to relieve the situation, which has existed for several weeks.

This is a state highway and not under the jurisdiction of the Hancock county commissioners.

Bible Class Meeting.

BELLAIRE—Attorneys for Kondrat Gkozdenkow, under sentence to die on May 16, in the electric chair for murdering Anna Kuskoff, 8, at Dilles, a mining town near here, have filed an appeal which will result in delaying the Russian's execution, if not actually preventing the electrocution. The motion will be taken up at the May term of the Belmont county appellate court. In the event of an adverse ruling, Gwozdenkow's counsel will carry the case up to the state supreme court, it was stated. The condemned slayer is occupying a cell in the death chamber at the penitentiary. He was taken there the day before Christmas.

Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A family supply easily and quickly made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for its healing effect on the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Old-Time Favorites Appear Here With Field Minstrels

Jack Richards Heads Cast of Singers, Dancers and Comedians at Ceramic Theatre Tuesday Evening.

Thirty-seven years of keeping faith with the American public have resulted in a universal popularity for the Al G. Field Minstrels, and a host of friends all over the county. The 38th annual edition will be presented at the Ceramic theatre Tuesday with the same list of favorites that have helped for many years to build up an enviable reputation for this organization, the aim of which is to keep old-time minstrelsy in the hearts of the people, and in this they have been more than successful. The Field Minstrels are looked forward to in every city. They enjoy a popularity unequalled by any other similar organization.

Jack Richards, the great Welsh tenor, is again at the head of the cast of singers, dancers and comedians. To hear him sing is to know what real song can mean. He stands at the top, and is nationally known and admired. And there are Billy Church, Price Jenkins, Ola Elwood, Loyd Gilbert, Harry Frillman and Leslie Berry—a host of good voices. Nick Hufford, premier black-face comedian, and his co-partners, Harry Frankel, Jack Kennedy, Harry Shunk and Johnny Healy, are a riot of fun and laughter that threatens to stop the show. Boni Mack, the clever female impersonator, is so real that "she" keeps the audience guessing. Billy and Leo Doran head the clever dancing cast, both nimble and light footed.

Old-time minstrelsy is the backbone of this year's production. The semi-circle, the endmen, and all the characteristics of the old art, have been kept intact in the show. But the settings and the costuming are more elaborate than those of any previous year. Dancers are transformed into gay swaying tulips, sea-faring cabin boys, or vivid harlequins of another country. Singers become the crew of the jolly yacht "America," sailing the high seas. Seats are now on sale.

TIMELY VIEWS ON WORLD TOPICS

"Europe Making Sound Gains Toward Firm Footing," Says Otto Kahn. England.

This is the way Otto H. Kahn, American financier, sizes up the general economic and political situation in Europe:

"England, which during and since the war has shown nothing less than economic heroism in her steadfast adherence to sound and tested principles, has thereby established an asset of incalculable value, the returns from which are bound to be large and lasting. The advance in the value of the pound sterling to within a fraction of its par value is an expression of the world's unquestioning confidence in Great Britain's economic ways, methods and character, and of its estimate of what the future has in store for her.

OTTO KAHN

France.

"France, industrious, prosperous, with abundant employment for her people, and with a favorable balance of trade, has enacted the necessary measures of taxation to establish the equilibrium of her budget, and is preparing to address herself to the permanent solution of such other questions within the province of governmental financial policy as may be said to constitute the one remaining signal problem before her.

Italy.

"Italy, which throughout the difficulties of the post-war period has resolutely followed the dictates of a wise and correct fiscal policy and imposed upon herself great sacrifice in pursuance of that policy, has made extraordinary progress under the clear-sighted and far-visioned guidance of Mussolini, and is steadily forging ahead.

Germany.

"Germany, freed from the curse of a fluctuating currency and from the reparations chaos, and the resulting bitter hopelessness, is busking down again to disciplined, efficient and intelligent effort and is finding and applying anew the qualities which enabled her to attain so high a place in commerce and industry prior to the war, a place the recovery of which the enlightened public opinion of the world would not begrudge to a Germany which will loyally fulfill its obligations to the best of its ability and co-operate toward the peaceable progress of the world."

Southeast Europe.

Of Southeastern Europe, Kahn says the "injustice, the political maladjustment and the economic faultiness of the territorial arrangements in Southeastern Europe, as determined by the peace treaties, have been further intensified by the maintenance of undue and threatening military force, by the harsh and unfair treatment of racial minorities, and by a narrow and invidious nationalistic policy on the part — to a greater or lesser degree—of those states who were the beneficiaries of those treaties."

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal Bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

The cross-word puzzle diagram is merely a means of concealing words which are synonymous to those listed and which will interlock perfectly and so read equally well crosswise or downwards. Always look for the number of the synonym on the diagram. If horizontal, you must find a word to fit between that number and the first shaded stop to the right; if vertical, you must fit your word between the number and the first shaded stop below.

Proverbs from the Balkan countries, Serbia and Montenegro in particular, make up today's installment (No. eleven) of the series of presentations of the proverbs of all peoples.

More laws, more confusion, more difficulties.

He who deceives me once is a scoundrel, but he who deceives me often is a smart man.

Where thrift, there honesty.

A castle offered for a dinar (a coin) is dear when you have no dinar.

Who up to his twentieth year does not learn, and up to his thirtieth does not save some money, will be a burden to his people.

Who makes frequent inquiries about the road does not go astray.

Who does not take care of other people's goods will never have his own.

It is better to have an ounce of wisdom than a hundredweight of muscle.

More people die of eating and drinking (excessively) than die of hunger and thirst.

BRITISH JUDGE WOULD NOT SIT UNTIL FURNISHED PROPER CHAIR

LONDON.—Judge Crawford, a tall and heavy man, has refused to sit in the Edmonton County Court because of the miserable armchair provided for him by the government.

His old chair broke down from age. In its place the government department known as the "Office of Works" sent down a small chair that the judge declared was fit only for an office boy. The judge refused to occupy this and said that the Office of Works must supply one that would uphold the dignity of one of His Majesty's judges, or he would complain to the Lard Chancellor.

Another chair was sent, but this, also, proved too insignificant. An official of the Office of Works has now been looking over the situation, and hopes in time to supply a chair that will meet both the dignity and the physical requirements of the judge.

40,000 U. S. Soldiers Living Tender Canvas Despite Zero Weather

WASHINGTON — With sub-zero weather just around the corner, 40,000 United States soldiers are living under canvas or under temporary roofs and within flimsy wooden walls with no better shelter in sight.

This was the bleak picture of army life revealed by Secretary of War Weeks in his annual report to the president, requesting immediate initiation of an adequate army housing program.

One army post, characterized as typical of several others, was described as lacking in bath and toilet facilities. "Such a condition is hardly conceivable and is certainly not conducive to sanitation or morals."

Maniac Believed To Have Taken Refuge On Island in Lake

PLATTSBURG, N. Y.—Residents of Cumberland Head believe an escaped lunatic or an eccentric hermit has made his home on an island in Lake Champlain, close to the shore. Each night piercing screeches, like those of a man in pain, ring out through the darkness from the direction of a small island which is regarded as barren.

The noises have continued for several nights, and local adventurers are waiting for the lake to freeze over so that they may investigate. No light or sign of habitation can be discerned from shore, but the startling yells, followed by continuous laughter, are disturbing.

TIMELY VIEWS ON WORLD TOPICS

"Europe Making Sound Gains Toward Firm Footing," Says Otto Kahn. England.

This is the way Otto H. Kahn, American financier, sizes up the general economic and political situation in Europe:

OTTO KAHN

"England, which during and since the war has shown nothing less than economic heroism in her steadfast adherence to sound and tested principles, has thereby established an asset of incalculable value, the returns from which are bound to be large and lasting. The advance in the value of the pound sterling to within a fraction of its par value is an expression of the world's unquestioning confidence in Great Britain's economic ways, methods and character, and of its estimate of what the future has in store for her.

France.

"France, industrious, prosperous, with abundant employment for her people, and with a favorable balance of trade, has enacted the necessary measures of taxation to establish the equilibrium of her budget, and is preparing to address herself to the permanent solution of such other questions within the province of governmental financial policy as may be said to constitute the one remaining signal problem before her.

Italy.

"Italy, which throughout the difficulties of the post-war period has resolutely followed the dictates of a wise and correct fiscal policy and imposed upon herself great sacrifice in pursuance of that policy, has made extraordinary progress under the clear-sighted and far-visioned guidance of Mussolini, and is steadily forging ahead.

Germany.

"Germany, freed from the curse of a fluctuating currency and from the reparations chaos, and the resulting bitter hopelessness, is busking down again to disciplined, efficient and intelligent effort and is finding and applying anew the qualities which enabled her to attain so high a place in commerce and industry prior to the war, a place the recovery of which the enlightened public opinion of the world would not begrudge to a Germany which will loyally fulfill its obligations to the best of its ability and co-operate toward the peaceable progress of the world."

Southeast Europe.

Of Southeastern Europe, Kahn says the "injustice, the political maladjustment and the economic faultiness of the territorial arrangements in Southeastern Europe, as determined by the peace treaties, have been further intensified by the maintenance of undue and threatening military force, by the harsh and unfair treatment of racial minorities, and by a narrow and invidious nationalistic policy on the part — to a greater or lesser degree—of those states who were the beneficiaries of those treaties."

THE DOUBLE HOUSE

By Elizabeth Dejeans

Karesia held herself to composure. "He said he would telephone. I was afraid one or the other of them would be killed."

Karesia did not dare to ask him why he was exhibiting such bitter jealousy; he might veer to an attitude that would cause her far more embarrassment. She understood perfectly why he had brought Dascome's daughter to her in that condition, but she could not understand why, after all these years, it should matter to him what she did, or whom she favored. She could not fathom his motives; that he loved her still, in his headlong fashion, was less believable than that he had hardened into an ugly-spirited, revengeful man. She did not know what to say. She simply looked into the fire.

Rossiter thrust his clenched hands into his pockets. "Mr. Dascome will go to Deeme's house, learn what happened, then call upon me," he said in the same hard, mocking way. "I shall send him to you then, Kara mia—that is, if he doesn't put a bullet into me first—or try to choke the life out of me. After all, she is his daughter, and he thinks I haven't treated her very well—in his place, I'd be inclined to do the same. Well, we'll see," and he turned to the door.

Karesia looked up in swift terror. She had been thinking of Dascome's anxiety, not of the construction he might put on Rossiter's act. She had a sudden vision of Dascome enraged, a lion attacking a panther, Rossiter tearing at Dascome's strong hands! She ran after him and caught his arm. "Rand! Don't quarrel with him, please! Please, don't! He doesn't know you as I do, or he wouldn't thing such a thing—not for a minute."

Rossiter stopped under her clinging hands and looked down into her quivering face. "Which one of us are you agonizing over?" he demanded. "Tell me that first!"

"Over you both."

"It's not the answer I want."

He had shaken her off and had reached the door and Karesia could think of but the one way. It was plain enough now, the thing she had been unable to believe was true. "If you want to kill every atom of my love for you, go ahead. Just remember that I shall never see you or speak to you again," and she walked away from him.

Rossiter sprang after her, caught her, turned her about, and lifted her face to his. "Now—tell me—the truth!" he said, breathing quickly. "You still love me? There is no one else?"

"You are my husband," she answered through stiff lips. "I have never forgotten it."

His face changed completely. He drew her to him and kissed her, eyes and cheeks, lips and throat. He looked down at her, passive in his arms, burning but unresponsive, and, suddenly, he laughed, thickly and curtly. "Love!" he said. "For a minute I thought it was true! It's simply a sense of responsibility—your duty—your conscience and not your heart!"

He loosed her and Karesia stood, head bent, quivering and silent.

Rossiter studied her, his face hardening into determination. "Understand me, Kara! I want from you what I never had, the thing that sees a man through, 'for better or for worse.' There's a deal to undo, but no other man is going to take my chance away from me—I have the first right, and I mean to keep it."

Though shaking from head to feet, Karesia held to her purpose. Her head lifted. "The future will decide that. I'm not the girl who married you five years ago. What you have become, your own conduct will show. I haven't and I never will have anything to give to a taunting, revengeful spirit. If you choose you can quarrel with a man who has done you no harm, you can advertise the fact that you married me five years ago, you can make it difficult for me and disagreeable for yourself—and lose the chance you say you want. Love can't be forced—it's a thing that's given."

The mocking light sprang into his eyes. "And to whom were you preparing to give it Kara mia—when I appeared on the scene?"

Karesia looked down, lips set, cheeks burning. Rossiter looked at her mass of hair which he had disordered, at the nape of her neck, fresh and sweet as a child's. "God! I'd like to tell you a few things instead of letting you learn them!" he exclaimed with a touch of desperation. "If you weren't the sort you are, I'd do it! I believe your treatment of me is the one exception in your entire life. Perhaps it's remorse that has made you tender to every stray dog that comes your way. Is it?"

"I have been sorry, Rand—many times," Karesia said in a smothered way. "I wrote you that I was sorry!"

Rossiter's entire expression changed. "You wrote to me! I swear I never received it!" He grew white. "I have never had a word from you from that day to this! Kara, when did you write to me?"

She looked at him, grown as white as he. "I wrote when my boat reached Honolulu!"

"To San Francisco? To Randsome Favriyue?" he asked swiftly.

"Yes. To the hotel where we were."

"To Randsome Favrique, of course! And I had gone. I went to New York and enlisted, as Randsome Rossiter. I left no address at the hotel. My Lord! If only I'd had the courage to tell you that I'd been on the stage, all that history of mine. I ought to have told you before we were married. But I was afraid you would distrust me. Before I met you I'd stopped drinking. I wasn't going back to the stage—I was going to take you to Uncle Rossiter's and begin all over again. The day we were married, I decided I'd tell you all about it and then I took a drink to brace me, and—well, you know the rest. . . . Kara, did you write that you would come back to me?"

"Yes."

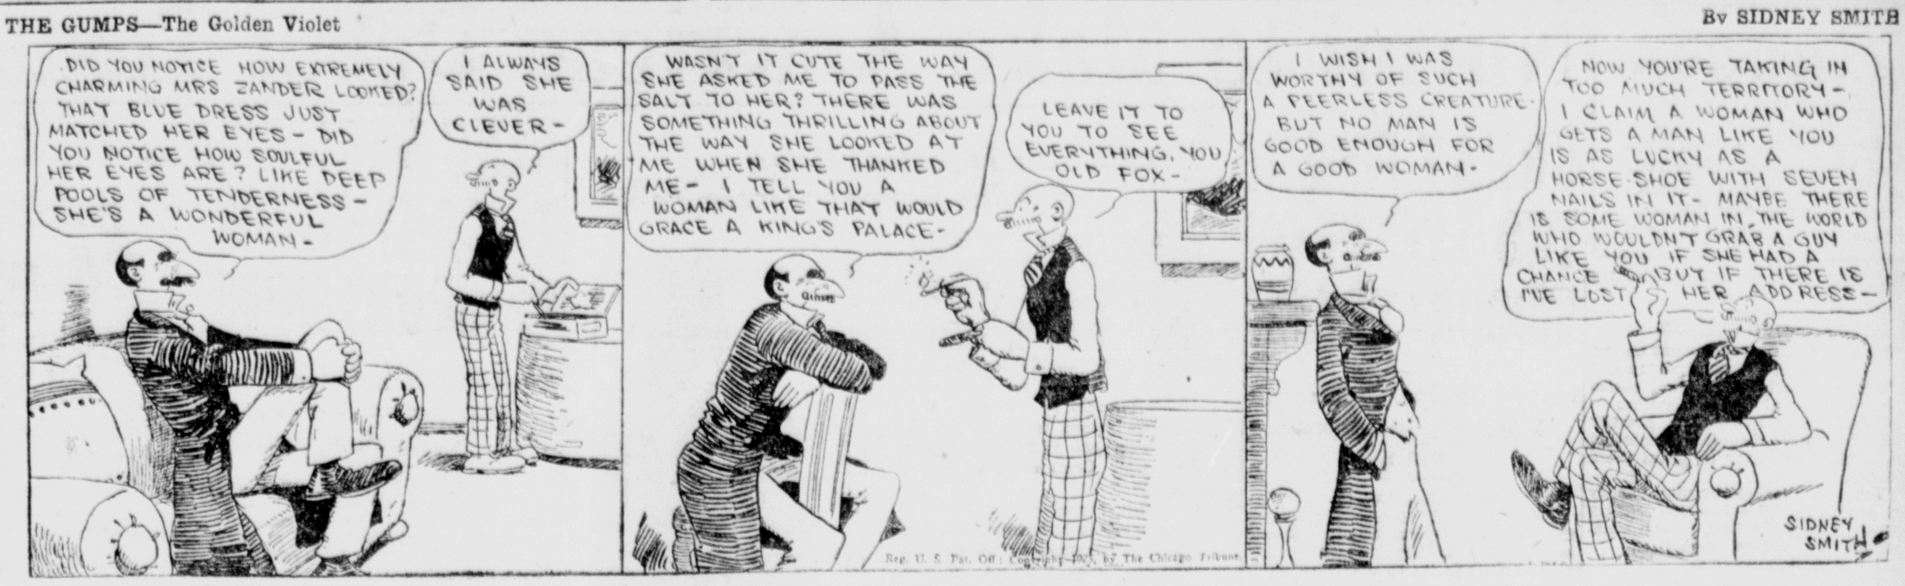

It was hard for her to say it, how hard Rossiter could see plainly enough, and that she dreaded the thing she expected him to say in return.

Rossiter looked at her, at her clinging negligee. "Waiting to hear from him, of course."

Karesia held herself to composure. "He said he would telephone. I was afraid one or the other of them would be killed."

Karesia did not dare to ask him why he was exhibiting such bitter jealousy; he might veer to an attitude that would cause her far more embarrassment. She understood perfectly why he had brought Dascome's daughter to her in that condition, but she could not understand why, after all these years, it should matter to him what she did, or whom she favored. She could not fathom his motives; that he loved her still, in his headlong fashion, was less believable than that he had hardened into an ugly-spirited, revengeful man. She did not know what to say. She simply looked into the fire.

Rossiter thrust his clenched hands into his pockets. "Mr. Dascome will go to Deeme's house, learn what happened, then call upon me," he said in the same hard, mocking way. "I shall send him to you then, Kara mia—that is, if he doesn't put a bullet into me first—or try to choke the life out of me. After all, she is his daughter, and he thinks I haven't treated her very well—in his place, I'd be inclined to do the same. Well, we'll see," and he turned to the door.

Karesia looked up in swift terror. She had been thinking of Dascome's anxiety, not of the construction he might put on Rossiter's act. She had a sudden vision of Dascome enraged, a lion attacking a panther, Rossiter tearing at Dascome's strong hands! She ran after him and caught his arm. "Rand! Don't quarrel with him, please! Please, don't! He doesn't know you as I do, or he wouldn't thing such a thing—not for a minute."

Rossiter stopped under her clinging hands and looked down into her quivering face. "Which one of us are you agonizing over?" he demanded. "Tell me that first!"

"Over you both."

"It's not the answer I want."

He had shaken her off and had reached the door and Karesia could think of but the one way. It was plain enough now, the thing she had been unable to believe was true. "If you want to kill every atom of my love for you, go ahead. Just remember that I shall never see you or speak to you again," and she walked away from him.

Rossiter sprang after her, caught her, turned her about, and lifted her face to his. "Now—tell me—the truth!" he said, breathing quickly. "You still love me? There is no one else?"

"You are my husband," she answered through stiff lips. "I have never forgotten it."

His face changed completely. He drew her to him and kissed her, eyes and cheeks, lips and throat. He looked down at her, passive in his arms, burning but unresponsive, and, suddenly, he laughed, thickly and curtly. "Love!" he said. "For a minute I thought it was true! It's simply a sense of responsibility—your duty—your conscience and not your heart!"

He loosed her and Karesia stood, head bent, quivering and silent.

Rossiter studied her, his face hardening into determination. "Understand me, Kara! I want from you what I never had, the thing that sees a man through, 'for better or for worse.' There's a deal to undo, but no other man is going to take my chance away from me—I have the first right, and I mean to keep it."

Though shaking from head to feet, Karesia held to her purpose. Her head lifted. "The future will decide that. I'm not the girl who married you five years ago. What you have become, your own conduct will show. I haven't and I never will have anything to give to a taunting, revengeful spirit. If you choose you can quarrel with a man who has done you no harm, you can advertise the fact that you married me five years ago, you can make it difficult for me and disagreeable for yourself—and lose the chance you say you want. ## Runyon Says

Amherst Has Best College Song.
Yale Has the Best College Yell.
Get an Old Timer to Render It.
Harry Wills Can Beat Gibbons.
Kid Norfolk Tells Reasons Why.

BY DAMON RUNYON

THE writer's recent comment on the decadence of college cheering and singing, especially at Harvard, seems to have attracted some attention.

Several correspondents heartily agree, others are disposed to question the writer's authority to judge these matters.

"You say years of listening qualify you as an expert," writes one. "What is your idea of the best college song, and the best college cheer?"

This is easily answered.

The best college song lyric and melody, is Amherst's.

The writer thinks all collegians who have heard it will agree with him. Get some old—or young—Amherst man to sing it for you.

The best college cheer, or yell, properly delivered, is Yale's. It doesn't read impressive, but an old Yalensian will shout it for you with cadence and spirit.

Be sure and get an OLD Yalensian. The young ones don't put quite enough behind the yell.

The name Yale, short and snappy, lends itself to a yell better than the heavy-syllabeled Harvard and Princeton. There is something loggy about these names as emitted by the rooting choruses.

Cornell has a great yell. So has Chicago. Going farther west you find one of the greatest of all the college yells at the University of Colorado, with many strong-lunged young men and women to utter it.

The writer once saw a football game between two professional teams playing in a city where they had no local affiliation. There was no organized cheering. The result was what he imagines grand opera would be without music.

What sport changes in 1925?

You are as good a guesser as the writer.

What title holders of the present will be "ex's" at the close of the year?

Dempsey?

It is possible, but not probable.

The heavyweight champion may make one appearance, that against Tom Gibbons, of St. Paul. No other contender has demonstrated sufficient ability to raise the suggestion of a meeting with Dempsey—and even the suggestion of Gibbons isn't very strong as yet.

Harry Wills may come on again. The "Brown Panther of New Orleans" lost much prestige in his fight with Luis Angel Firpo. However, the pugilistic public quickly forgets—a decisive victory over some heavyweight will renew Will's name in fistic conversation.

If neither seems to have a chance to get the title match within the next few months, Gibbons and Wills may meet.

Both Gibbons and Wills are getting old. Neither made any considerable money out of the boxing game up to the past two years. They know they will have a few additional opportunities of making "big" money.

Naturally, every man wishes to retire with a competence. Gibbons and Wills have been patiently waiting the chance of getting a nice, fat, lump sum, such as a title match would bring. You can't blame them for that.

But next to a match with Dempsey in New York or New Jersey, Wills and Gibbons can get the most money in meeting each other.

The writer is inclined to think Wills would whip Gibbons. He bases this opinion on Will's greater size and strength, also on what was told him by Kid Norfolk, the

GREAT FINN IN TWO EVENTS ON INDOOR TRACK

Ray, Higgins, Hahn and Connolly to Oppose Him.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Not since the days of the Dorando-Johnny Hayes match, aces of happy memory, has New York become so exercised as it has over the impending American debut of Paavo Nurmi, world's greatest runner, at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night. Nurmi will start in a special mile and a five thousand metre run at the Finnish-American A. C. games and his appearance will mark a revival in track and field Atheletics such as followed the 1908 olympics at London where Dorando was carried across the line in the marathon and Hayes, Finnish second, subsequently declared the winner.

That incident made for arch rivalry and the present instance has much in common with it. After being beaten four times by Nurmi at Paris, the American runner who would not give his windpipe for a victory over the Finn, is an American runner without the ambition of a second foot man. Joie Ray, Lloyd Hahn, Walter Higgins and Jimmy Connolly are some of the entries who will essay to take issue with Nurmi over the mile distance.

As far as the writer is concerned, they might as well try to take issue with an antelope. It is said that Nurmi will be handicapped by his lack of familiarity with indoor running, which is probably the case. My idea of an adequate handicap for Nurmi is to call in Houdini and let him do his worst.

The general interest, in fact, is in Nurmi himself and not in the possibility of his defeat. His records have created an aura around him such as no American public can resist and he has added to his attractiveness with a personality that runs strongly to temperament and an immoderate sense of the theatrical. His self-timing during his races is only one of his idiosyncrasies.

Evidence of bad blood between Nurmi and Willie Ritola, Americanized fellow countryman, also has had its popular appeal. Actually, they are as friendly as a pair of ermit crabs but much has been said about the case that does not carry a basis of truth.

It has been declared that their enmity started when Nurmi declined to shake hands with Ritola after the five thousand metre race at Paris. It also has been intimated that they had agreed to set a moderate pace in this event and that Ritola attempted to double cross Paavo by stepping out on him three laps from home. It is to laugh.

Ritola had all he could do to stay on Nurmi's heels through the greater portion of his race. There was no "understanding," no brotherly act about it. Nurmi went out to win and he did. They say that Ritola was less than two yards back at the finish, which is true. But they neglect to state that Nurmi was cake-walking, while he looked back over his shoulder, when the incident in question occurred. He could have stepped five seconds faster while Ritola was all "run out."

As a matter of fact their unfriendliness antedated the incident by several days. It began when Nurmi "propositioned" Ritola on the 10,000 metre race, which he wished to conduct as a two-man, handshaking affair.

Ritola refused to be a party to the proceedings and Nurmi withdrew from the race, which was won by Ritola, some twelve seconds under the world's record. If it was possible to have beaten Nurmi at Paris, Ritola would have done it in this race.

For Yale to Lick.

"Princeton spends $75,000 annually to develop a football team," says a wire item. For Yale to lick.

He's the bird we need at home to carry out the winter's ashes out of the grate.

French Star Threatens Reign of Willie Hoppe on Green Table

Roger Conti, French billiard star, now looms up as the most formidable opponent of Willie Hoppe, veteran 18.2 balkline billiard champ, when Hoppe defends his title in February against the world's leading cue artists. Conti indicated his form recently by setting a new world's record for high run in the European 18.2 balkline title tourney. Conti hung up a run of 477.

Conti, though young, is not a newcomer in billiard circles. He has participated in three world's championship matches in the U. S. while keeping up his European competitions.

Hoppe himself is sincere in his admiration for Conti's play. "If he shows that form in the coming tourney I might just as well give him the title," says William. Conti, however, laughingly remarks that he'd sooner win the crown with his cue than have it presented to him.

Milwaukee Player Tops Association In Batting Record

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—Lester Bell shortstop of the Milwaukee team, was awarded the batting honors of the American association, in the official figures published today. Bell played in 154 games, was officially at bat 630 times, made 230 hits and his batting average was .365.

Five other players topped Bell in the official figures but they had only played a few games and the honors were given to Bell. Bell also tied for scoring the most runs and ranked high in runs batted in.

E. Smith, of Kansas City, was the Association's leading slugger, knocking out 28 homers, 17 trippies and 45 doubles.

Milwaukee finished first in club batting with an average of .299, with Louisville second, two points behind.

KING WILL GO TO CONVENTION OF SPORTSMEN

Sessions Scheduled for January 14 in Columbus.

J. L. King, of Salem, president of the Columbiana County Fish and Game Protective association, will represent the county sportsmen at the annual meeting of the League of Ohio Sportsmen which will open on Wednesday morning, January 14, in the Fort Hayes hotel in Columbus.

Mr. King is the only delegate from the county sportsmen's organization.

The convention is expected to be the most important gathering in the history of organized sportsmen of Ohio. The session will get under way at 9 o'clock on the morning of January 14, continue until late in the afternoon and then after a short adjournment will assemble for the banquet and speechmaking that will wind up the day.

The convention will elect officers for 1925, formulate the platform for its operation this year, decide on the measures in the interest of the sportsmen it will support in the new general assembly and consider all matters from the floor presented by the delegates.

Most Important Bills.

The two most important bills that will be framed for presentation to the general assembly will be the anglers' license and anti-pollution of streams. Both have been fought for for several years and the sportsmen believe the prospects for favorable consideration by the assembly are better than ever before.

In the afternoon session Rev. R. K. Caulk of Medina, the league's spiritual adviser, will give an address pertinent to the future of the organization, which promises to be one of the big features. Rev. Mr. Caulk is noted for calling a spade by its right name, and in his review of the support accorded the league in the past year will have some truths to relate.

A resolutions committee will be appointed early in the convention and its report, probably in the afternoon, will bring on debates that will end in a constructive program which the league will stand back of in the next twelve months.

Festival of Peace.

The big feature of the banquet will be the address of Gov. Vic Donahey, who has accepted an invitation to attend, or if this is impossible, to send a representative who will express his personal attitude toward the sports men. The differences which existed between the state administration and the league for two years having been ironed out, the chief executive's utterances will cement ever further the the friendly feeling that has emerged from the smoke of battle.

M. P. Cagers Retain Undisputed Lead In Church League Race

Baptists go to Half-way Mark by Victory Over Penn. Ave. M. E. Five; Chester Presbyterians Defeat U. P. Crew and Advance.

First Baptists and Chester Presbyterians were victorious in Sunday school league basketball contests at the "Y" Saturday night.

The Baptists downed the Pennsylvania Avenue five by the score of 32 to 18, while the Chester Presbyterians won over the United Presbyterians in the last few minutes of play by the score of 23 to 22.

The Baptists rose to the .500 mark by their victory and the Presbyterians went into a tie with the Park Boulevard squad for eighth place, according to statistics for the week. The First Methodist Protestant passers, by virtue of a string of four victories, are leading the race with a perfect average.

In the clash between the Presbyterians, the U. P. five led until the last few minutes of play, when, with the score standing 22 to 16 in the United Presbyterians favor, the Chester lads staged a scoring rally, Wallace, Haney and Devitt finding the basket for seven points.

Wallace, Haney and Devitt were the leaders for the Chester squad, Wallace being the high point man for the Hancock countians. Berg, Roberts and Dickey played the best for the United Presbyterians. Dickey led his team in scoring.

The Baptists-Pennsylvania Avenue Methodist Episcopal game was nip and tuck during the first half, the Baptists leading at the end of the period by the score of 12 to 8.

In the third quarter the Baptists increased their lead over their opponents and in the last canto ran away from the East End lads, easily winning their second game of the season.

G. Mackey for the First Baptists was the individual star of the game, scoring 21 of the Baptists' points.

G. Fugate and Kittridge also played well for the Baptists. Staley, McKim and Cook did well for the East End boys.

The First Baptist Juniors won the preliminary game from the Pennsylvania Avenue Methodist Episcopal Juniors by forfeit. Lineups and summaries.

A Great Success for Chrysler

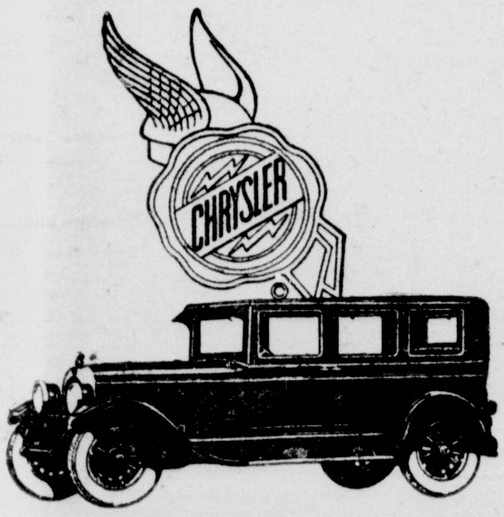

One year has elapsed since the Chrysler Six was first introduced to the American public. In the span of that year, the Chrysler has grown from a mere name to a success the like of which has never been known before.

One year ago, Walter P. Chrysler promised a car that would yield new and revolutionary results. Since then, the Chrysler has more than redeemed its pledge.

In compactness and beauty of design, in quickness of response and flexibility of performance, in economy and facility of operation, in power and in stamina, it has satisfied the long-cherished wants of a critical motoring public.

$50,000,000 and upwards has been paid by Chrysler-wild American motor car buyers for the privilege of enjoying these revolutionary results. 32,000 cars have been built and shipped in an effort to fill the demand.

It is therefore fitting that Monday, January 5th, the Chrysler's first birthday, should be a day of celebration—for the Chrysler organization because of the unparalleled success attained in one year's time—for owners and admirers because of the Chrysler's revolutionary achievements.

GREAT FINN IN TWO EVENTS ON INDOOR TRACK

Ray, Higgins, Hahn and Connolly to Oppose Him.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Not since the days of the Dorando-Johnny Hayes match, aces of happy memory, has New York become so exercised as it has over the impending American debut of Paavo Nurmi, world's greatest runner, at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night. Nurmi will start in a special mile and a five thousand metre run at the Finnish-American A. C. games and his appearance will mark a revival in track and field Atheletics such as followed the 1908 olympics at London where Dorando was carried across the line in the marathon and Hayes, Finnish second, subsequently declared the winner.

That incident made for arch rivalry and the present instance has much in common with it. After being beaten four times by Nurmi at Paris, the American runner who would not give his windpipe for a victory over the Finn, is an American runner without the ambition of a second foot man. Joie Ray, Lloyd Hahn, Walter Higgins and Jimmy Connoily are some of the entries who will essay to take issue with Nurmi over the mile distance.

As far as the writer is concerned, they might as well try to take issue with an antelope. It is said that Nurmi will be handicapped by his lack of familiarity with indoor running, which is probably the case. My idea of an adequate handicap for Nurmi is to call in Houdini and let him do his worst.

The general interest, in fact, is in Nurmi himself and not in the possibility of his defeat. His records have created an aura around him such as no American public can resist and he has added to his attractiveness with a personality that runs strongly to temperament and an immoderate sense of the theatrical. His self-timing during his races is only one of his idiosyncrasies.

Evidence of bad blood between Nurmi and Willie Ritola, Americanized fellow countryman, also has had its popular appeal. Actually, they are as friendly as a pair of ermit crabs but much has been said about the case that does not carry a basis of truth.

It has been declared that their enmity started when Nurmi declined to shake hands with Ritola after the five thousand metre race at Paris. It also has been intimated that they had agreed to set a moderate pace in this event and that Ritola attempted to double cross Paavo by stepping out on him three laps from home. It is to laugh.

Ritola had all he could do to stay on Nurmi's heels through the greater portion of his race. There was no "understanding," no brotherly act about it. Nurmi went out to win and he did. They say that Ritola was less than two yards back at the finish, which is true. But they neglect to state that Nurmi was cake-walking, while he looked back over his shoulder, when the incident in question occurred. He could have stepped five seconds faster while Ritola was all "run out."

As a matter of fact their unfriendliness antedated the incident by several days. It began when Nurmi "propositioned" Ritola on the 10,000 metre race, which he wished to conduct as a two-man, handshaking affair.

Ritola refused to be a party to the proceedings and Nurmi withdrew from the race, which was won by Ritola, some twelve seconds under the world's record. If it was possible to have beaten Nurmi at Paris, Ritola would have done it in this race.

French Star Threatens Reign of Willie Hoppe on Green Table

Roger Conti, French billiard star, now looms up as the most formidable opponent of Willie Hoppe, veteran 18.2 balkline billiard champ, when Hoppe defends his title in February against the world's leading cue artists. Conti indicated his form recently by setting a new world's record for high run in the European 18.2 balkline title tourney. Conti hung up a run of 477.

Conti, though young, is not a newcomer in billiard circles. He has participated in three world's championship matches in the U. S. while keeping up his En- ropean competitions.

Hoppe himself is sincere in his admiration for Conti's play. "If he shows that form in the coming tourney I might just as well give him the title," says William. Conti, however, laughingly remarks that he'd sooner win the crown with his cue than have it presented to him.

Milwaukee Player Tops Association In Batting Record

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—Lester Bell shortstop of the Milwaukee team, was awarded the batting honors of the American association, in the official figures published today. Bell played in 154 games, was officially at bat 630 times, made 230 hits and his batting average was .365.

Five other players topped Bell in the official figures but they had only played a few games and the honors were given to Bell. Bell also tied for scoring the most runs and ranked high in runs batted in.

E. Smith, of Kansas City, was the Association's leading slugger, knocking out 28 homers, 17 tripples and 45 doubles.

Milwaukee finished first in club batting with an average of .299, with Louisville second, two points behind.

KING WILL GO TO CONVENTION OF SPORTSMEN

Sessions Scheduled for January 14 in Columbus.

J. L. King, of Salem, president of the Columbiana County Fish and Game Protective association, will represent the county sportsmen at the annual meeting of the League of Ohio Sportsmen which will open on Wednesday morning, January 14, in the Fort Hayes hotel in Columbus.

Mr. King is the only delegate from the county sportsmen's organization.

The convention is expected to be the most important gathering in the history of organized sportsmen of Ohio. The session will get under way at 9 o'clock on the morning of January 14, continue until late in the afternoon and then after a short adjournment will assemble for the banquet and speechmaking that will wind up the day.

The convention will elect officers for 1925, formulate the platform for its operation this year, decide on the measures in the interest of the sportsmen it will support in the new general assembly and consider all matters from the floor presented by the delegates.

Most Important Bills.

The two most important bills that will be framed for presentation to the general assembly will be the anglers' license and anti-pollution of streams. Both have been fought for for several years and the sportsmen believe the prospects for favorable consideration by the assembly are better than ever before.

In the afternoon session Rev. R. K. Caulk of Medina, the league's spiritual adviser, will give an address pertinent to the future of the organization, which promises to be one of the big features. Rev. Mr. Caulk is noted for calling a spade by its right name, and in his review of the support accorded the league in the past year will have some truths to relate.

A resolutions committee will be appointed early in the convention and its report, probably in the afternoon, will bring on debates that will end in a constructive program which the league will stand back of in the next twelve months.

Festival of Peace.

The big feature of the banquet will be the address of Gov. Vic Donahey, who has accepted an invitation to attend, or if this is impossible, to send a representative who will express his personal attitude toward the sports men. The differences which existed between the state administration and the league for two years having been ironed out, the chief executive's utterances will cement ever further the the friendly feeling that has emerged from the smoke of battle.

M. P. Cagers Retain Undisputed Lead In Church League Race

Baptists go to Half-way Mark by Victory Over Penn. Ave. M. E. Five; Chester Presbyterians Defeat U. P. Crew and Advance.

First Baptists and Chester Presbyterians were victorious in Sunday school league basketball contests at the "Y" Saturday night.

The Baptists downed the Pennsylvania Avenue five by the score of 32 to 18, while the Chester Presbyterians won over the United Presbyterians in the last few minutes of play by the score of 23 to 22.

The Baptists rose to the .500 mark by their victory and the Presbyterians went into a tie with the Park Boulevard squad for eighth place, according to statistics for the week. The First Methodist Protestant passers, by virtue of a string of four victories, are leading the race with a perfect average.

In the clash between the Presbyterians, the U. P. five led until the last few minutes of play, when, with the score standing 22 to 16 in the United Presbyterians favor, the Chester lads staged a scoring rally, Wallace, Haney and Devitt finding the basket for seven points.

Wallace, Haney and Devitt were the leaders for the Chester squad, Wallace being the high point man for the Hancock countians. Berg, Roberts and Dickey played the best for the United Presbyterians. Dickey led his team in scoring.

The Baptists-Pennsylvania Avenue Methodist Episcopal game was nip and tuck during the first half, the Baptists leading at the end of the period by the score of 12 to 8.

In the third quarter the Baptists increased their lead over their opponents and in the last canto ran away from the East End lads, easily winning their second game of the season.

G. Mackey for the First Baptists was the individual star of the game, scoring 21 of the Baptists' points.

G. Fugate and Kittridge also played well for the Baptists. Staley, McKim and Cook did well for the East End boys.

The First Baptist Juniors won the preliminary game from the Pennsylvania Avenue Methodist Episcopal Juniors by forfeit. Lineups and summaries.

A Great Success for Chrysler

One year has elapsed since the Chrysler Six was first introduced to the American public. In the span of that year, the Chrysler has grown from a mere name to a success the like of which has never been known before.

One year ago, Walter P. Chrysler promised a car that would yield new and revolutionary results. Since then, the Chrysler has more than redeemed its pledge.

In compactness and beauty of design, in quickness of response and flexibility of performance, in economy and facility of operation, in power and in stamina, it has satisfied the long-cherished wants of a critical motoring public.

$50,000,000 and upwards has been paid by Chrysler-wild American motor car buyers for the privilege of enjoying these revolutionary results. 32,000 cars have been built and shipped in an effort to fill the demand.

It is therefore fitting that Monday, January 5th, the Chrysler's first birthday, should be a day of celebration—for the Chrysler organization because of the unparalleled success attained in one year's time—for owners and admirers because of the Chrysler's revolutionary achievements.

NEW CENTRAL LOOP CERTAIN

Akron, Youngstown and Canton are Listed.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 5.—With the newly-organized Central League now a certainty, two new cities were admitted Saturday afternoon, Cumberland, Md., and Akron, O., at the second meeting at the Hotel Henry to round out an eight club league. Ralph Lattimore, former minor leaguer, will be manager and owner of the Akron team. Jimmy McGuire and J. Mellinison represented Cumberland. As yet Cumberland does not have the least idea who will pilot its team, but already overtures are being made for the services of Del Gainer, world's series hero of the Boston Red Sox several years ago and more recently a member of the St. Louis Cardinals. Right now Del resides at Elkins, West Va., and Cumberland officials will lend every effort to acquire him as manager.

Practically all of the clubs had representatives at the meeting. Richard Guy of this city was on hand to tell of the progress at Erie. Joe Shoemaker was here to speak for Youngstown, O., who has been fortunate enough to land Honus Wagner, one-time Pirate star, as its skipper. Just what sort of club Wagner will have at Youngstown is difficult to say at this early date. The securing of Wagner was a ten-strike for the Ohioans, for numerous clubs sought the former Bucco idol as manager when he laid aside his baseball togs back in 1917.

Doc Otto and Ray Archibald were in the city for Wheeling, W. Va., while Walter Mollier spoke for Johnstown. Bill Crawford was seen with his advance data for Altoona. A representative was here for Canton, O., but he refused to divulge his name.

William McCullough, president of the league, presided at the meeting. Various moves and business matters were taken up. The six clubs which were chosen at the opening session reported fine progress, and all spoke as though they were going to be right up in the running with strong teams.

In all probability a schedule will be drafted at the next meeting, which has been set for February 8. In the meantime the owners of the eight clubs will notify President McCullough as to other arrangements and where hitches are apt to come up from time to time.

CANTON, Jan. 5—Followers of baseball here are awaiting the next move of professional promoters who have listed this city in a proposed Class B circuit. Canton has not had baseball in organized ranks since 1913. At a recent meeting in Pittsburgh, Fred Crolius, a Dartmouth college graduate, handled Canton's interests though he is not a resident here.

Runyon Says

Baltimore negro, who has fought both men.

Norfolk is an intelligent boxer, a shrewd student of his game. He says Gibbons has no defense for a right hand punch to the body, whereas Wills is the greatest right hand body puncher in the business. It is Wills's strongest blow.

"Gibbons has a good left hook to the liver," says Norfolk. "But Gibbons has no defense for a right-hand punch aimed at his own body.

"I hit him there almost as I pleased with a right hand and, compared to Wills, I'm not much of a body puncher. Wills drives his right to the body with murderous force.

"Gibbons is an extremely smart boxer, the smartest I ever met. He forestalled every move I attempted. But against Will's body punching I think Tom would be helpless.

"Now, then," Norfolk continued, "I've heard some talk of matching Tiger Flowers against Gibbons. The same thing that would be Gibbons's undoing against Wills would be Flowers's downfall against Gibbons. Flowers can't protect his body. Gibbons would make short work of the Tiger with that left hook to the liver."

You will observe that Norfolk is something of a student of boxing style in others. He should know about Tiger Flowers. He once knocked out the Georgia Negro with body punches

The writer encountered two old-time lightweights recently—Leach Cross and Willie Fitzgerald.

Cross is still as lean and angular as in the days of his pugilistic prime. Fitzgerald is fat and heavy. He must weigh close to 200 pounds.

Both once made 135 pounds with ease. They fought two no-decision bouts in 1908 inside of thirty days, one September 11, the other October 2.

At their best, Cross and Fitzgerald could have beaten most of the lightweights of today. The division had more fistic class in their time and prime than at present.

The writer is not one who thinks ALL the old fighters were superior to those of the present. In this specific case, however, there is little doubt about the matter.

In five years, from 1906 to 1911, the division had THREE great champions: Gans, the Old Master; Battling Nelson, and Wolgast, the Michigan Wildcat." It was perhaps the most brilliant period in the history of the lightweight class.

Crass, a crafty man in the ring, is now in business out in Los Angeles, prosperous, healthy. Fitzgerald makes his home in the east. Both just missed being champions.

You old-time "ringworms" may find fond memories of other pugilistic days in a brief roll call of some of the men contemporaneous with Cross and Fitzgerald.

They included, besides Nelson, Gans and Wolgast, Willie Lewis and Harry Lewis, Jimmy Potts, Amby McGarry, Jimmy Britt, Martin Canole, Maurice Sayers, Aurelio Herrera, Jimmy Briggs, Young Erne, Young Donahue, Tommy Quill, Unk Russell, Adam Ryan, Dick Hyland, Tommy Murphy, Uacky McFarland, Joe Rivers, Freddy Welsh— some fair men that list.

With but few exceptions, the lightweights of today would have had hard sledding in this company. The division is run down at the heels, no doubt of that.

Walker Adds Weight For Bout Wednesday With Mike McTigue

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, will weigh nearly 155 pounds when he steps into the ring at Newark on Wednesday in an attempt to lift the light heavyweight crown from the Celtic pate of Mike McTigue. This was made known today when it was stated that Walker was making every effort to put on weight to offset McTigue's advantage in avoirdupois which figures to exceed 20 pounds.

The bout is scheduled to go 12 rounds, but as decisions are taboo in New Jersey, the title can not change hands unless Walker wins by a knockout, on a foul, or McTigue suffers an injury that would prevent him from continuing to the limit.

Break Ground Today For Gigantic Long Island Sport Plant

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Ground will be broken today at Long Island City for the new stadium to be erected there, with a reported capacity of 100 000, by Charles L. Henderson, boxing promoter of Brooklyn. The site of the new structure is just north of the Queensboro Plaza, less than 20 minutes ride from the heart of the Broadway theatrical district. The arena will be available for all kinds of sports but boxing will be favored.

Leonard Ill With Grip.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Benny Leonard, world's lightweight boxing champion, today was reported "a little better" following his collapse in the middle of his vaudeville act at a local theatre yesterday.

"Bennie apparently is suffering from the grippe and has a fever temperature of 103," Joseph Leonard, his brother, said.

NEW
Now on Display

New — value—new quality—a new line of Chevrolet models even better than ever before. Chevrolet has become the world's largest producer of automobiles with modern, 3-speed transmission by making quality cars to sell at low cost. Now this Chevrolet quality has been greatly increased.

New — chassis—with larger, stronger frame; new semi-elliptic, chrome vanadium steel springs; stronger axles, rear axle of the finest construction — banjo type with greatly strengthened gears; improved, fully enclosed dry-plate disc clutch requiring no lubrication; extra heavy brake bands; and many improvements on the powerful Chevrolet motor.

New — bodies—of even greater beauty and comfort. All models have new radiator of more beautiful design, made of non-rusting airplane metal. All closed models have new and exceptionally beautiful Fisher bodies with the new VV closed-body one-piece windshield and automatic windshield wiper.

New — finish—all models are now finished in Duco—a new finish that retains its color and lustre almost indefinitely and withstands very much harder usage. These are but a few of the quality features of the new Chevrolet—quality features that you would expect to find only on cars of much higher price.

NEW CENTRAL LOOP CERTAIN

Akron, Youngstown and Canton are Listed.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 5.—With the newly-organized Central League now a certainty, two new cities were admitted Saturday afternoon, Cumberland, Md., and Akron, O., at the second meeting at the Hotel Henry to round out an eight club league. Ralph Lattimore, former minor leaguer, will be manager and owner of the Akron team. Jimmy McGuire and J. Mellinison represented Cumberland. As yet Cumberland does not have the least idea who will pilot its team, but already overtures are being made for the services of Del Gainer, world's series hero of the Boston Red Sox several years ago and more recently a member of the St. Louis Cardinals. Right now Del resides at Elkins, West Va., and Cumberland officials will lend every effort to acquire him as manager.

Practically all of the clubs had representatives at the meeting. Richard Guy of this city was on hand to tell of the progress at Erie. Joe Shoemaker was here to speak for Youngstown, O., who has been fortunate enough to land Honus Wagner, one-time Pirate star, as its skipper. Just what sort of club Wagner will have at Youngstown is difficult to say at this early date. The securing of Wagner was a ten-strike for the Ohioans, for numerous clubs sought the former Bucco idol as manager when he laid aside his baseball togs back in 1917.

Doc Otto and Ray Archibald were in the city for Wheeling, W. Va., while Walter Mollier spoke for Johnstown. Bill Crawford was seen with his advance data for Altoona. A representative was here for Canton, O., but he refused to divulge his name.

William McCullough, president of the league, presided at the meeting. Various moves and business matters were taken up. The six clubs which were chosen at the opening session reported fine progress, and all spoke as though they were going to be right up in the running with strong teams.

In all probability a schedule will be drafted at the next meeting, which has been set for February 8. In the meantime the owners of the eight clubs will notify President McCullough as to other arrangements and where hitches are apt to come up from time to time.

CANTON, Jan. 5—Followers of baseball here are awaiting the next move of professional promoters who have listed this city in a proposed Class B circuit. Canton has not had baseball in organized ranks since 1913. At a recent meeting in Pittsburgh, Fred Crolius, a Dartmouth college graduate, handled Canton's interests though he is not a resident here.

Runyon Says

Baltimore negro, who has fought both men.

Norfolk is an intelligent boxer, a shrewd student of h's game. He says Gibbons has no defense for a right hand punch to the body, whereas Wills is the greatest right hand body puncher in the business. It is Wills's strongest blow.

"Gibbons has a good left hook to the liver," says Norfolk. "But Gibbons has no defense for a right-hand punch aimed at his own body.

"I hit him there almost as I pleased with a right hand and, compared to Wills, I'm not much of a body puncher. Wills drives his right to the body with murderous force.

"Gibbons is an extremely smart boxer, the smartest I ever met. He forestalled every move I attempted. But against Will's body punching I think Tom would be helpless.

"Now, then," Norfolk continued, "I've heard some talk of matching Tiger Flowers against Gibbons. The same thing that would be Gibbons's undoing against Wills would be Flowers's downfall against Gibbons. Flowers can't protect his body. Gibbons would make short work of the Tiger with that left hook to the liver."

You will observe that Norfolk is something of a student of boxing style in others. He should know about Tiger Flowers. He once knocked out the Georgia Negro with body punches

The writer encountered two old-time lightweights recently—Leach Cross and Willie Fitzgerald.

Cross is still as lean and angular as in the days of his pugilistic prime. Fitzgerald is fat and heavy. He must weigh close to 200 pounds.

Both once made 135 pounds with ease. They fought two no-decision bouts in 1908 inside of thirty days, one September 11, the other October 2.

At their best, Cross and Fitzgerald could have beaten most of the lightweights of today. The division had more fistic class in their time and prime than at present.

The writer is not one who thinks ALL the old fighters were superior to those of the present. In this specific case, however, there is little doubt about the matter.

In five years, from 1906 to 1911, the division had THREE great champions: Gans, the Old Master; Battling Nelson, and Wolgast, the Michigan Wildcat." It was perhaps the most brilliant period in the history of the lightweight class.

Crass, a crafty man in the ring, is now in business out in Los Angeles, prosperous, healthy. Fitzgerald makes his home in the east. Both just missed being champions.

You old-time "ringworms" may find fond memories of other pugilistic days in a brief roll call of some of the men contemporaneous with Cross and Fitzgerald.

They included, besides Nelson, Gans and Wolgast, Willie Lewis and Harry Lewis, Jimmy Potts, Amby McGarry, Jimmy Britt, Martin Canole, Maurice Sayers, Aurelio Herrera, Jimmy Briggs, Young Erne, Young Donahue, Tommy Quill, Unk Russell, Adam Ryan, Dick Hyland, Tommy Murphy, Uacky McFarland, Joe Rivers, Freddy Welsh— some fair men that list.

With but few exceptions, the lightweights of today would have had hard sledding in this company. The division is run down at the heels, no doubt of that.

Walker Adds Weight For Bout Wednesday With Mike McTigue

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, will weigh nearly 155 pounds when he steps into the ring at Newark on Wednesday in an attempt to lift the light heavyweight crown from the Celtic pate of Mike McTigue. This was made known today when it was stated that Walker was making every effort to put on weight to offset McTigue's advantage in avoirdupois which figures to exceed 20 pounds.

The bout is scheduled to go 12 rounds, but as decisions are taboo in New Jersey, the title can not change hands unless Walker wins by a knockout, on a foul, or McTigue suffers an injury that would prevent him from continuing to the limit.

Break Ground Today For Gigantic Long Island Sport Plant

'Y' VOLLEYBALL SQUADS RESUME

The contests are carded for tonight: Laughlin 5 vs. Smith-Phillips and Laughlin 6 vs. Decorators.

Leonard Ill With Grip.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Benny Leonard, world's lightweight boxing champion, today was reported "a little better" following his collapse in the middle of his vaudeville act at a local theatre yesterday.

"Bennie apparently is suffering from the grippe and has a fever temperature of 103," Joseph Leonard, his brother, said.

CHEVROLET

Now on Display

New value—new quality—a new line of Chevrolet models even better than ever before. Chevrolet has become the world's largest producer of automobiles with modern, 3-speed transmission by making quality cars to sell at low cost. Now this Chevrolet quality has been greatly increased.

New chassis—with larger, stronger frame; new semi-elliptic, chrome vanadium steel springs; stronger axles, rear axle of the finest construction — banjo type with greatly strengthened gears; improved, fully enclosed dry-plate disc clutch requiring no lubrication; extra heavy brake bands; and many improvements on the powerful Chevrolet motor.

New bodies—of even greater beauty and comfort. All models have new radiator of more beautiful design, made of non-rusting airplane metal. All closed models have new and exceptionally beautiful Fisher bodies with the new VV closed-body one-piece windshield and automatic windshield wiper.

New finish—all models are now finished in Duco—a new finish that retains its color and lustre almost indefinitely and withstands very much harder usage. These are but a few of the quality features of the new Chevrolet—quality features that you would expect to find only on cars of much higher price.

San Carlo Company Operas Break Theatre Attendance Marks

According to reports which recently reached here from Pittsburgh, Detroit and other cities where the noted San Carlo Grand Opera Company has been playing, show an unusual situation—that grand opera, often considered as entertainment only for musical people, played to far greater business in those cities than did any of the popular musical comedies, including the great comedian, Al. Jolson, with a new show. On the recent engagement in Pittsburgh, the houses were sold out and the San Carlo achieved its greatest business ever done in Pittsburgh, taking in $32,000 in a single week, a record for grand opera even in that city.

Following this tremendously successful engagement, the company went to Detroit and at the lake city they played to larger houses than ever before. The police reserves had to be called to drive away from the theatre nearly 1,000 persons who tried to buy tickets after the houses were sold out. A similar condition occurred in Syracuse and in Rochester, N. Y., and this experience has almost been a common one for the celebrated opera company this season.

Grand opera's popularity never was considered as great as that of the musical comedies or dramatic shows, among the general class of audiences. However, with the San Carlo traveling to every city in the United States during the last 18 years, the interest and love of opera has spread. Now many cities consider the season incomplete without a visit from their favorite San Carlo. This, and the fact that the prices for the opera are always the same, and are of the popular variety, has done much to assure the success of this noted organization of singers.

"God Knows," All Woman Slayer of Four Has to Say

"God knows about it." This is all Mrs. Emma Hobough (inset), 80, has to say now about shooting to death her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Bassler, 60 and 67 respectively, her brother, John, 22, and her own daughter, Viola, 3, in the Bassler farmhouse (shown above) near Logansport, Ind. When she was arrested she complained of being ill-treated by her family. She is described by her neighbors as a religious fanatic.

Separated 42 Years Brother Meets Sister At Gotham Harbor

NEW YORK—Frederick Kemmer, of Cleveland, made certain when his sister, Mrs. Jane H. Tufnail, arrived from England on the Caronia, that she would recognize him after a separation of 42 years, he wore a huge semi-sandwitch sign inscribed: "Frederick Kemmer, Cleveland, Ohio."

Forty-two years ago Kemmer, then a youth, left his home, at Gravesend, England, to emigrate to the United States. He settled in Cleveland and never returned to his birthplace.

Recently his sister decided to visit him. He feared that time had changed the features of both so that recognition might be impossible. Hence the identification card he wore.

San Carlo Company Operas Break Theatre Attendance Marks

According to reports which recently reached here from Pittsburgh, Detroit and other cities where the noted San Carlo Grand Opera Company has been playing, show an unusual situation—that grand opera, often considered as entertainment only for musical people, played to far greater business in those cities than did any of the popular musical comedies, including the great comedian, Al. Jolson, with a new show. On the recent engagement in Pittsburgh, the houses were sold out and the San Carlo achieved its greatest business ever done in Pittsburgh, taking in $82,000 in a single week, a record for grand opera even in that city.

Following this tremendously successful engagement, the company went to Detroit and at the lake city they played to larger houses than ever before. The police reserves had to be called to drive away from the theatre nearly 1,000 persons who tried to buy tickets after the houses were sold out. A similar condition occurred in Syracuse and in Rochester, N. Y., and this experience has almost been a common one for the celebrated opera company this season.

Grand opera's popularity never was considered as great as that of the musical comedies or dramatic shows, among the general class of audiences. However, with the San Carlo traveling to every city in the United States during the last 18 years, the interest and love of opera has spread. Now many cities consider the season incomplete without a visit from their favorite San Carlo. This, and the fact that the prices for the opera are always the same, and are of the popular variety, has done much to assure the success of this noted organization of singers.

Separated 42 Years Brother Meets Sister At Gotham Harbor

NEW YORK—Frederick Kemmer, of Cleveland, made certain when his sister, Mrs. Jane H. Tufnail, arrived from England on the Caronia, that she would recognize him after a separation of 42 years, he wore a huge semi-sandwitch sign inscribed:

"Frederick Kemmer, Cleveland, Ohio."

Forty-two years ago Kemmer, then a youth, left his home, at Gravesend, England, to emigrate to the United States. He settled in Cleveland and never returned to his birthplace.

Recently his sister decided to visit him. He feared that time had changed the features of both so that recognition might be impossible. Hence the identification card he wore.

Queen Sophie of Greece is now living in Florence with her daughter in an apartment barely large enough to house the two, a lady-in-waiting and a governess.
